The Elements of New Testament Greek

Since 1914 Cambridge University Press has published The Elements of New Testament Greek, a best-selling textbook for scholars and students of the Bible. The original book by H.P.V. Nunn was replaced and succeeded in 1965 by J.W. Wenham's book of the same title; now Jeremy Duff has produced a new book to continue this long-established tradition into the twenty-first century.

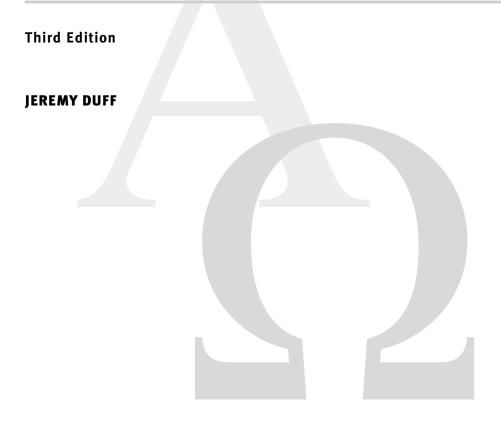

Learning Greek is a journey of many steps. In this book every one of these steps is explained clearly and reviewed using practice questions and exercises. The lessons are ordered so that the most important aspects of Greek are learnt first and the vocabulary consists of the most commonly occurring words in the New Testament. The hundreds of examples cover every book of the New Testament and there is a New Testament passage to translate in almost every chapter.

Software containing drills for vocabulary and grammar, additional practice sentences and a Tutor's pack of PowerPoint™ slides is available to complement this book and may be found on-line at http://www.cambridge.org/0521755514. An audio CD set containing the vocabulary, paradigms and New Testament passages from the book is also available as a study aid (ISBN 0 521 61473 2).

JEREMY DUFF is Director of Lifelong Learning in the Liverpool Diocese and Canon of Liverpool Cathedral. Previously he taught Greek and New Testament at Oxford University.

DAVID WENHAM is Dean of Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, and teaches New Testament at Oxford University.

Foreword

When I was approached by Cambridge University Press and asked if I would be interested in writing a revision of my late father's The Elements of New Testament Greek, I was grateful for the invitation, but I declined. I am someone who uses Greek in my work, but I have not taught beginners' Greek very much at all. My father's book came out of practical classroom teaching, and any effective revision would have to be done by a teacher.

Dr Jeremy Duff is such a teacher, and a very effective one. When he began teaching Greek at Wycliffe Hall in Oxford, what is often an unpopular subject suddenly started to go down very well. Students actually enjoyed Greek! So it occurred to me that Jeremy would be a worthy reviser of the Elements. I was very glad that Cambridge University Press, having been put in touch with Jeremy, agreed that he should be given the task of revising the book.

In fact what has come out is much more than a revision. It is in almost all respects a brand new book, though arising out of Wenham. There is an excellent precedent for such a revision, because my father's work was a similarly radical revision of H.P.V. Nunn's earlier book.

My pleasure in writing this foreword is twofold. First, Jeremy is a friend and a colleague of mine at Wycliffe Hall in Oxford; he is someone who has brought energy and interest to the college, and not just to the teaching of Greek. Secondly, of course, I am glad to write this foreword because of my father. He was amazed at how long and well his version of the Elements lasted. It is a tribute to how good his book was that it went on and on while other books came and went. But he firmly expected it to be superseded before too long, and I am sure he would be glad to see it superseded by someone like Jeremy! And maybe it is good anyway to be superseded as the author of a Greek textbook: my father sometimes said that he was probably the best-hated name in the theological college world. That was in the days when most theological students had to study Greek, even if they weren't any good at it and even if they didn't wish to. Maybe the hatred is diminished now, but if Jeremy is willingly taking over the role of best-hated name, then we may be grateful on my father's part!

The other side to that, of course, is that significant numbers of people in many countries are grateful for my father's book. Learning Greek may be a slog, especially for some; but, just as with learning a musical instrument, the rewards for hard work can be very great.

Admittedly, that point is not appreciated by many in the modern world. Studying ancient languages seems completely pointless to them. It isn't, of course. Historical study, including the study of ancient languages, can be most instructive for understanding culture and for understanding human beings and human nature. But for most of those who study New Testament Greek it is not just any old historical language: it is a door into the Christian Scriptures, which makes it significant for anyone who is interested in Christianity. For Christians it makes it very significant indeed, since the Bible is their foundational text, which they believe to have been given by God's inspiration and to contain God's word for the world.

This was my father's interest in it. He wrote numerous books on the Bible, starting with Christ and the Bible, in which he showed that Christian reverence for the Bible has its roots in Jesus' own teaching. His interest in Greek was because he believed that the Bible should be studied with great care: the words matter, and so does the original meaning of those words. Translations are often very good, but not always, and going back to the original is very worthwhile, as well as exciting for those who get some facility in the language.

I am personally grateful to my father for the example and inspiration he was as a Christian scholar who cared about the Bible and its words, and who encouraged me and many others to study it with academic integrity and honesty. Those many others include thousands of those who have been helped to get into the Greek New Testament through his book.

One of my favourite stories in the New Testament is the account of the walk to Emmaus in Luke 24: Jesus' two companions comment on how their hearts 'burned within them' as Jesus opened the Scriptures to them. Studying Greek isn't always as exciting as that, but I hope that Jeremy's book, like my father's, will be used by many and prove a door into understanding the New Testament and the remarkable person it portrays.

> David Wenham, Dean and Tutor in New Testament at Wycliffe Hall, Oxford.

Preface

Students are the ones who matter. Students, and more generally all those wishing to learn, are the only reason for teachers and academic books to exist. For ninety years those wishing to learn to read the New Testament in Greek have been ably served by The Elements of New Testament Greek published by Cambridge University Press. First, in the book of that name by H.P.V. Nunn published in 1914, and then in its 1965 replacement by J.W. Wenham. So successful was John Wenham's book that for much of its forty-year history it has been the standard first-year Greek course not only in the UK but across large parts of the English-speaking world. For generations of students, 'Wenham' was synonymous with Greek.

Wenham's success was that he cared about students and did everything possible to make learning 'the elements' of New Testament Greek as simple and painless as possible. The most striking example of this was his handling of Greek accents. The scholarly tradition behind the use of accents went back many centuries, though not, as Wenham was keen to point out, back to the time of the New Testament itself. Nevertheless Wenham dispensed with accents. Or at least he dispensed with most of them – keeping only the few cases where they were useful to the student in distinguishing between otherwise identical words. Even today many scholars and teachers find this regrettable, if not even scandalous. I have never met a student, though, who shares that opinion. The student working hard to master the basic structure and vocabulary of New Testament Greek welcomes every help and simplification offered. Wenham wrote his book for them.

Time moves on, however, and by the mid-1990s Wenham's The Elements of New Testament Greek was beginning to look dated. Greek might not have changed much, but students had. It was time for Wenham to be replaced, just as Nunn had been forty years earlier. It was a great privilege to be asked to undertake this task.

Wenham explained his relationship to Nunn in these words: 'This started out as a radical revision, it ended as a new book.' The same is true of this book. Having taught Greek using Wenham, I was convinced of the soundness of his approach – step-by-step learning of grammar and vocabulary, clear explanations, lots of practice exercises, and the overriding principle of teaching only 'the elements' of New Testament Greek, not every 'interesting' peculiarity. However, it could be improved and updated. Its handling of participles was often criticised for being too late, and too dense. It did not contain enough New Testament in its examples and exercises. The drip-feed of forty-four chapters wore students down. It seemed to assume a knowledge of grammatical forms. Its opening English grammar was off-putting. Its lack of a proper Greek–English dictionary was infuriating. It seemed old-fashioned.

This book aims to stand in continuity with Wenham. Other approaches to learning Greek are possible and are represented in the multitudinous Greek grammars available. But the aim of this book has been to continue with the basic approach of Wenham, and Nunn before him, but to update, improve and revise as appropriate. As I have worked on this revision, I have been overwhelmed by the amount of good-will towards The Elements of New Testament Greek within the Greek-teaching 'community'. Partly, of course, this is because many of them first encountered Greek under Wenham's guidance. But more significantly, it is because they have struggled to find anything better. For one reason or another many have moved on from Wenham, experimenting with more recent books. And yet they remain unsatisfied – what is wanted is a 'twenty-first-century Wenham'. I hope that in some measure this book fulfils that need.

A large number of different people have helped in the writing of this book. Particular mention must be made of Susan Blackburn Griffith, who did much of the labour in producing the vocabulary lists and exercises. Thanks also are due to Jon Connell, Travis Derico, Claerwyn Frost, Jon Hyde, Hannah Rudge, Rachel Thorne and Richard Trethewey. Without their work and support it is unclear if the book would ever have seen the light of day.

Initial drafts have been used across the world by various teachers and their students, whose feedback has contributed in countless ways to the final shape and content of this book. The teachers can be named: Atsuhiro Asano, Stephanie Black, Mark Butchers, Philip Church, Peter Groves, Nicholas King, Jonathan Pennington, Marian Raikes, Daniela Schubert, Margaret Sim, Matthew Sleeman, Henry Wansborough and Paul Woodbridge. Their students, who pointed out both the good and the bad in the early drafts, are unknown to me, but deserve thanks none the less. I have also felt greatly supported in this endeavour by the wide community of Greek teachers. Among these, special thanks are due to John Dobson, who despite being the author of a notable beginners' Greek textbook himself which takes a rather different approach, provided invaluable comments on a draft version. Naturally the mistakes and infelicities that remain are mine; indeed, various of the those mentioned above will soon discover where I failed to take their advice.

More personally, four people deserve credit in different ways for sparking off and nurturing my own interest in Greek: Douglas Cashin, Rodney Lavin, John Roberts and Brenda Wolfe. More than anyone though, thanks for this belong to Tim Duff, the real Greek expert in the Duff family. Many of the trials and tribulations of 'the Wenham project' have been borne by my wife Jill with characteristic love and wisdom. Final credit, though, belongs to my own students in Oxford who for almost ten years have inspired me to keep honing and developing the material, have been gracious to my mistakes and supportive of improvements, and most of all have convinced me of the value of teaching Greek. It is to them, and future students, that this book is dedicated.

Jeremy Duff Wycliffe Hall, Oxford May 2004

The aim of this book

This book has a single aim:

To help you learn enough Greek to read the New Testament.

This might seem obvious for a book entitled The Elements of New Testament Greek. However, there are many books designed for those beginning to study New Testament Greek that do not focus exclusively on this aim. The point will become clearer if I highlight certain things that this book does not aim at.

This book does not set out to present my understanding of New Testament Greek. It is a book for you, not for me. If I want to impress my colleagues with my Greek expertise, I will do that elsewhere. You deserve a book written to help you. In the same way it is not a 'Greek Grammar', as if my work was merely to set out Greek grammar, and it is then up to you to understand it and learn it. This is a textbook, written to help you in the process of learning.

This book does not try to teach you Christianity. It assumes that you want to read the New Testament in Greek in order to understand the New Testament better. For many the reason for wanting to understand it better will be a religious motivation, and that is great – I personally share that motivation. But for others it will be different. You may be unsure about Christianity, or indeed negative towards it. Nevertheless if you want to understand the New Testament better by learning Greek, this book is for you. Knowing Greek is a tool. My aim in this book is to help you acquire that tool, not to persuade you to use it in certain ways. The reason for this approach is straightforward: learning Greek takes some effort, and this book has been written to help. And it can help most if it focuses clearly on the task in hand, and does not try to engage in wider issues. In this book you will get help with learning Greek, and nothing else.

This book does not intend to help you feel superior, to initiate you into the ranks of an elite, or to give you ammunition for pointing out the errors of others. Unfortunately, the teaching of Greek often seems to encourage this. Part of this is natural. You are acquiring a valuable new skill that will aid your understanding of the New Testament. You should be proud of this. It should help you see the truth of what the New Testament says more clearly. However, Greek is a language, not a theological weapon. Understanding a language comes slowly. Gradually you will begin to appreciate the difficulties of Bible translators, and see how there are emphases, connections and flavours present in the Greek New Testament that are inevitably lost in translation. There are many riches to be gained from reading the New Testament in Greek. However, if you hope that after four lessons of Greek you will be shown theological secrets undreamt of by those relying on translations, you will be sadly disappointed. Reading the New Testament in Greek rather than in English is like watching a sports game on television rather than hearing it on the radio. Superior in many ways, but the score does not change.

This book does not pretend that you are leaning Greek as a modern language, or that you are 'picking up the language' as children do. If you were learning Greek to speak it and hear it, you would learn it differently. But you are not. Young children are remarkably successful at learning languages by hearing it all around them and gradually making sense of it. But you are an adult, not a child. And adult learners, in general, want to understand and to make sense of things. After all, they are talented, rational people who are used to understanding what goes on around them. Therefore this book aims to help you progress step by step, explaining how Greek works, and as far as possible highlighting patterns and principles to make sense of what you are being asked to learn. You will not be 'thrown in at the deep end' and expected simply to 'pick it up'.

Finally, the driving force of this book is not for you to have fun. I hope that you will, and you will certainly learn far better if you are enjoying it. However, let us be honest. If you wanted to have fun, you could probably think of many better ways than sitting here reading this book! You are reading this because you want to learn Greek. All Greek teachers struggle with the negative reputation that learning Greek has of being boring, complicated or too difficult. This leads to a great temptation - to sacrifice the goal of people learning Greek upon the altar of ensuring that everyone is happy and that Greek is popular. Thus a wellknown phenomenon is for people to enjoy their Greek lessons greatly, but a year later to be no closer to being able to read the New Testament in Greek for themselves than they were at the beginning. My commitment to you is different. Working through this book will not always be easy. But you can rely on the fact that there is nothing in it that is not focused on helping you read the New Testament in Greek, and that when you have mastered what is in the book, you will be able to do just that. I sincerely hope that you do enjoy learning Greek, just as a coach might hope that the athlete enjoys the training sessions. But the real enjoyment for the athlete comes from winning the medal.

How to use this book

As well as having a clear aim, this book has been designed with particular principles in mind that give it a particular shape and structure. You will find the learning process easier if you understand these principles and are aware of the structure.

KEY PRINCIPLE OF SELECTION

In keeping with the title 'The Elements' and the aim to 'learn enough Greek to read the New Testament', this book does not contain all of the Greek grammar there is to know. Rather it contains all that you need to know to be able to make a good start in reading the New Testament in Greek. There are various irregularities, or rare features of Greek, that are not tackled here: they are best dealt with in context later on when you meet them as you read the New Testament. This book is about equipping you to begin reading the New Testament – you will then improve by practice. The 'Going Further' section at the end of the book (page 237) contains ideas on how to build on what you have learnt. For now we need to focus on what is important.

The order in which material is presented has not been chosen at whim or according to some arcane academic tradition. Rather it is arranged according to what occurs most frequently in the New Testament (with slight alterations according to what forms a logical order for learning). This is most apparent in two areas. First, the order in which grammar is introduced has been based on the relative frequency of the different parts of grammar in the New Testament. Thus many teachers may find the leaving of the Passive until Chapter 15 surprising. However, in practice the Passive is rare in Greek. Similarly rare are many of the uses of the Infinitive (Chapter 18). However, the basic use of participles is common in the New Testament, and therefore it is learnt much earlier here than in many books (Chapter 7). Second, the vocabulary presented in this book is the 600 most common words in the New Testament, organised with the most common ones first (although no word will be introduced before you understand how to use it). Thus as a learner you can be sure that each step you are asked to make has been chosen to be the most useful next step in the development of your understanding of Greek.

CHAPTERS

There are twenty chapters in this book. Each of these focuses on a particular area of Greek grammar, as you build up your knowledge of the Greek language step by step. Each chapter is designed to be equally challenging. If you can handle the first chapter, you just need to repeat that nineteen more times, and you will be there.

KEY GRAMMAR, HINTS AND ENGLISH GRAMMAR

The major part of the text in each of the chapters is explanation – helping you to understand a particular element of the Greek language. However, at regular intervals throughout the text you will see four different types of box appear, each with a different function.

KEY GRAMMAR

This box contains a brief oneline summary of the point being discussed. Learn and remember these points and you are halfway there.

Hint

This box contains a hint or suggestion to help you with the point being discussed. They do not add to the proper explanation, but rather are an aside – something that might help you remember it or recognise it in practice.

These boxes contain a cross-reference to the comparative guide to English grammar on pages 240–9. This is because Greek is often very similar to English and a pause to think about how something works in English might make the corresponding point in Greek easier to understand.

1 Tim. 1.1: Παυλος ἀποστολος Χριστου Ἰησου ...

This marks out quotations from the New Testament, which provide a preview of the grammar point about to be explained in the following section. Many students find that these examples give a useful introduction to what is about to come and provide a 'fixed point' they can look back to as they start to learn the detail.

EXERCISES AND PRACTICE

You learn by doing, not just by seeing. Therefore throughout the book there are exercises and practices for you to do. These fall into a number of different categories.

Practice: After each important grammar point in every chapter there is a practice section containing a number of very brief (often one word) questions. These are focused directly on the piece of grammar that has just been explained. Thus the practice questions are aimed at helping reinforce that particular grammar point.

Half-way practice: This occurs at about the mid-point in each chapter, except in the first two. It always consists of twelve short sentences (eight from Greek to English, four from English to Greek) giving an opportunity to consolidate the first half of the chapter before going on to the second part.

Sentences: At the end of each chapter, there are two sets of sentences (Chapter 1 is different since by then we have only learnt the alphabet). Each of these consists of twelve sentences for you to translate (again eight Greek to English, four English to Greek). These sentences have been chosen to help you practise what you have learnt in that chapter (grammar and vocabulary), while also integrating it into what you have learnt in previous chapters.

Thus the practice questions have been specifically created to help you focus on the new thing you are learning, while the exercises help you put this new thing in the context of what has gone before (and help you keep practising what you have already learnt). The sentences themselves are not taken directly from the New Testament – unfortunately it was not written in such a way as to provide enough sentences that only used or practised certain words or points of grammar. However, nor were the sentences simply made up. Instead, as far as possible, they are based on phrases and sentences from the New Testament that have been altered to suit the learning need – for example one word of vocabulary replaced with another. This means that from the beginning you are meeting exactly the sort of Greek that you will find in the New Testament, even if it has been altered to fit the needs of the stepby-step approach. It also means that occasionally you will notice that a sentence does not obey the rules that you have learnt. This will be because the New Testament passage it is drawing on did not follow the rules precisely either - Greek is a language, not a mathematical code. One part of learning a language is understanding which rules are a little flexible and which are not.

If you are interested in where the sentences have been drawn from, a list is provided on pages 330–2. It can be useful to see some of the slightly more unusual phrases in their original context. Of course, you can also practise your New Testament knowledge by trying to guess the source for the sentences. How many can you identify?

You might wonder why you need to translate from English into Greek (you want to read the New Testament, not write it!). Some teachers feel that this is not an important exercise, but many believe that it is only when you try writing some Greek yourself that you really understand how it works.

Passages: At the end of each chapter (except for the first two) a passage from the New Testament is given, quoted exactly. These have been chosen so that you should be able to translate them. However, there are always odd items that you have not yet met – particularly items of vocabulary. Therefore help is given in brackets [like this] throughout these passages. Thus the sentences are drawn from the New Testament but have been altered to fit what you know. The passages are exact quotations from the New Testament, with some extra help given.

Answers: There are many good reasons for giving the answers to the questions in the back of the book. In particular, it helps you take control of your learning. You can try out the question, and then look and see whether you have got it right. If not, you can then try to work out why. After all, the aim of the exercise is to help you learn, not to demonstrate what you do or do not know. However, as a teacher it can be helpful to be able to set questions to which you know answers are not provided, for then you can see how different learners are progressing and what further guidance they might need. Therefore, answers are provided in the back to the practice questions and to half of the sentences (section A sentences). Also, an answer to the passages can be found in any English Bible. However, no answers are provided to the section B sentences, to give your teacher the opportunity of seeing your unaided work.

VOCABULARY

This book makes use of 600 Greek words. These have been chosen to be the most common words in the New Testament, plus a handful of others that are needed to illustrate important elements of Greek grammar, or that are particularly worth learning. This works out as meaning all of the words that occur at least twenty-three times in the New Testament, plus a handful of others. It may surprise you to learn that these words represent over 90 per cent of all the words in the New Testament. Thus familiarity with these words is an important goal to aim at: learn to recognise these 600 words, and you will recognise 90 per cent of all the words in the New Testament.

Take the following entry in the vocabulary at the end of Chapter 2 as an example:

This means that the Greek word  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\circ\varsigma$  (pronounced an-gel-os) occurs 175 times in the New Testament and means 'messenger' or 'angel'. The one Greek word overlaps with the meaning of two English words. Which would be the best way to translate it in any given situation would depend on the context. Of course, what is going on underneath is that an angel is a messenger of God, and hence it is not surprising that Greek uses the one word with both meanings – a messenger in general, or a messenger of God. You should be aware that it is rare that a word in one language is exactly equivalent to one word in another language. There are often shades of meanings or 'flavours' that a word has which the 'equivalent' word in the other language does not have. However, you need to walk before you can run. Focus for the moment on learning the 'basic English equivalent(s)' of the Greek words you meet. Over time you will gain an appreciation for the particular 'flavour' of different Greek words.

Learning words is never easy, but it is important: grammar with no words is dead. You should follow your teacher's guidance in what he or she wants you to memorise, but the book is designed on the basis that you do learn the vocabulary step by step. If you try to learn too many words all in one go it becomes very difficult, but broken down into weekly or daily portions it is achievable with a bit of determination, and the fact that you know that the word occurs many times in the New Testament can be an encouragement.

A hint for learning vocabulary - you need to engage your whole body in the process, not just your eyes. Staring at the list of words will get you nowhere. Write them out, say them aloud, test your friends; different approaches suit different people, but do something, don't just stare. Also, it is very important to have a system of going back to the words you have previously learnt. As you keep on learning, half forgetting and then revisiting words, they will gradually stick permanently in your mind. Also, after each vocabulary, a number of 'word helps' are given, which are words in English that are derived from the Greek words in the vocabulary. For example, the English word 'agriculture' can help you remember that the Greek word  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\rho\sigma\varsigma$  (pronounced ag-ros) means 'field'. Your first step in becoming familiar with the vocab should be working out which Greek word these 'word helps' relate to. Finally, for a particularly troublesome word, it can be helpful to think of a funny illustration involving the word. For example, to remember that  $\delta o \nu \lambda o \zeta$  (doo-los) means 'slave', remember that 'slaves do lots', or remember προσωπον (pros-oh-pon) meaning 'face' by the phrase 'pour soap on'. Have a competition with your friends for who can think of the best ways of remembering the words.

TWO PATHWAYS

As noted above, this book makes use of 600 Greek words. The first chapter contains eight words that you can understand as soon as you know the alphabet. All of the rest of the chapters contain thirty-two words. The last chapter contains the final sixteen words. One pathway to learning the elements of New Testament Greek using this book is to learn these words chapter by chapter as you progress.

Some teachers, however, find that thirty-two words in a chapter is too many, given that you are trying to master the grammar as well. Therefore this book contains an alternative pathway, focused around a more limited vocabulary of 390 words. In each vocab list and in the Greek–English dictionary, certain words are marked with an asterisk (e.g.  $*\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$ ). These are the words that form this more limited yocabulary. The practice questions have been chosen so that they use only this more limited vocabulary. The sentences do use all of the words, not just these marked ones (since those taking the other pathway need practice in all the words). However, in each set of sentences at least half of them are marked with an asterisk to indicate that they use only words from the more restricted group. Thus, there are two pathways:

- 1. Aim at all 600 words, allowing you to do any practice questions and sentences.
- 2. Just focus on the 390 asterisked words, allowing you to do any practice questions, and those sentences marked with an asterisk (and the others, of course, if you are willing to look up the odd words unfamiliar to you).

DICTIONARIES

At the end of this book there are two dictionaries – one 'Greek–English' and one 'English–Greek'. These dictionaries simply gather together all of the words presented in the vocabularies at the end of each chapter. The entries for  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda$ oc (the example used above) read as follows.

άγγελος (175) – messenger, angel 2 angel (messenger) – άγγελος (175) 2 messenger (angel) – άγγελος (175) 2

Notice the number 2 after each of these entries. This tells you that the word is first introduced in Chapter 2. The 175 is the number of times  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\circ\varsigma$  occurs in the New Testament. Notice also that in the Greek–English dictionary both possible English equivalents are given, and that in the English–Greek dictionary you are reminded of the range of meaning of the Greek word by the mention in brackets of other possible English translations.

GRAMMAR REFERENCE

Towards the end of this book you will find grammar reference tables. For easy reference these gather together in one place material that has been introduced throughout the book.

The history of the Greek language

Greek is a remarkable language. We first have examples of it written down in the thirteenth century BC, and it continues to be written and spoken by millions of Greeks across the world today. Throughout this long history it has changed and evolved in many different ways, but it has always remained Greek. Such developments are not degeneration from best to worst, nor progress from simple to complex. They are simply change. As you embark on your study of Greek, it is useful to understand a little of this history, if only so that you understand what is meant by terms such as 'classical' or 'koine' or 'modern' Greek.

Our first glimpse of Greek is around 1300 BC, because we possess tablets dating to that period written in Greek, though using a different script (called Linear B). We then lose sight of it during the so-called 'dark ages' (dark because they have left us no written records) until about the eighth century BC, when we have our first inscriptions using the Greek alphabet. Not long after this the poems of Homer were written down, one of the great glories of the Greek language. By the fifth and fourth centuries BC Athens had grown to be the cultural capital of the Greek world, producing great drama, oratory, history writing and philosophy. Later this was seen as the 'golden age' of Greek literature and language - 'classical' Greek. The next crucial step came with Alexander the Great, who in ten years conquered all the lands between Greece and India. In his wake came 'hellenization' - the spreading of Greek language and culture. While certain aspects of Greek culture caused controversy (for example among some Jews), the language soon became the international language across a huge area. This language was known as 'common Greek' (the Greek word for 'common' is  $\kappa_{01}$  or  $\kappa_{0$ sometimes also call it 'hellenistic Greek'). This is the language of the New Testament. By the time of Jesus the Romans had become the dominant military and political force, but the Greek language remained the 'common language' of the eastern Mediterranean and beyond, and Greek was still seen as the language of culture. However, many writers at this time thought that the normal spoken language of their day was inelegant and so imitated the 'classical' Greek of hundreds of years before. On the whole, though, the New Testament texts show little sign of this (except, perhaps, Luke, Acts and Hebrews): they are written in common (koine) Greek, the language of normal people at the time.

Greek continued as the language of the Eastern Roman Empire (the Byzantine Empire) through to its destruction in the fifteenth century AD. Around the same time during the Renaissance in Western Europe, Greek began to be studied by scholars in order to gain access to the great Greek literature of the ancient world, including the New Testament. In the process the idea of two types of Greek – classical and New Testament – was formed, though in fact New Testament Greek is just the standard language of its day and not a separate category. Meanwhile, of course, Greeks continued to speak Greek, throughout their domination by the Empire of the Ottoman Turks, and it became the official language of the new Greek state at its independence in 1821.

The alphabet

1.1 THE LETTERS OF THE GREEK ALPHABET

The first task in learning Greek is to learn the alphabet, which consists of twenty-four letters. Many are similar to English ones, and you may already be familiar with some others (for example, pi  $\pi$  and theta  $\theta$  from mathematics). Learning the alphabet has three parts.

1.1.1. Learning how to write each of the Greek letters

In Greek, just as in English, different people will have different styles of handwriting. Also, printed Greek often looks a little different from handwritten Greek. That is fine – the aim is not to win prizes for the artistic quality of your lettering. What matters is for the different letters to be clearly distinguished from each other. In practice, you will probably copy the style of your teacher.

1.1.2. Learning which sounds the different Greek letters make

Greek has been spoken for over three thousand years, and in many different dialects. This means that there is no single right way to pronounce Greek. What matters is to make each letter have its own distinctive sound. It is also useful if your pronunciation is similar to that of other biblical scholars (and your teacher and classmates) so you can understand each other.

You may wonder why pronouncing the letters is important at all, since your desire is to read Greek, not speak it. The answer is that is it almost impossible to learn vocabulary (and grammar) by sight alone – it is saying the word to yourself that helps it stick in your mind. This is why Modern Greek pronunciation is not suggested here, for in Modern Greek several vowels are pronounced alike, which makes remembering the correct spelling very difficult.

1.1.3. Learning the order of the Greek alphabet

This is important because you need to know Greek 'alphabetical order' in order to look words up in a dictionary. It is very similar to English alphabetical order, and starts alpha, beta, which is where the word 'alpha-bet' comes from.

Greek Letter		Call	ed	Written	Sound	Note
Normal	Capital	In English	In Greek	in English
α	А	Alpha	άλφα	a	a as in 'h a t'	1
β	В	Beta	βητα	b	as English b
γ	Г	Gamma	γαμμα	g	hard g as in 'get'	2
δ	$\Delta$	Delta	δελτα	d	as English d
ε	Е	Epsilon	ἐψιλον	e	short e as in 'm e t'	1
ζ	Z	Zeta	ζητα	Z	as English z
η	Н	Eta	ήτα	ē	long e as in 'ob ey '	1, 3
θ	Θ	Theta	θητα	th	as English th
ι	Ι	Iota	ίωτα	i	i as in 'h i t'	1,4
κ	Κ	Kappa	καππα	k	as English k	5
λ	Λ	Lambda	λαμβδα	1	as English l
μ	М	Mu	μυ	m	as English m
ν	Ν	Nu	νυ	n	as English n	6
ξ	Ξ	Xi	ξι	х	as English x
0	0	Omicron	ὀμικρον	0	short o as in 'n o t'	1
π	П	Pi	πι	р	as English p
ρ	Р	Rho	ρφ	r or rh	as English r	7,8
$\sigma$ or $\varsigma$	Σ	Sigma	σιγμα	S	as English s	9
τ	Т	Tau	ταυ	t	as English t
υ	Y	Upsilon	ὐψιλον	u	as English u	1,10
φ	Φ	Phi	φι	ph or f	as English f
χ	Х	Chi	χι	ch or kh	hard as in 'lo ch '	5
ψ	Ψ	Psi	ψι	ps	as in 'li ps '
ω	Ω	Omega	ώμεγα	Ō	long o as in 't o ne'	1

Notes

1 While there are five vowels in English, there are seven in Greek. This is because there are separate letters for the 'long' and 'short' versions of 'e' and 'o'.

Short	α	3	ι	0	υ
Long	α	η	ι	ω	υ

Thus,  $\alpha$ ,  $\iota$  and  $\upsilon$  can be either short or long (hat or father, hit or antique, but or ruse) but focus on the short pronunciation for now.

- 2  $\gamma\gamma$  is pronounced as 'ng'. Thus  $\alpha\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\circ\varsigma$  is angelos (angel).
- 3 There are notable variations in how  $\eta$  is pronounced. While here 'obey' is suggested, others say 'bear' or 'honey'. I suggest that you follow your teacher's way of pronouncing it.
- 4  $\iota$  can sometimes behave as a consonant when it begins a word (i.e. like a y in English). Thus I $\alpha\kappa\omega\beta$  is Yakōb (Jacob).
- 5 Ensure that there is a difference in sound between  $\kappa$  and  $\chi$ , by (over-) emphasising the 'h' sound in  $\chi$ .
- 6 Watch v it looks like an English v but is an n (there is no v in Greek).
- 7 Greek  $\rho$  should really be pronounced 'aspirated' (i.e. as 'rh' or rolled).
- 8 Watch  $\rho$  it looks like an English p but is an r (the Greek p is  $\pi$ ).
- 9 The letter σιγμα is written in two different ways, depending on where it is in the word. If it is the last letter of a word it is written ς, otherwise σ. Look at the two occurrences of the letter σιγμα in Χριστος (Christos – Christ).
- 10 It can often be helpful to know that in English words derived from Greek the v has become a y (e.g.  $\mu v\sigma \tau \eta \rho v v \rightarrow mys$ tery).

Writing the letters

There is no special way in which to write the letters – it is sensible to begin by copying how someone else writes them (i.e. your teacher) and develop your own style from there. A few pointers can be given though:

- Some people write  $\gamma$  with a loop at the bottom  $\gamma$ .
- ı is written without a dot.
- Notice the difference between  $\upsilon$  (round bottom) and  $\nu$  (pointed bottom).
- Many of the letters are written without taking the pen off the page, and with curves rather than straight lines. In particular,  $\beta$ ,  $\delta$ ,  $\theta$ ,  $\rho$ ,  $\sigma$  and  $\omega$ .

The relative heights of the letters are important. The following chart shows which parts of the letters are written above the line and which below. In general, however, Greek letters are far more uniform in their size than English ones, the majority of every letter being contained within the lines.

αβγδεζηθικλμνξοπροςτυφχψω

- $\beta$ ,  $\delta$ ,  $\zeta$ ,  $\theta$ ,  $\lambda$  and  $\xi$  stretch above the line (and the central stroke of  $\varphi$  and  $\psi$  in many people's handwriting). Contrary to English,  $\kappa$  and  $\tau$  do not.
- $\beta$ ,  $\gamma$ ,  $\zeta$ ,  $\eta$ ,  $\mu$ ,  $\xi$ ,  $\rho$ ,  $\varsigma$ ,  $\phi$ ,  $\chi$ ,  $\psi$  have 'tails' which stretch below the line.

PRACTICE 1.1

A. Write out the Greek alphabet (small letters) in order and the English equivalents of each letter.

Hint

Use ē to represent  $\eta$  and ō for  $\omega.$

- B. Write out the English alphabet and give the Greek (small) letter equivalent to each one as far as possible (ignore h, q, v and w).
- C. Write the sound of the following Greek words in English letters. Also, since these words have come into English from Greek, have a guess at their meaning.

Hint

Greek puts special endings on words, so when thinking which English words may have been derived from a Greek word, ignore the Greek ending. Also remember (note 10 above) that a Greek  $\upsilon$  is often equivalent to an English y.

1.	βαπτισμα	4.	μεγας	7.	παραβολη
2.	θρονος	5.	μικρος	8.	παραλυτικος
3.	κοσμος	6.	μυστηριον	9.	σαββατον

D. The following are real Greek words written in English letters. Write them in Greek (small) letters, and have a guess at their meaning.

1.	blasphēmē	4.	mētēr	7.	prophētēs
2.	kardia	5.	patēr	8.	pyr
3.	logikos	6.	pneumatikos	9.	phōnē

1.2 BREATHINGS

Breathings are a mark over a vowel to show whether it is spoken normally or at the same time as breathing out heavily – which is equivalent in English to placing an 'h' in front of the vowel (think about 'am' and 'ham'). The technical term for this adding of an 'h' to a vowel is called aspiration. In fact there are two breathing marks in Greek – the rough breathing marking that the vowel should be aspirated (pronounced with an 'h' before it), and the smooth breathing marking that it shouldn't.

It is only possible to aspirate a vowel if it is the first letter of a word. Therefore vowels that occur elsewhere are left without breathings, since by definition they will be unaspirated. Vowels at the beginning of a word that should be aspirated carry the rough breathing, and those that shouldn't carry a smooth breathing – not to alter the pronunciation, but just to mark the absence of an 'h'.

	Sound / English	Written	Example
Rough breathing	h	c	άγιος (hagios – holy)
Smooth breathing	nothing	,	άγγελος (angelos – angel)

Notes

- Breathings are written on top of the letter ἀ, ἁ, ἐ, ἑ, ἡ, ἡ, ἰ, ἱ, ὀ, ὑ, ὑ, ὡ, ὡ.
- Smooth breathings are not optional just because they are not pronounced (εκκλησια must be wrong – it should be ἐκκλησια – church)
- In addition, if a ρ is the first letter in a word, it must carry a rough breathing ρ (because a Greek ρ is always aspirated), e.g. ραββι – rabbi.

Every Greek vowel ( $\alpha$ ,  $\epsilon$ ,  $\eta$ ,  $\iota$ , o,  $\upsilon$ ,  $\omega$ ) at the beginning of a word must have a breathing

PRACTICE 1.2

In which of these Greek words is there an error in the breathing?

1. αγω	2. βλεπω	3. ἐχω	4. λἐγω	5. πιστευω
--------	----------	--------	---------	------------

1.3 CAPITAL LETTERS

Capital letters are used less frequently in Greek than in English – only for the beginning of speech, paragraphs and names (i.e. not for the start of sentences).

Their form is given on the chart of the alphabet earlier. Most of these are easy to remember. However, H, P, Y and X look like the wrong English letters. Also the capitals  $\Gamma$ ,  $\Delta$ , M,  $\Xi$ ,  $\Sigma$  and  $\Omega$  are unlike their small equivalents.

If a breathing needs to be put on a capital letter, the breathing is placed just before the letter e.g.  $i\sigma\rho\alpha\eta\lambda$  (Israel).

1.4 DIPHTHONGS AND IOTA SUBSCRIPTS

When two vowels are pronounced together it is called a diphthong. In English, for example, 'bear' is pronounced with the two vowels 'e' and 'a' combined to make a single sound. There are seven common diphthongs in Greek.

αι	'ai' as in Th ai land, or the English word 'eye'
ει	'ei' as in v ei l, or the 'ay' in s ay
01	'oi' as in oi l
υι	ʻui' as in q ui t

αυ	'au' as in s au erkraut, or the 'ow' in h ow
ου	'ou' as in s ou p, or the 'oo' in h oo p
ευ / ηυ	'eu' as in f eu d, or the English word 'you'

If a diphthong begins a word, the breathing is put over the second of the letters of the diphthong, e.g.  $\alpha i \mu \alpha$  (haima) – blood.

There are vowel pairs which occur that are not diphthongs. In these cases, the pair is treated as two separate letters – they are pronounced separately, and any breathing comes on the first letter, e.g.  $\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\nu$  (e-an) – if;  $\upsilon i \circ \varsigma$  (hui-os) – son;  $\epsilon \dot{\upsilon}\alpha\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\iota\circ\nu$  (eu-angelion) – good news.<sup>1</sup>

The iota subscript is a special form of diphthong. It occurs when an iota follows a long vowel  $(\eta, \omega, \text{ or long } \alpha)$ , particularly at the end of a word. By convention these iota are written 'subscripted', i.e. under the long letter thus:  $\alpha$ ,  $\eta$ ,  $\omega$ . These are not pronounced (the  $\iota$  being swallowed up in the long vowel). This is unfortunate, since they must be written and if they are not pronounced it is easy to overlook them. Thus  $\lambda o \gamma \omega$  is pronounced as logō, but for the moment think of it in English as logō(i).

PRACTICE 1.3 AND 1.4

A. Write these names in English letters
1. Παυλος	3. ᾿Αβρααμ	5. Σιμων	7. Ἰερου σ αλημ
2. Μαρια	4. <sup>ʾ</sup> Ιωσηφ	6. Ἡρῷδης	8. Kaisa $\rho^2$

B. Write these names in Greek letters

1. Barnabas	3. Philippos	5. Timotheos	7. Satanas
2. Petros	4. Pilatos	6. Joudaea <sup>2</sup>	8. Pharisaios

C. Here is the first half of the Lord's Prayer from Matthew (6.9-10). Work out how to pronounce it. (To begin with the easiest way of doing this may be to write it out in English letters.)

Πατερ ήμων ὁ ἐν τοις οὐρανοις ἁγιασθητω το ὀνομα σου ἐλθετω ἡ βασιλεια σου γενηθητω το θελημα σου ὡς ἐν οὐρανῷ και ἐπι γης

1.5 ACCENTS AND STRESS

Ancient Greek was written without accents. However, naturally when people spoke the language there were accepted ways of pronouncing the words. After the period of the New Testament a system of writing accents (acute ', grave ` and circumflex ^) gradually emerged until it developed into the system for accentuation now followed by scholars of Greek, and present in printed copies of the New Testament. This system probably reflects the way the words were originally pronounced – with the accents showing what were originally changes of pitch in the pronunciation of words, and then later changes of stress.

However, accents are not taught in this book, for three important reasons.

- 1. Accents were not present in written Greek in the New Testament period.
- 2. The rules of accentuation are complicated, and you have enough to learn.
- 3. Accents don't help you translate or understand Greek.

Point three is not completely true – in a very small number of situations accents can distinguish between two similar or identical-looking words. In these cases, a special note will be given pointing this out, and these are collected together on pages 273-4 in the reference section.<sup>3</sup>

However, as a matter of tradition printed Greek texts still use accents. Therefore, to help you get used to seeing an accented text, when sample passages from the New Testament are printed in this book they will be printed with accents. Otherwise accents will not be used, except when they are useful in distinguishing between identical looking words. You should not try to learn the accents now.<sup>4</sup>

This leaves the question of where you should put the stress when pronouncing Greek words. As with the question of the pronunciation of the letters themselves, this is a matter of some dispute, and not central to your immediate needs, so just concentrate on pronouncing the word clearly (and follow your teacher's suggestion).

KEY GRAMMAR Breathings – Essential Accents – Unimportant, so ignore

Which of the following words has a smooth breathing?

1. βάλλω 2.  ἄγω 3. εύρίσκω 4. ἄγιος 5. ἰῶτα

1.6 PUNCTUATION

Ancient Greek was written with little punctuation. However, there is a standard system now accepted for punctuation, which does make reading the text very much easier (unlike the accents).<sup>5</sup> In Greek there are four punctuation marks.

Greek	English Equivalent	Used for
. (on the line)		End of sentence
,	,	Minor break within a sentence
• (above the line)	; or :	Major break within a sentence
;	?	Questions

Also, if a word beginning with a vowel follows a word ending in a vowel elision will sometimes take place – the final vowel of the first word is dropped, and this fact is marked by an apostrophe ', e.g.  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\lambda$ '  $\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\omega$  instead of  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\alpha$   $\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\omega$ .

Which are questions?

1. βλεπεις;	2. ἐχω .	3. λυουσιν.	4. βαλλει;	5. λεγετε,

VOCAB FOR CHAPTER 1

(The numbers in brackets after the Greek word are the number of times the word occurs in the New Testament. The asterisked words are in the more limited group of 390 words – see the discussion of the two pathways presented in this book on page 7.)

Seven Hebrew words, written in Greek just as they sound

Exercises

It is important to get used to going from Greek letters to the sound they make (i.e. being able to pronounce the Greek words), and from the sound of a word to the Greek letters you would use to represent it. Without this, Greek will remain just a series of marks on a page, and this makes it almost impossible to learn. As mentioned on page 7, the best way to learn vocabulary or grammar is by the sound of the words or testing your friends, both of which require you to be able to write and read Greek letters happily.

1. Work out how to pronounce the following passage from John 1.1-14. To begin with, the easiest way of doing this may be to write it out in English letters. To distinguish between the long and short versions of 'o' and 'e' you may find it helpful to use 'e' for  $\varepsilon$ , ' $\overline{\varepsilon}$ ' for  $\eta$ , 'o' for o, and ' $\overline{o}$ ' for  $\omega$ . Although they are not pronounced, represent iota subscripts as (i).

&lt;sup>6</sup> It is arguable how best to translate μαββι. As an Aramaic word it literally means 'my great one', and therefore might be translated 'master' or 'lord'. You can see this in Mark 9.5, where Peter calls Jesus μαββι, while in the same sentence in Matthew (17.4) he calls him κυριος (lord), and in Luke (9.33) ἐπιστατα (master). However, in John 1.38 and 20.16 μαββι is translated into Greek as διδασκαλος (teacher) (see also Matthew 23.8 and John 3.2). This fits with its usage in Aramaic when it is used for revered teachers. However, to translate it into English merely as 'teacher' loses something – μαββι is not the normal Greek word for teacher but is a term coming from a very particular historical and linguistic context. A useful rule is that if a Greek writer uses an Aramaic word (rather than translating it into Greek), then you should keep the Aramaic word (rather than translating it into English). Therefore, I would 'translate' μαββι as rabbi.

Basic sentences

2.1 The present tense of $\lambda\upsilon\omega$

Mark 11.4: λυουσιν αὐτον – they untie him Luke 13.15: λυει τον βουν αὐτου – he unties his ox

The Greek word  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  ('I untie') has different endings to show who is doing the untying  $-\lambda \upsilon \underline{\upsilon \upsilon \sigma \iota \nu}$  = they untie and  $\lambda \upsilon \underline{\varepsilon \iota}$  = he unties. The one Greek word means more than one English word  $-\lambda \upsilon \varepsilon \iota$  means 'he' plus 'unties'.

Grammatical	Greek	English
Label		Either	Or
1 st person singular	λυω	I am untying	I untie
2 nd person singular	λυεις	You are untying	You untie
3 rd person singular	λυει	He, she or	He, she or it is untying	it unties
1 st person plural	λυομεν	We are untying	We untie
2 nd person plural	λυετε	You are untying	You untie
3 rd person plural	λυουσιν	They are	They untie
	or λυου σ ι	untying

The Present tense of the Greek verb  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ , which means 'I untie', is as follows.<sup>1</sup>

Notes

 2nd singular and plural: Notice the distinction between λυεις and λυετε. Greek distinguishes between 'you' meaning one person ('you Person?

&lt;sup>1</sup> Technically, this is the Present Indicative Active of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . We will meet other tenses than the Present in Chapter 6, other moods than the Indicative in Chapter 7, and other voices than the Active in Chapter 15. However, don't worry about these distinctions at the moment – you have to walk before you can run!

singular' –  $\lambda \upsilon \varepsilon \iota \varsigma$ ) and more than one person ('you plural' –  $\lambda \upsilon \varepsilon \tau \varepsilon$ ) in a way that modern English does not. Keep thinking, 'Is this "you singular" or "you plural"?'

- 3rd singular: The 3rd singular means 'he', 'she' or 'it'. The context will usually reveal which is appropriate.
- 3rd plural: Notice the two possibilities λυουσιν or λυουσι. Either form is acceptable, though the form including the 'optional v' is more common.

2.1.1 Endings, roots and conjugations

Each of these six forms of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  can be split into two parts:

the stem:  $\lambda v$ the ending:  $-\omega$ ,  $-\varepsilon \iota \zeta$ ,  $-\varepsilon \iota$ ,  $-0\mu\varepsilon v$ ,  $-\varepsilon \tau \varepsilon$ ,  $-0v\sigma \iota v$ .

The stem denotes the basic meaning of the word:  $\lambda v$  meaning 'untie'. The ending indicates the person (who is doing the action):

-ω	means	Ι	-ομεν	means	we
-εις	means	you singular	-ετε	means	you plural
-81	means	he, she or it	-ουσιν	means	they

Put stem and ending together and we have a single Greek word (e.g.  $\lambda \upsilon \omega \nu$ ) which means several English words ('we are untying').

A pattern of the forms of a verb (a particular set of endings on the stem) is called a conjugation. We have now learnt the Present (Indicative Active) conjugation of  $\lambda v \omega$ . You can now conjugate it (i.e. go through the pattern in order).

Verb? See it in English Section 1.2 Page 242

One Greek word often means more than one English word

The good news is that almost all Greek verbs follow the same pattern (conjugation) as  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . Thus if you know that 'I say' is  $\lambda \varepsilon \gamma \omega$  and 'I see' is  $\beta \lambda \varepsilon \pi \omega$ , then you can work out all six forms of each verb:

λεγω	I am saying	βλεπω	I am seeing λεγεις	You (sing.) are saying	βλεπεις	You (sing.) are seeing λεγει	He, she or it is saying	βλεπει	He, she or it is seeing λεγομεν	We are saying	βλεπομεν	We are seeing λεγετε	You (pl.) are saying	βλεπετε	You (pl.) are seeing λεγουσιν	They are saying	βλεπουσιν	They are seeing

2.1.2 Meaning of the Present tense

The Present tense in Greek signifies an action:

- taking place in the present
- which is either (a) process or (b) undefined in nature.

Thus  $\lambda v \omega$  can be translated in English as either: (a) I am untying, or (b) I untie. Which is the more appropriate depends on the context.

Translate

 1. λαμβανει.
 4. ἐχετε.
 7. She is throwing.

 2. διδασκομεν.
 5. βλεπω.
 8. They have.

 3. ἀκουουσιν.
 6. λυεις.
 9. We are leading.

Hint The vocabulary you need is listed on page 29 at the end of the chapter. Verbs are always given in their most simple form in a vocabulary list or dictionary

(e.g. the 1st person singular form of the Present Indicative Active).

2.2 THE PRESENT TENSE OF -εω VERBS (φιλεω)

1 John 1.10: ψευστην ποιουμεν αὐτον – we make him a liar

ποιεω (I make/do) has very slightly different endings from  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . 'we make' is ποιουμεν not ποιεομεν.

There are many Greek verbs whose stem ends in  $\varepsilon$ , such as  $\varphi \iota \lambda \varepsilon \cdot \omega$  'I love'. They are called  $-\varepsilon \omega$ verbs. These verbs are regular and have exactly the same endings as  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . However, the weak KEY GRAMMAR

Greek grammar is very regular, but with many minor adjustments when certain letters combine

KEY GRAMMAR

Once you know the Present of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ , you know the Present of almost every Greek verb<sup>2</sup> exposed  $\varepsilon$  at the end of the stem combines with the vowel at the beginning of the ending. This combining or contracting of the vowels means these verbs are also known as 'contract verbs'.

The rules for the contractions are:  $\varepsilon + \varepsilon \rightarrow \varepsilon \iota$

 $\epsilon + o \rightarrow ov$   $\epsilon + any long vowel or diphthong is absorbed$  $(i.e. the <math>\epsilon$  disappears without making any difference)

Thus, the Present Indicative Active of φιλεω is:

	Actual Form	The process of getting there
I am loving You are loving He, she or it is loving We are loving You are loving They are loving	φιλω φιλεις φιλει φιλ ου μεν φιλ ει τε φιλουσιν οι φιλουσι	$\varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon} + \underline{\omega} \rightarrow \varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\omega}$ $\varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon} + \underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\zeta \rightarrow \varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\zeta$ $\varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon} + \underline{\varepsilon}_{i} \rightarrow \varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon}_{i}$ $\varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon} + \underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\varepsilon \rightarrow \varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\varepsilon$ $\varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon} + \underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\varepsilon \rightarrow \varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\varepsilon$ $\varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon} + \underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\varepsilon \rightarrow \varphi_{i}\lambda\underline{\varepsilon}_{i}\varepsilon$

Hint

-εω verbs like  $\varphi_i\lambda_{E\omega}$  are always listed in vocabularies or dictionaries in their uncontracted form (i.e.  $\varphi_i\lambda_{E\omega}$ ) although in fact this form will never be found in actual Greek (since it would have contracted into  $\varphi_i\lambda_{\omega}$ ).

2.3 THE NOMINATIVE AND ACCUSATIVE CASES

John 6.24: εἰδεν ὁ ἀχλος – the crowd saw Mark 6.34: εἰδεν πολυν ἀχλου – he saw a great crowd

The Greek word for crowd changes depending on how it fits into the sentence  $-\partial \chi \lambda \underline{o} \underline{c}$  when the crowd is doing the seeing,  $\partial \chi \lambda \underline{o} \underline{v}$  when it is being seen.

2.3.1 The forms of $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \varsigma$

Nouns, like verbs, are inflected in Greek. This means that each noun will have a stem and an ending – the stem denoting the basic meaning of the word, and the ending communicating more precise information about the function of the word in this particular sentence.

A noun occurs in one of five cases (forms used to indicate the word's function in the sentence, such as being the subject), and in either the singular or the plural (whether a noun is singular or plural is called its number, which shouldn't be confused with verbs being in the 1st, 2nd or 3rd persons). The pattern of endings for a noun is called a declension: going through them is called declining it. While most verbs conjugate like  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ , nouns fall into in a number of different declensions. We will first learn the declension of  $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \varsigma$ , which means 'word'.

Case	Number
	Singular	Plural
Nominative Accusative	λογος λογον	λογοι λογους

Using  $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \varsigma$  as a pattern, you can work out the nominative and accusative forms, both singular and plural, of many other Greek nouns (some are listed in the vocabulary at the end of this chapter).

Examples

- ἀδελφος (brother): ἀδελφος, ἀδελφον, ἀδελφοι, ἀδελφους.
- κυριος (lord): κυριος, κυριον, κυριοι, κυριους.

PRACTICE 2.3.1

1.	ἀρτον	3.	ούρανους	5.	ὀχλος	7.	δουλοι
2.	ἀγγελοι	4.	ບ ໍ່ເວເ	6.	θεους	8.	νομον

Noun? See it in English Section 1.1 Page 241

Inflection? See it in English Section 6 Page 246

2.3.2 The meaning of the nominative and accusative cases

In English, word order distinguishes subject from object – the subject comes before the verb, the object s after the verb. Thus 'the dog bites the man' means something rather different from 'the man bites the dog'.

In Greek, cases distinguish subject from object. Word order does not matter.<sup>3</sup>

2.3.3 Forming a sentence

We now need to put together a verb and one or more nouns to form a sentence.

- βλεπεις. You (singular) see.
- βλεπεις ἀγγελον. You (singular) see an angel.
- blepeic dygelous. You (singular) see angels.

Note: There is no word for 'a' (indefinite article) in Greek. Thus  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$  means 'word' or 'a word' – the context will make it clear.

Once we use a noun (in the nominative) as the subject of the sentence, we meet the important concept of agreement. The different parts of the sentence have to fit properly together.

So, if the subject is singular, the verb must be singular, and if plural the verb must be plural.

Hint

We do this in a limited fashion in English – he sees, they see

Also, if the verb is in the 1st or 2nd persons (I, we or you) there is unlikely to be a separate subject (because the verb itself contains the 'I, we or you' information). However, if there is a separate subject (e.g. 'the king', 'a girl', 'the mountain', 'pigs') then the verb will be in the 3rd person (he, she, it or they).

Nominative – Subject Accusative – Object

· ·	ind object?
	Section 3 Page 245

Verbs agree with their subject in number

&lt;sup>3</sup> Or at least word order in Greek only communicates a difference in emphasis, not in meaning. This is discussed further in Chapter 5, section 5.7.

Examples

	•
•	βλεπετε.	_	You see.
•	άγγελος βλεπει.	_	An angel sees.
•	βλεπετε άγγελον.	_	You see an angel.
•	δουλος βλεπει ἀγγελον.	_	A slave sees an angel.
•	δουλοι βλεπουσιν άγγελον.	_	Slaves see an angel.
•	δουλοι βλεπουσιν άγγελους.	_	Slaves see angels.
				Hint
	There are three steps to translation	on:		IIIII
	1. Work out the cases of the words.
	2. Work out why the diffe	rent	words have the cases they do.

- 3. Translate the sentence accordingly.
- κυριος έχει δουλους.
- 1. κυριος is nom. sing.
- 2. κυριος is nom. because it is the subject δουλους is acc. the object
- 3. Sentence = 'A lord has slaves.'

δουλους κυριος ἐχει would mean exactly the same, since κυριος is still nominative and so the subject, and δουλους accusative so the object. The change in word order would not change the sentence's meaning, although the stress would have changed; there is more on word order and stress in Chapter 5 (section 5.7).

PRACTICE 2.3.3

Translate

- 1. ἀδελφος διδασκει ὀχλους.
- 2. ζητουμεν άρτον.
- 3. δουλους λυεις.
- 4. κυριος λεγει λογον.
- 5. ἀνθρωποι καλουσιν.

- 6. ἀγγελοι τηρουσιν νομους.
- 7. A brother sees a house.

δουλους is acc. pl.

- 8. People are watching.
- 9. We love a world.
- 10. God leads.

2.4 THE DEFINITE ARTICLE

In Greek the definite article ('the') also has to be declined. It must always agree with the noun it is going with in case and number. It will normally come immediately before the noun. (Note that because there is no indefinite article 'a' in Greek, the definite article is often referred to simply as 'the article'.)

Case	Number
	Singular	Plural
Nominative	ò	οί
Accusative	τον	τους

Examples

- $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\epsilon\iota\varsigma \underline{\tau} ov dy \epsilon\lambda ov.$  You (singular) see the angel.
- οί ἀγγελοι βλεπουσιν.
- The angels see.
- ἀνθρωπος βλεπει τους ἀγγελους. A person sees the angels.

In comparison  $\delta$   $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ v$  cannot be right, whatever is meant, since  $\delta$  does not agree with  $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ v$ .

2.5 SPECIAL USES OF THE DEFINITE ARTICLE

Normally the definite article is used in Greek in the same situations as 'the' in English. However, there are three special uses of the article in Greek.

- 1. Names. Greek often uses the definite article before a name e.g.  $\delta \Delta \alpha \upsilon \iota \delta =$  David (not 'the David').
- Abstract Nouns. Greek normally uses the definite article with abstract nouns or generalisations, e.g. ὁ ἀνθρωπος can mean 'the person', but can also mean 'humanity' in general; similarly ὁ νομος can mean 'law' (as a concept) as well as 'the law'.
- 3. God. Writers from a monotheistic perspective will also normally use the article before  $\theta \varepsilon o \varsigma$  (similar to the distinction in English between 'god' and 'God').

&lt;sup>4</sup> Often when foreign words are used in Greek they are indeclinable. This is true of all seven Hebrew words in the vocab for Chapter 1. A word being indeclinable means that its form does not change, regardless of the case it is in. Thus, for example, 'Aβρααμ could be nominative or accusative (though normally, being a name, it will appear with the definite article, thus: ό 'Aβρααμ, τον 'Aβρααμ).

Cases and gender

3.1 THE GENITIVE AND DATIVE CASES

Rev. 19.1: ἀκουσα ... φωνην ... ἀχλου – I heard the sound of a crowd Matt. 23.1: ὁ Ἰησους ἐλαλησαν τοις ὀχλοις – Jesus spoke to the crowds Changing the endings on ὀχλος can express the idea of 'of' or speaking 'to'.

There are two more cases in which nouns can occur:

Case	₀́ – t	he	λογος – word
	Singular Plural		Singular	Plural
Genitive Dative <sup>1</sup>	του τφ	των τοις	λογου λογφ	λογων λογοις

The genitive case equates to the use of of in English (or adding 's); the dative is used to denote the person or thing to or for which anything is done, which is technically known as the indirect object.<sup>2</sup>

Indirect object?

Section 3 Page 245

Examples

- δ άγγελος του θεου λεγει τον λογον. Genitive – Possessor ( $\approx$  'of') Dative – Indirect object ( $\approx$  'to' or 'for')
- 1.  $\delta \dot{\alpha}\gamma \epsilon \lambda \circ \varsigma = \text{the angel} nominative}$  του θεου = God genitive του λογον = the word - accusative
- Angel is nom. because it is the subject God is gen. the possessor Word is acc. – the object

&lt;sup>2</sup> There are other, less common, uses of the genitive and dative which we shall meet later.

The Elements of New Testament Greek

- Sentence = 'The angel of God speaks the word.' 3.
- ό άγγελος λεγει τω δουλω. •
- $\dot{o}$  ἀγγελος = the angel nom. 1.
- Angel is nom. because it is the subject 2.
- Sentence = 'The angel speaks to the slave.' 3.
- ό άγγελος λεγει τον λογον του θεου τω δουλω.
- 1.  $\delta \dot{\alpha} \gamma \epsilon \lambda \delta \varsigma = \text{the angel} nom.$  $\tau \circ \nu \lambda \circ \gamma \circ \nu = \text{the word} - acc.$ του θεου = God – gen. τω δουλω = the slave – dat.
- 2. Angel is nom. because it is the subject Word is acc. - the object God is gen. - the possessor Slave is dat. – the indirect object
- 3. Sentence = 'The angel speaks the word of God to the slave.'

PRACTICE 3.1

If these sentences were in Greek, which case would the underlined word be in?

- 1. I like lectures.
- 2. The teacher's voice is boring.
- 3. I am cooking for my wife.
- 4. The students eat many cakes.
- 5. I have the books of a friend.
- 6. We are making a hat for the tutor.
- 7. I hate essays.
- Classes end too quickly. 8.

Give the case and number of the following

9.	ἀδελφου	11.	τους	13.	των	15.	νομοι
10.	κυριοις	12.	δουλφ	14.	κοσμου	16.	θεον

SPECIAL USES OF THE GENITIVE AND DATIVE 3.2

Earlier, in Chapter 2, section 2.3, we learnt that the accusative is used for the object of a verb. In grammatical language, most verbs 'govern' a noun in the accusative. Thus, 'he sees an angel' is  $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\epsilon\iota$  ἀγγελον –  $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega$  governs a noun in the accusative (its object); or as it is often put –  $\beta \lambda \epsilon \pi \omega$  takes the accusative'.

In Chapter 3, section 3.1 we learnt the general meaning of the dative cases. In fact certain verbs are always likely to govern a noun in the dative, because they naturally have an indirect object. For example, after  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  (I say) you often get a noun in the dative expressing to whom you are speaking:  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega \tau \omega \kappa \upsilon \rho \omega - I$  am speaking to the master'. However,  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  can have a normal object (in the

- τω δουλω = the slave dat.
- Slave is dat. the indirect object accusative) – the thing which is said:  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega \frac{\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \nu}{\tau \omega} \tau \omega \kappa \upsilon \rho \iota \omega$  – 'I am speaking a word to the master'. This can be summarised as:

 $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  means 'I speak', + accusative of thing said, + dative of person spoken to.

For  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  this matches English, since in English we use the word 'to' in front of the person spoken to. However, English and Greek do not always match in this way. Therefore, if a word habitually governs a noun in a case other than the accusative this will be stated in the vocabulary lists and dictionary.

For example, in the vocab for this chapter, you will see the word  $\pi_{I}\sigma\tau\epsilon_{U}\omega$  which means 'I believe (in), trust, have faith in'. This is listed as  $\pi_{I}\sigma\tau\epsilon_{U}\omega + dat$ . because the person or thing you believe/trust/have faith in is put in the dative (e.g.  $\pi_{I}\sigma\tau\epsilon_{U}\omega \tau_{Q}\lambda_{Q}\gamma_{Q} - I$  believe the word).

We can now also add a further detail to one of the items of vocabulary learnt in Chapter 2:

άκουω – I hear, listen to + acc. of thing heard, + gen. of person heard

Examples

- ἀκουομεν του κυριου We hear the Lord
- $\dot{\alpha}$ κουομεν τον λογον We hear the message
- $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon v o v \sigma i v \tau \phi \theta \epsilon \phi They believe in God$

- 12. You speak to the crowd.

3.3 FEMININE AND NEUTER NOUNS

Mark 13.31: ὁ οὐρανος και ἡ ỵῃ παρελευσονται - (The) heaven and (the) earth will pass away ούρανος and γη are both subjects and therefore nominative, but they have different endings because they come from different patterns of words – οὐρανος is masculine and γη is feminine.

3.3.1 The idea of gender

So far we have met one type of noun – those which decline like  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$ . Almost all of these words are masculine. We now need to learn how to decline the main family of feminine nouns, and the main family of neuter nouns.

When we talk of masculine, feminine and neuter, this refers to a grammatical gender, which is a way of classifying nouns. Sometimes it will match what English speakers might think the gender of the nouns should be, but sometimes it will not. In effect, rather than talking of masculine, feminine and neuter nouns, we could just as well talk about class 1, class 2 and class 3 nouns, or even blue, green and yellow nouns. 'Gender' is just a way of grouping together nouns that behave in similar ways.

Chapter 8 contains more about the gender of nouns. For now, though, things are simple:

- nouns ending in  $-o\zeta$  are masculine and decline like  $\lambda o \gamma o \zeta$
- nouns ending in -η or -α are feminine and decline like ἀρχη, ἡμερα or δοξα
- nouns ending in -ov are neuter and decline like ἐργον

So, for example, because  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\pi\eta$  ends in - $\eta$  you know that it is feminine.

	Case	Feminine words	Neuter words
		(beginning)	(work)
Sing.	Nom.	ἀρχη	ἐργον
	Acc.	ἀρχην	ἐργον
	Gen.	ἀρχης	ἐργου
	Dat.	ἀρχης	ἐργῳ
Plural	Nom.	ἀρχαι	ἐργα
	Acc.	ἀρχας	ἐργα
	Gen.	ἀρχων	ἐργων
	Dat.	ἀρχωις	ἐργων

3.3.2 The feminine and neuter declensions

Notes

- The nom. and acc. of  $\dot{\epsilon}\rho\gamma\sigma\nu$  are identical. This is always true for neuter words.
- There is a special rule for neuter plural nouns. They normally take a singular verb. Thus 'the children keep the law' is 'τα τεκνα τηρει τον νομον' not 'τα τεκνα τηρουσιν τον νομον'.

Neuter plural nouns take a singular verb

PRACTICE 3.3.2

What case and number are the following words in?

1.	ἀγαπην	3.	τεκνα	5.	ἀδελφαις	7.	ψυχη
2.	εὐαγγελιφ	4.	γης	6.	βιβλιων	8.	δαιμονιου

3.3.3 The feminine and neuter of the definite article. agreement

The definite article ('the') also comes in a feminine and neuter form, supplementing the masculine forms we have already seen.

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ό	ή	το
	Acc.	τον	την	το
	Gen.	του	της	του
	Dat.	τφ	τη	τω
Plural	Nom.	οἱ	αί	τα
	Acc.	τους	τας	τα
	Gen.	των	των	των
	Dat.	τοις	ταις	τοις

We have already learnt that the definite article must agree with the noun it is going with in case and number. It also must agree in gender.

Article and noun agree in gender, case and number

PRACTICE 3.3.3

Which part of the definite article agrees with these nouns?

1.	θεον	3.	ἐργων	5.	τεκνα	7.	ζωην
2.	ἀγαπῃ	4.	ἀρχη	6.	λογοις	8.	ίερα

3.3.4 Overview of nouns and the article

This chart, putting the definite article ('the') in all its forms alongside the masculine, feminine and neuter nouns, highlights the patterns and similarities.

		Mase Article	Masculine Article Noun				Neuter Article Noun
Sing.	Nom. Acc. Gen. Dat.	ό τον του τω	λογος λογον λογου λογφ	ή την της τη	ἀρχη ἀρχην ἀρχης ἀρχης	το το του τω	ἐργον ἐργον ἐργου ἐργου ἐργῳ
Plural	Nom. Acc. Gen. Dat.	οἱ τους των τοις	λογοι λογους λογων λογοις	αἱ τας των ταις	ἀρχαι ἀρχας ἀρχων ἀρχαις	τα τα των τοις	ἐργα ἐργα ἐργων ἐργων

Note: The endings of the article are the same as the endings of the nouns of the corresponding gender, except in the masculine nominative singular and the neuter nominative and accusative singular.

3.3.5 Variant feminine forms

		(day)	(glory)	(beginning)
Sing.	Nom.	ήμερα	δοξα	ἀρχη
	Acc.	ήμεραν	δοξαν	ἀρχην
	Gen.	ήμερας	δοξης	ἀρχης
	Dat.	ήμερα	δοξη	ἀρχη
Plural	Nom.	ήμεραι	δοξαι	ἀρχαι
	Acc.	ήμερας	δοξας	ἀρχας
	Gen.	ήμερων	δοξων	ἀρχων
	Dat.	ήμεραις	δοξαις	ἀρχαις

Most feminine nouns follow the pattern of  $\alpha \rho \chi \eta$  outlined above. However, in some nouns in the singular only, there are slight variations on this pattern.

Notes

- The pattern is that in the singular  $\dot{\alpha}\rho\chi\eta$  has an  $\eta$ ,  $\dot{\eta}\mu\epsilon\rho\alpha$  an  $\alpha$ , and  $\delta\circ\xi\alpha$  starts with an  $\alpha$  but then changes to an  $\eta$  (they all have an  $\alpha$  in the plural).
- The rule is that if the letter before the ending is
  - a vowel or ρ, it goes like ήμερα
  - σ, ξ, ζ (i.e. any 's' sound), it goes like δοξα
  - anything else, it goes like ἀρχη
- Despite these variations, the feminine of the definite article always follows the same pattern (given in 3.3.3). Thus, for example, ἡ δοξα, την ἡμεραν.

		PRACTICE 3.3.4 AND 3.3
Parse <sup>3</sup> the follow	ving
1. βιβλια	4. τω	7. ζωη
2. οἰκιων	5. ἀρτοις	8. φωναις
3. κυριου	6. την	9. Πετρον

Do the article and noun in the following agree?

10.	ό Χριστον	13.	το ἐργον	16.	τους σημεια
11.	τον λαον	14.	τφ εὐαγγελια	17.	ό Παυλος
12.	την ώραν	15.	την νομον	18.	τας ἁμαρτιαν

3.4 THE VOCATIVE

There is a fifth case in Greek, the vocative, though it is rare and simple.

The vocative is used when addressing people. In form it is almost always identical to the nominative, except in the singular of words that follow the  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$  pattern. Sometimes a word in the vocative is preceded by  $\dot{\omega} - O!$

Vocatives:	S	ingular		Plural
	Most words λογος	As nominative λογε	All words	As nominative

Examples

• Maria, fileis ton kurion; – Mary! Do you love the lord?

John 4.11: λεγει αὐτῷ. Κυριε, οὐτε ἀντλημα ἐχεις.

- She says to him, 'Sir, you have no bucket.'

Rom. 12.1: παρακαλω ούν ύμας, άδελφοι ... – Therefore, bothers, I urge you . . .

Hint

An ancient piece of Christian liturgy is the Kyrie Eleison (κυριε ἐλεησον), which means 'Lord, have mercy'. If you can remember this, it will remind you that the vocative of κυριος is κυριε. (Matt. 17.15: κυριε ἐλεησον μου [my] τον υίον).

PRACTICE 3.4

Which of	these could be	vocatives?
1. θεον	2. ἀδελφη	3. ἀδελφος	4. κυριοι	5. υἱε

3.5 ἶησους

Jesus is unique, at least in grammatical form! The name  $\Pi \sigma \sigma \upsilon \varsigma$  – Jesus or Joshua – declines in a way similar to, but not quite the same as,  $\lambda \sigma \gamma \sigma \varsigma$  (the variations are the result of the strong  $\sigma \upsilon$  sound dominating the normal endings).

Nom. Acc.	'Ιησους 'Ιησουν	(Vocative is Ἰη σ ου)
Gen.	'Iησου
Dat.	'Ιησου

E.g. οἱ ὀχλοι ζητουσιν τον Ἰησουν. – The crowds are seeking Jesus. δ δουλος του Ἰησου λεγει. – The slave of Jesus is speaking.

Hint

Because  $i\eta\sigma\sigma\sigma\sigma$  usually has the definite article, spotting which case it is in is easy  $-\tau\omega$   $i\eta\sigma\sigma\sigma$  must be dative because  $\tau\omega$  is dative and the article and nouns have to agree in case (and number and gender).

3.6 αὐτος

αὐτος is an extremely important pronoun in Greek. It is the  $3^{rd}$  person pronoun. Therefore in the singular it means 'he', 'she' or 'it' depending on its gender, and 'they' in the plural. The English translation of each part of it is given below for ease.

Pronoun? ee it in English Section 1.3 Page 242

		Masculine		Feminine		Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	αὐτος	he	αὐτη	she	αὐτ ο	it
	Acc.	αὐτον	him	αὐτην	her	αὐτ ο	it
	Gen.	αὐτου	his <sup>4</sup>	αὐτης	her <sup>4</sup>	αὐτου	its <sup>4</sup>
	Dat.	αὐτου	to him	αὐτης	to her	αὐτφ	to it
Plural	Nom.	αὐτοι	they	αὐται	they	αὐτα	they
	Acc.	αὐτους	them	αὐτας	them	αὐτα	them
	Gen.	αὐτων	their <sup>4</sup>	αὐτων	their <sup>4</sup>	αὐτων	their <sup>4</sup>
	Dat.	αὐτωις	to them	αὐτωις	to them	αὐτοις	to them

Notes

- The endings of αὐτος are identical to those of the nouns of the appropriate gender (λογος, ἀρχη or ἐργον), except in the neuter nominative and accusative singular where the ending is -o not -ov, though this is the same variation as is found in the article (which is το, not τον).
- $\alpha \dot{\upsilon} \tau \circ \varsigma$  does not normally occur in the nominative, because  $\lambda \upsilon \epsilon \iota$  itself means 'he, she or it unties': there is no need for a word for 'he, she or it'. It can be used in this way for emphasis, but that is discussed in Chapter 9. When translating English to Greek, you should not use  $\alpha \dot{\upsilon} \tau \sigma \varsigma$  in the nominative unless you intend a particular emphasis on the subject.

40 The Elements of New Testament Greek

When the genitive of αὐτος is used to express possession (his, her, its, their) the definite article is used with the noun as well the genitive of αὐτος. Thus 'his word' is not λογος αὐτου but ὁ λογος αὐτου (think of 'his word' as 'the word of him').

Examples

- λαλουμεν αὐτη. We are speaking to her.

Section C

From now on after each chapter a piece of the New Testament will be given for you to translate. These passages will be printed exactly as they appear in the New Testament. Thus (a) the text will be accented (look back at page 17 to understand why accents are ignored in this book but are present in printed copies of the New Testament); (b) there may be words that you have not yet met – their meaning will be given in square brackets.

Prepositions

4.1 BASIC PREPOSITIONS

Mark 12.41: ὁ ὀχλος βαλλει χαλκον εἰς το γαζοφυλακιον. – the crowd throws money into the treasury. John 18.28: ἀγουσιν ... τον Ἰησουν ἀπο του Καϊαφα εἰς το πραιτωριον. – they lead Jesus from Caiaphas into the headquarters.

A preposition is a word (or phrase) in front of a noun (or pronoun) to indicate how it fits into the rest of the sentence:

e.g. (i) God sent the messenger into the village (ii) The women came out from the city.

The key to prepositions in Greek is that they determine the case of the noun that comes after them (the word that they govern). Thus in (i) above, the case of

'village' (and therefore of 'the' which agrees with village) is determined by the 'into', and in (ii) the case of 'city' is determined by 'out from'.

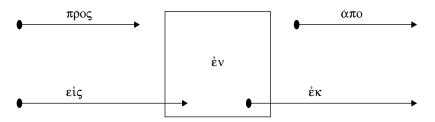

Prepositions determine the case of the noun they precede

For each preposition you must learn which case it 'goes with' (i.e. which case the noun it governs will be found in). Here are five of the most common prepositions.

Preposition	Case
εἰς – to, into προς – to, towards	Accusative
$\dot{\alpha}\pi o - (away)$ from $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa - (out)$ from	Genitive
έν – in	Dative

Notes

- $\epsilon i \zeta$  signifies motion to, while the dative is used on its own to translate 'to' without motion (when it signifies personal interest or involvement). Thus, I go to the town ( $\epsilon$ ic plus accusative) and I speak to God (just the dative).
- This chart illustrates the differences between  $\varepsilon \dot{\zeta}$  and  $\pi \rho o \zeta$ , and  $\dot{\varepsilon} \kappa$  and  $\dot{\alpha} \pi o$ .

Examples

- ό κυριος άγει τον δουλον είς την οίκιαν.
- 1. δ κυριος = the master nom. tov  $\delta o v \lambda o v =$  the slave - acc. την οἰκιαν = the house – acc.
- 2. Master is nom. because it is the subject Slave is acc. the object House is acc. because it is governed by Eig which takes the accusative
- Sentence = 'The master is leading the slave into the house.' 3.
- ό κυριος άγει τον δουλον έκ_της_οίκιας.
- 1. δ κυριος = the master nom. tov  $\delta o v \lambda o v =$ the slave – acc. της οἰκιας = the house – gen.
- 2. Master is nom. because it is the subject Slave is acc. the object House is gen. because it is governed by  $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$  which takes the genitive
- Sentence = 'The master leads the slave out of the house.' 3.

PRACTICE 4.1

Translate

- 1. έν τω κοσμω
- έκ της οἰκιας
- from the heart 7.

- 2. είς τους ούρανους
- 5. άπο του ίερου

- 3. προς τα πλοια
- 6. έν τη έκκλησια
- 8. into the crowds
- 9. away from him

Hint

We have now met two different factors that determine which case a noun will be in – because of its function in the sentence (subject, object, possessor etc.), and because it is governed by a preposition.<sup>1</sup> Fortunately, these two never clash.

4.2 MORE PREPOSITIONS

Matt. 10.24: οὐκ ἐστιν ... δουλος ὑπερ τον κυριον αὐτου.
– A slave is not above the master of him (his master).
1 Cor. 15.3: Χριστος ἀπεθανεν ὑπερ των ἁμαρτιων ἡμων.
– Christ died on behalf of the sins of us (our sins).
The same preposition ὑπερ has a different meaning when followed by an accusative ('above the master') compared to a genitive ('on behalf of the sins').

4.2.1 The principle of prepositions with more than one case

The five prepositions we have already met ( $\epsilon i \zeta$ ,  $\pi \rho o \zeta$ ,  $\dot{\epsilon} \kappa$ ,  $\dot{\alpha} \pi o$  and  $\dot{\epsilon} v$ ) can only be used with a single case.<sup>2</sup> Thus each of these will always be followed by a noun in that particular case, and each always conveys the same basic meaning. However, many Greek prepositions can be used with two or even three different cases, and they convey a different meaning depending on which case they are governing. Thus  $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha + acc$ . has a different meaning from  $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha + gen$ .

The case that a preposition governs when conveying a particular meaning needs to be learnt (i.e. it is no good learning that  $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha$  means 'with' – it doesn't;  $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha$  + acc. means 'after' and  $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha$  + gen. means 'with').<sup>3</sup>

The same preposition has a different meaning when it is used with a different case

&lt;sup>3</sup> There are some general principles underlying the connection between the meaning of a preposition and the case used with it. However, while helpful to understand, these principles cannot be relied upon – the preposition and its case still needs to be learnt.

- The accusative is connected with ideas of extension (whether in time or space). Thus 'movement to' takes the acc. (as  $\varepsilon i \zeta$  and  $\pi \rho \circ \zeta$  do).

The genitive has two senses. (i) The idea of separation (whether in time or space). Thus 'movement from' takes the gen. (as ἀπο and ἐκ do). (ii) The idea of kind (i.e. describing the nature of something, often corresponding to the English 'of').

$\pi\alpha\rho\alpha +$ accusative motion beside – $\pi \epsilon \rho i \pi \alpha \tau \epsilon i \pi \alpha \rho \alpha \tau \eta \nu \theta \alpha \lambda \alpha \sigma \sigma \alpha \nu$ – she walks beside the sea from beside (a person) $-\dot{\alpha}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma\sigma$ para tou $\theta\varepsilon\sigma\nu$ - a man genitive from God dative location beside – διδασκει παρα τη θαλασση – he teaches besides the sea $\dot{\epsilon}\pi_1 +$ accusative onto – βαλλει τον ἀρτον ἐπι το βιβλιον – she throws the bread onto the book genitive<sup>4</sup> location $on - \dot{\epsilon}\pi \iota \tau \eta \varsigma \gamma \eta \varsigma - on the land/earth$ in the time of $-\pi\epsilon\rho$ ipatei έπι του Ίμσου - he lives in the time of Jesus dative<sup>4</sup> location $on/in - \dot{\epsilon}\pi i$ τοις οὐρανοις – in the heavens on the basis of - où $\pi \epsilon \rho i \pi \alpha \tau \epsilon i \epsilon \pi i \alpha \rho \tau \omega -$ she does not live by bread

4.2.2 Prepositions with three cases

4.2.3 Prepositions with two cases<sup>5</sup>

δια + accusative genitive	because of – δια τον ὀχλον – because of the crowd through – δια του ἀγγελου – through the messenger
κατα + accusative genitive	according to – κατα νομον – according to law against – κατα του Ἰησου – against Jesus
μετα + accusative genitive	after – μετα το σαββατον – after the Sabbath with – μετα αὐτου – with him (written μετ' αὐτου, see section 4.2.5)

 $<sup>^4\,</sup>$  In practice there is often little difference between the meaning of  $\dot\epsilon\pi\iota$  when it occurs with the genitive and with the dative.

περι + accusative genitive	approximately, around – περι τον Παυλον – around Paul concerning, about – περι ἁμαρτιας – concerning sin
ὑπερ + accusative genitive	above – ὑπερ την γην – above the earth on behalf of – ὑπερ τεκνου – on behalf of a child
ὑπο + accusative genitive	under – ὑπο νομον – under law by – ὑπο του Πετρου – by Peter (as in 'it was done by Peter ')

Note

The English words 'by' and 'with' are sometimes represented in Greek by a preposition (ὑπο and μετα), sometimes just by the use of the dative. This is explained further in Chapter 4, section 4.3.

4.2.4 Prepositions with one case

There are five more prepositions that occur with a single case to add to those from section 4.1 to give ten.

εἰς προς	+ accusative	to, into to, towards ἀπο ἐκ ἐνωπιον ἐξω ἑως προ	+ genitive	(away) from (out) from before (place) – ἐνωπιον του θεου – before God outside – ἐξω της οἰκιας – outside the house until – ἑως του σαββατου – until the Sabbath before (time) – προ σαββατου – before Sabbath
ἐν συν	+ dative	in with – συν αύτοις – with them

Note: Naturally there is not a perfect overlap between the range of meanings of a Greek preposition and those of any one English preposition. The meanings given above are the basic meanings, which will point you in the right direction when translating. However, as you become more practised at reading Greek, you will get used to being more flexible. For example,  $\epsilon i \varsigma$  means 'into' but in Mark 1.4 John proclaims a baptism ' $\epsilon i \varsigma$  à  $\phi \epsilon \sigma i v$  (forgiveness) à  $\mu \alpha \rho \tau \omega v$ .' Baptism into forgiveness of sins' does not sound quite right in English, although it makes the meaning clear. We might say 'baptism resulting in forgiveness of sins', 'aiming at forgiveness of sins' or 'for forgiveness of sins'.

4.2.5 Elision in prepositions

Many prepositions that end in a vowel drop the vowel when the following word begins with a vowel (this is called elision).  $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$  also has its own peculiarities. The rules are as follows.

In front of a word beginning with a vowel:

ἀπο, δια, ἐπι, κατα, μετα, παρα, ὑπο	drop their final vowel <sup>6</sup>
ἐξω, περι and προ	remain unchanged
ἐκ	becomes ἐξ

Examples

- δι' αὐτου through him.
- $\pi\epsilon\rho\iota$  άμαρτιας concerning sin.
- $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$  oikiac from a house.

- 5. ὁ υἱος λαμβανει τον ἀρτον μετ' αὐτου.
- 6. ό θεος φιλει τα έργα κατα τον νομον.

- 7. ὁ Παυλος λεγει τῷ λαῷ κατα του Χριστου του θεου.
- 8. άγουσιν τα τεκνα είς τον οίκον.
- 9. I see it in her heart.
- 10. Jesus is teaching the crowd outside the temple.
- 11. God loves the peoples under heaven.
- 12. God speaks the law through angels.

4.3 INSTRUMENTS AND AGENTS

In English we use the words 'with' or 'by' to indicate the means by which something happens, or the instrument or agent used:

I was helped by her. I was walking with a stick. I was hit by a stone.

However, we also use the word 'with' in a different sense, not meaning 'by means of' but rather 'along with':

I went with him.

Greek has a clear way of expressing instruments and agents that removes some of the ambiguity of English words such as 'with' and 'by'.

Instrument

An instrument is an inanimate object by means of which the action of the verb happens. In Greek this is normally expressed by the instrument just occurring in the dative, without a preposition.

However, sometimes an instrument is expressed by the preposition  $\dot{\epsilon}v + dat$ .<sup>7</sup>

Agent

An agent is a living being by means of which the action of the verb happens. In Greek this is expressed by the preposition  $b\pi o + \text{gen}$ .

The gospel was proclaimed by Peter – ... ὑπο του Πετρου.<sup>8</sup>

Along with

'With' meaning 'along with' rather than 'by means of' is expressed in Greek by the preposition  $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha$  + gen (or more rarely  $\sigma\nu\nu$  + dat.).

• I depart with Peter –  $\delta \pi \alpha \gamma \omega$  μετα του Πετρου.

Example

ό θεος λεγει μετα τεκνων και ποιει τον κοσμον  $\lambda$ ογ $\omega$ . God speaks with children and makes the world with a word.

Which of the following would use an instrumental dative in Greek?

1. I went with him.

- 3. I was helped by her.
- I was hit by a stone. 4. I was walking with a stick.

4.4 COMPOUND VERBS

In Greek many words are constructed by combining a basic word with a preposition. For example,  $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$  means 'out of' and  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$  means 'I throw', so  $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$  means 'I throw out'. Later on (Chapter 6) identifying compound verbs becomes important. For now, though, thinking about compound verbs helps build up your vocabulary. You will find 11 compound verbs in this chapter's vocabulary.

Notes

- In English you cannot deduce the meaning of 'understand' by thinking of its two constituent parts 'under' and 'stand'. Similarly in Greek you cannot always deduce the meaning of a word from its parts.
  - In some verbs, the force of both the verb and the preposition is preserved e.g.  $\dot\epsilon\kappa\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$  I throw out
  - In some verbs, the preposition intensifies or completes the meaning, though without the force of the preposition being clearly preserved.
     e.g. ἀπολυω I release (λυω itself means 'I untie')
  - In some verbs, the preposition seems to give the verb a new meaning, which is not easily connected to the force of the preposition.
     e.g. ἀναγινωσκω I read (γινωσκω itself means 'I know' and ἀνα means 'upwards' or 'again').

- When forming compounds, the rules for the elision of prepositions (section 4.2.5) are particularly important. Thus  $\dot{\alpha}\pi\sigma + \dot{\alpha}\gamma\omega = \dot{\alpha}\pi\alpha\gamma\omega$  (I lead away).
- Even though a compound verb may 'contain' a preposition, the correct preposition will still be found in the sentence used in the normal way e.g. ἐκβαλλω αὐτον ἐκ της οἰκιας.

4.5 QUESTIONS

Asking questions is simple in Greek:9

Either 1. Use a question word

There are question words in Greek such as  $\pi\omega\varsigma$ ; – how? or  $\pi\circ\upsilon$ ; – where?

e.g.  $\pi\omega\varsigma\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\epsilon\iota\varsigma\tau\circ\nu\theta\epsilon\circ\nu;$  – How do you see God?

Or 2. Rely on tone of voice

Of course, you can't see the tone of voice when it is written down! Therefore all that marks out the question is the question mark:

e.g. βλεπεις τον θεον. – You see God. βλεπεις τον θεον; – Do you see God?

4.6 NEGATIVES

A verb in the Indicative (which means all the verbs we have met so far) is made negative by the addition of the word  $o\dot{v}$  (= 'not').

Before a vowel with a smooth breathing this becomes οὐκ. Before a vowel with a rough breathing this becomes οὐχ.

Examples

- où  $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega$ . I do not see.
- οὐκ ἀκουουσιν. They do not hear.
- οὐχ εὑρισκει το τεκνον. She does not find the child.

Eighteen common prepositions – remember they have different meanings with different cases (a fuller list of prepositions is given in the reference section, page 271).

 $*\dot{\alpha}\pi o$  (646) + gen. – (away) from \* $\mu\epsilon\tau\alpha$  (469) + acc. after \* $\delta i\alpha$  (667) + acc. – because of + gen. with + gen. – through \* $\pi\alpha\rho\alpha$  (194) + acc. – alongside \*εἰς (1767) + acc. – into + gen. – from beside  $*\check{\epsilon}\kappa$  (914) + gen. – (out of) from + dat. – beside \* $\pi\epsilon\rho\iota$  (333) + acc. – around,  $\dot{\epsilon}v$  (2752) + dat. – in<sup>10</sup> ἐνωπιον (94) + gen. – in front of, in approximately + gen. - concerning, about the presence of  $\dot{\epsilon} \xi \omega (63) + \text{gen.} - \text{outside}$  $\pi \rho o (47) + \text{gen.} - \text{before}$  $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota$  (890) + acc. – onto \* $\pi pog(700) + acc. - to, towards$ + gen. - on, in the time of  $\sigma \upsilon v (128) + dat. - together with$ + dat. - on, in, on the basis of \*ὑπερ (150) + acc. – above  $\dot{\epsilon}$ ως (146) + gen. – until + gen. – on behalf of \* $\kappa \alpha \tau \alpha (473) + acc. - according to$ \*ὑπο (220) + acc. – under + gen. - against + gen. - by, at the hands of And eleven compound verbs  $\dot{\alpha}$ ναβλεπω (25) – I look up, receive \*παρακαλεω (109) – I exhort, sight11 request, comfort, encourage \*ἀπολυω (66) – I set free, divorce, παραλαμβανω (49) – I take, receive dismiss \*περιπατεω (95) – I walk about, live \*ἐκβαλλω (81) – I drive out, cast out, \*προσκυνεω (60) + dat. – I worship \*συναγω (59) – I gather, bring throw out ἐπικαλεω (30) – I call upon, name together κατοικεω (44) – I dwell, inhabit, live \*ὑπαγω (79) – I depart

Plus, two question words and the negative *πως (103) – how? *οὐ, οὐκ, οὐχ (1606) – not που (48) – where?

&lt;sup>12</sup> From now on increasing numbers of the sentences in the exercises will be based on sentences from the New Testament. This means that occasionally they will not quite follow the 'rules' you have learnt – Greek is a language, not a mathematical code. So, for example, in A1 you would expect to see  $\pi \alpha \rho$ '  $\dot{\alpha} \nu \theta \rho \omega \pi \omega \nu$  not  $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha \dot{\alpha} \nu \theta \rho \omega \pi \omega \nu$ , the final vowel of  $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha$  eliding (as explained in section 4.2.5). However, while normally you would find  $\pi \alpha \rho$ ' this sentence is taken directly from John 5.41, where  $\pi \alpha \rho \alpha$  is found. See page 5 for further discussion of the rationale behind the sentences, and what difference it makes.

&lt;sup>13</sup> Remember, the biblical text in section C is given exactly as it appears in printed texts of the New Testament. This means that the words have accents on them, and there will be some words that you have not met yet whose meaning is given in brackets. See the explanation on page 6.

 $<sup>^{14}</sup>$  We have learnt  $\pi\rho\varsigma\varsigma+$  acc. means 'to' or 'towards'. It is also sometimes used metaphorically in situations when there is a direction or orientation, but no actual movement ('with a view to', 'aiming at'). What do you think it means here?

&lt;sup>15</sup> λογος is the subject here, not θεος. The reason for this is explained in Chapter 5, section 5.8.

Adjectives

5.1 FORMATION OF ADJECTIVES

Rev. 21.1-2: εἰδον οὐρανον καινον και γην καινην. ὁ ... πρωτος οὐρανος και ἡ πρωτη γη ἀπηλθαν – I saw a new heaven and a new earth. The first heaven and the first earth departed.

καινος (new) and πρωτος (first) are adjectives. They add further description to a noun. In Greek they have to agree with the noun they are describing. Thus οὐρανον καινον but γην καινην. Both οὐρανον and γην are accusative singular, but οὐρανος is masculine and γη feminine.

καινος does not have a gender itself; instead it uses a masculine form when describing a masculine noun, and a feminine form when describing a feminine noun. Similarly πρωτος and πρωτη are both nominative singular, but one is 'in the masculine' (agreeing with οὐρανος) and the other 'in the feminine' (agreeing with  $\gamma\eta$ ).

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ἀγαθος	ἀγαθη	ἀγαθον

	Dat.	ἀγαθωις	άγαθωις	άγαθοις

Most adjectives decline like ἀγαθος (good):

Notes

• We have already learnt these endings. They are the same as those for nouns of the corresponding gender (and hence similar to αύτος and the article).

56 The Elements of New Testament Greek

In the feminine singular adjectives whose stems end in a vowel or a ρ have endings in α rather than η. (This is the same variation in the endings as we saw between ἡμερα and ἀρχη). Thus the feminine singular of ἁγιος (holy) is ἁγια, ἁγιαν, ἁγιαν, ἁγιας, ἁγια. (No adjectives go like δοξα.)

5.2 USE OF ADJECTIVES (1) – ATTRIBUTIVE

The most common use of an adjective is called the attributive use. This is where the adjective defines more precisely an attribute of one of the nouns or pronouns in a sentence.

Adjectives must agree with the noun they qualify in gender, case and number

Example

• They see the beautiful land.

Here we have a basic sentence 'they see the land', but then the 'land' has been further qualified or described by the addition of the adjective 'beautiful'. This is the normal (attributive) use of the adjective.

Furthermore, because 'beautiful' is qualifying 'land', it will have to agree with 'land' in gender, case and number.

Word order

When a noun is qualified by both the article and an (attributive) adjective, there are two possible word orders in Greek. The first is the same as in English.

They see the beautiful land.	either	βλεπουσιν την καλην γην.
	or	βλεπουσιν την γην την καλην.

Thus, if the adjective comes after the noun, the article is repeated.

When there is no definite article, things are simpler and the adjective can come either before or after the noun it qualifies:

They see a new earth.	either	βλεπουσιν καινην γην.
	or	βλεπουσιν γην καινην.

5.3 εἰμι – Ι ΑΜ

As in most languages, the verb 'to be' has its own distinctive pattern:

1 st sing.	I am	εἰμι
2 nd sing.	You are	εἰ
3 rd sing.	He, she or it is	$\mathring{\epsilon} \sigma \tau \iota(\nu)$
1 st plural	We are	ἐσμεν
1 st plural 2 nd plural	We are You are	ἐσμεν ἐστε

- Note the first and second plural have similarities with  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$

έσ-μεν compared to  $\lambda \upsilon$ -ο-μεν

 $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma$ -te compared to  $\lambda \upsilon$ -e-te

Hint

Normally, accents do not convey any useful information. However, there are two different words written as ei which can be distinguished by their accents:

 $\epsilon \hat{\iota}$  – with the circumflex – you are (2nd singular of  $\epsilon \hat{\iota} \mu \iota$ )

 $\epsilon \mathfrak{i} - no \; accent - if$

Thus: Matt. 4.3:  $\underline{\epsilon i}$  υίος  $\underline{\epsilon i}$  του θεου  $\rightarrow \underline{lf}$  you are the son of God.

Noticing this may help you.

5.4 USE OF ADJECTIVES (2) – PREDICATIVE

Rom. 7.12: ὑ νομος [ἐστιν] ἁγιος – 'The law is holy.'

This sentence is in the form 'x (noun) is y (adjective).' Many sentences using the verb 'to be' are similar. The adjective is still describing the noun (ask 'what is holy?' and the answer is 'the law') but it is being used differently from the way it is used in a sentence such as  $\zeta \eta \tau \omega \, \dot{\alpha} \gamma \iota \circ \nu$  vo $\mu \circ \nu - I$  seek a holy law.

In these sentences it is important to understand that the adjective is not an object, but rather is an adjective qualifying the noun: 'holy' is telling us something further about 'the law'. Thus it needs to agree with the noun in gender, case and number. However, such use of an adjective is different from the attributive use, because the adjective is not merely qualifying one of the nouns in the sentence – the whole point of the sentence is to make this description. The adjective itself completes the sentence (hence the adjective is called a complement). This use of the adjective is called the predicative use.

Hint

To tell the difference between the attributive and predicative use, try deleting the adjective from the sentence. If it still makes sense, the adjective was attributive. If it doesn't, it was predicative.

Word order

Predicative adjectives follow a different word order from the attributive. Again, there are two options, one being the same as in English.<sup>1</sup>

The law is holy. either ό νομος ἐστιν ἁγιος. or ἁγιος ἐστιν ὁ νομος. Predicative adjectives are never immediately preceded by the article.

 $<sup>^1</sup>$  It is quite unusual to have a predicative use when there is no definite article, but when this does happen the options are predictably νομος ἐστιν άγιος οr άγιος ἐστιν νομος.

Omission of the verb 'to be'

However, Rom. 7.12 does not in fact say  $\delta$  νομος έστιν άγιος but  $\delta$  νομος άγιος. This is because the Greeks often let the verb 'to be' drop out of sentences. In these cases you need to put it back in (supply it). It is normally easy to spot when this is necessary: (a) if the sentence does not appear to have a verb in it, one must have dropped out; (b) the adjective will be in the predicative position.

Example

Rom. 7.12: ὁ νομος ἁγιος και ἡ ἐντολη ἁγια και δικαια και ἀγαθη.

5.5 USE OF ADJECTIVES (3) – AS NOUNS

Greek has a way of making nouns from adjectives, which is very common. The adjective is just put with the article. The case of the adjective is then determined by its function in the sentence (subject, object etc.). Its gender reveals whether it is a person or a man (masc.), a woman (fem.) or a thing (neuter). Note that Greek uses the masculine as the default when referring to people in general.

- τα ἁγια the holy things
- ἡ καλη the beautiful woman

If you look closely at this you will see that:

- $\pi \circ \lambda \circ \varsigma$  is  $\pi \circ \lambda \wedge \varsigma$  with a shortened nom. and acc., masc. and neuter sing.

5.7 WORD ORDER IN GREEK SENTENCES

In general

As we have already seen, because the case of a noun communicates its function in a sentence and agreement shows which adjectives go with which nouns, word order can be more flexible in Greek than it is in English.

Thus, the basic meaning of these two sentences is the same:

- (i) ό θεος διδασκει τους Ιουδαιους.
- (ii) τους Ιουδαιους ό θεος διδασκει.

However, the word order can communicate emphasis. The word that comes first carries more stress – thus (i) seems to be emphasising that it is God who is teaching the Jews, while (ii) emphasises that it is the Jews whom God is teaching. In longer sentences, the final word also carries quite a lot of stress.

'Sandwich' constructions

We have now learnt three different ways of qualifying a noun (i.e. adding further description to it):

Adjectives:	Either	(i)	βλεπω το ίερον το καλον .
	Or	(ii)	βλεπω το καλον ίερον.
Genitives:	βλεπω τ	ο ίερον	του κυριου .
Prepositions:	βλεπω τ	ο ίερον	ἐν τῃ γῃ .

If you look carefully you will see that the word order in the examples above using genitives and prepositions is very similar to example (i) using adjectives – the descriptive word or phrase comes after the noun.<sup>2</sup> > βλεπω το του κυριου ίερον. βλεπω το ἐν τη γη ίερον.

The occurrence of two articles on the run ( $\tau o \tau \sigma \upsilon$ ) or the article followed by a preposition ( $\tau o \underline{\dot{\epsilon}} \underline{v}$ ) can be confusing initially. However, the advantage of this construction is that it is clear which noun the descriptive phrase is going with.

5.8 SPECIAL USES OF εἰμι

Preparatory use

While  $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\iota(\nu)$  and  $\epsilon\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\iota(\nu)$  normally mean 'he, she or it is' and 'they are', if they are put first in the sentence they mean 'there is' or 'there are':

e.g. ὁ τυφλος ἐστιν ἐν τῃ συναγωγῃ. – The blind man is in the synagogue. ἐστιν τυφλος ἐν τῃ συναγωγῃ. – There is a blind man in the synagogue.

Nouns as complements

We met earlier the idea of an adjective as a complement, noting that the adjective is not an object, but agrees with the noun it is describing and will therefore be in the nominative. Thus 'the son is good' is:

Complement? See it in English Section 4 Page 245

ό υίος έστιν άγαθος or άγαθος έστιν ό υίος

Unsurprisingly, the complement can be a noun, instead of an adjective, e.g. 'the son is the lord'

ό υίος έστιν ό κυριος

Note that  $\delta \kappa \upsilon \rho \iota \circ \varsigma$  here is in the nominative. It is not an object, but a complement which is further describing  $\delta \upsilon \circ \varsigma$  and therefore in the same case as it.

In this situation it is easy to imagine that  $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\nu$  simply functions as an 'equals sign':  $\delta v i \circ c = \delta \kappa v \rho i \circ c$ . However, it is a little more complicated because 'the king is the judge' is not quite the same as 'the judge is the king'.

Thus it is necessary to distinguish between the subject and any noun that is a complement, although both will be in the nominative. Greek does this in the following way:

> Either the subject comes before the complement the article is dropped from the complement. or

E.g. The son is the lord is either  $\delta$  vioc  $\delta \sigma \tau v$   $\delta$  kuploc  $\delta r$  kuploc  $\delta \sigma \tau v$   $\delta$  vioc

Examples (subjects underlined)

The tenses

6.1 IDEA OF TENSES

John 14.1: πιστευετε εἰς τον θεον – you believe in God. John 11.48: παντες πιστευσουσιν εἰς αὐτον – everyone will believe in him. John 7.5: οἱ ἀδελφοι αὐτου ἐπιστευον εἰς αὐτον – his brothers were believing in him. John 4.50: ἐπιστευσεν ὁ ἀνθρωπος τῷ λογῷ – the man believed the word.

Alterations in a verb change its tense:  $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \upsilon \epsilon \tau \epsilon$  – believe;  $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \upsilon \sigma \sigma \upsilon \sigma \upsilon v$  – will believe;  $\underline{\dot{\epsilon}} \pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \upsilon \sigma v$  – were believing;  $\underline{\dot{\epsilon}} \pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon \upsilon \sigma \epsilon v$  – believed.

- The Future, Imperfect and Aorist are tenses, to put alongside the Present.
- Greek indicates tense by altering the form of the verb, while in English we add extra words. Thus,  $\lambda \upsilon \underline{\sigma} \circ \mu \epsilon \nu$  (note the added  $\sigma$ ) means 'we will untie'.
- The different tenses communicate both the time when the action is taking place (Present, Future, Past etc.) and the aspect (the nature of the action whether it was a process, or completed etc.).
- The Present, Future, Imperfect and Aorist are the four common tenses – the final two will be added much later (Chapter 16).

6.2 DISTINGUISHING THE TENSES

The different tenses are formed by

- (i) adding prefixes and suffixes to the stem
- (ii) by having a different set of endings.

			Stem		Ending
Tense:	Present		λυ		ω
	Future		λυ	σ	ω
	Imperfect	š	λυ		ον
	Aorist	å	λυ	σ	α

The prefixes and suffixes are the easiest thing to spot:

- The two Past tenses (Aorist and Imperfect) have an ἐ prefix (called an augment).
- The Future and the Aorist both have a  $\sigma$  suffix.

Thus:

no prefix		no suffix		Present
no prefix ἐ prefix	plus	σ suffix no suffix	=	Future Imperfect
έ prefix		$\sigma$ suffix		Aorist

Hin

Which tense are the following in?

Ignore the endings – look for the prefixes and suffixes
	ἀκουσ-ομεν ἐβλεπ-ον		ἐπιστευσ-ατε ἐδιδασκ-εν		λυσ-ουσιν ἀγ-ω

6.3 THE MEANING OF THE TENSES

Greek tense	Time	Aspect	English equivalent
Present	Present	Process or Undefined	I am untying or I untie
Future	Future	Undefined	I will untie
Imperfect	Past	Process	I was untying
Aorist	Past	Undefined	I untied

The meaning of the tenses is built up from the combination of time and aspect. Time is just as in English – Past, Present or Future. Aspect needs more attention.

- Process Aspect means that the action is being viewed as part of an ongoing process either continuous or repeated
- Undefined Aspect can be used for two different reasons:
  - (i) It is truly undefined or default nothing is being implied at all about the manner in which the action occurred.
  - (ii) It is deliberately being used as opposed to using the process aspect, thus a punctilliar ('one-time') sense is meant.

Present

If you want to express present time, there is no choice in Greek. You just use the Present tense, even though this can have two different aspects – undefined or process. This is why we learnt earlier (Chapter 2, section 2.1) that the Greek Present tense can mean either 'I am untying' (process) or 'I untie' (undefined).

Future

If you want to express future time, there is no choice. You use the Future.

Past: The Difference between the Imperfect and the Aorist

If you want past time, there is a choice – the Imperfect carries the process aspect, and the Aorist the undefined aspect.

The Aorist describes a past action without reference to continuance, repetition or completion, often but not always implying a single past action.

- I untied, you untied etc.

The Imperfect describes an action in the past that is viewed as a process. This itself gives rise to three different possibilities:

- · Continuous process gives the English translations using 'was' or 'were'
  - I was untying, you were untying, etc.
- Repeated (or habitual) process gives the English translations using 'used to'
  - I used to untie, you used to untie, etc.
- Plus, the Imperfect can also be used for a process in the past that is viewed as just beginning.
  - I began to untie, you began to untie, etc. For example:

Matt. 5.2: He opened his mouth (Aorist) and began to teach (Imperfect).

6.3.1 Basic English equivalents

Although you should try to understand the meaning and 'flavour' of the different Greek tenses, many students do find it easier to begin with to identify English equivalents.

1 st pl.	We are untying	We will untie	We were untying	We untied
2 nd pl.	You are untying	You will untie	You were untying	You untied
3 rd pl.	They are untying	They will untie	They were untying	They untied

Remember: 3rd person singular is 'he', 'she' or 'it'; Present can be 'I untie', 'you untie', etc.; Imperfect can be 'I used to untie', etc.

6.4 THE ENDINGS

Notes

- The endings of the Future are the same as the Present (but there is the  $\sigma$  suffix to distinguish them).
- The Present, Future and Imperfect have an 'o' or 'e' sound at the beginning of the ending; the Aorist tends to have an 'a' sound.
- The endings in the 1st and 2nd person plural are very similar in all the tenses.
- There is an optional v in the Imperfect and Aorist 3rd person singular, just as there is in the Present (and so Future) 3rd person plural.

PRACTICE 6.4

2.	ἐλυσαμεν.	5.	ἐπιστευσαν.	8.	They will believe.
3.	ἀκουσετε.	6.	ἀπολυσουσιν.	9.	You (pl.) were taking.

6.4.1 Examples of the tenses

δ Ίησους έδιδασκεν έν τη συναγωγη και πολλοι έπιστευσαν.

ἐδιδασκεν is Imperfect, therefore describing a past process – 'Jesus was in the process of teaching in the synagogue'. ἐπιστευσαν is Aorist, therefore describing a past undefined (not a process) action – 'many believed' or 'many came to believe' = Jesus was teaching in the synagogue and many believed.

δ θεος ἐπεμπεν τους ἀγγελους, ἀλλα νυν ἐσμεν μονοι.

 $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\mu\pi\epsilon\nu$  is Imperfect, therefore describing a past process – 'God used to send messengers.'  $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\mu\epsilon\nu$  is Present, therefore describing the current situation – 'we are alone.' = God used to send messengers, but now we are alone.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. έδιδασκεν τον όχλον.
- 2. ό θεος ἀκουσει αὐτου.
- 3. οἱ ἁγιοι ἐχουσιν τον νομον.
- 4. λυσομεν το πλοιον.
- 5. δια τον λογον έπιστευσατε;
- 6. έλεγον περι της βασιλειας.
- 7. πως ἀπολυσεις αὐτην;
- 8. οἱ ἀδελφοι οὐκ ἐπιστευσαν.
- 9. We used to take the boat.
- 10. They believed God.
- 11. The good master will set free the slaves.
- 12. I used to speak but now I will listen.

6.5 POINTS TO NOTE ABOUT $\dot{\varepsilon}$ PREFIXES

6.5.1 Words beginning with a vowel

Look at what happens when the  $\mathring{\epsilon}$  prefix is added to a word beginning with a vowel:

άκουω – I hear (Present) ήκουον – I was hearing (Imperfect)

In order to indicate that a verb is in the Imperfect or Aorist, an  $\dot{\varepsilon}$  (augment) needs to be added to the beginning of the stem. This is fine if the stem begins with a consonant but not if it begins with a vowel – you can't say  $\dot{\varepsilon}$   $\dot{\alpha}$   $\kappa$   $\sigma$  v  $\circ$ !

KEY GRAMMAR

Watch out when an é (augment) is added to a word beginning with a vowel

What happens is that the normal rule for adding the  $\mathring{\epsilon}$  augment is followed, but contractions then take place  $(\mathring{\epsilon} + \mathring{\alpha} \rightarrow \mathring{\eta}$  etc.).<sup>1</sup>

	α	becomes	η
ả nhực	ε	becomes	η
ẻ plus	0	becomes	ω
	η, ι, υ and ω	remain	η, ι, υ and ω

 $<sup>^1</sup>$  Some people prefer to understand this as the vowel being lengthened instead of the  $\dot\epsilon$  being added. The result is the same, but this seems to be an extra rule to remember.

Diphthongs follow the logic of the above chart. For example,

$\alpha \iota \rightarrow$	n	ει	$\rightarrow$	ņ	01	$\rightarrow$	ŵ
$\alpha \upsilon \rightarrow$	ηυ	ευ	$\rightarrow$	$ην^2$

Thus, since the Imperfect of λυω is ἐλυον

- the Imperfect of ἀκουω is ήκουον.
- the Imperfect of οἰκοδομεω is ϣκοδομουν.<sup>3</sup>
- the Imperfect of εὐλογεω is ηὐλογουν.<sup>3</sup>

The  $\dot{\epsilon}$  behaves in the same way in the Aorist, so the Aorist of ἀκουω is ἠκουσα.

6.5.2 Compound verbs

Look at what happens when the  $\dot{\epsilon}$  prefix is added to a compound verb (Chapter 4, section 4.4):

ἀπολυω	-	I set free (Present)
ἀπ ε λυον	_	I was setting free (Imperfect)

In compound verbs the  $\dot{\epsilon}$  (augment) comes between the preposition and the verb's stem. You can understand this by thinking of the following four steps.

KEY GRAMMAR

Watch out when an  $\mathring{\epsilon}$ (augment) is added to a compound verb

- 1. Take off the preposition
- 2. Add the  $\dot{\epsilon}$  to the verb as normal (take care if the verb begins with a vowel)
- 3. Replace the preposition
- 4. Watch out for elision, since the preposition now precedes a vowel (look back at the rules in Chapter 4, section 4.2.5)

Examples

Present	Imperfect
	Actual form Meaning		Process of getting there
ἀπολυω ἐκβαλλω ὑπαγω συναγω	ἀπελυον ἐξεβαλλον ὑπηγον συνηγον	I was setting free I was throwing out I was departing I was gathering	ἀπο-ελυον ἐκ-εβαλλον ὑπο-εαγον ὑπο-ηγον συν-εαγον συν-ηγον

The augment behaves in the exactly the same fashion in the Aorist.

e.g. The Aorist of apolum is apelusa

Hint

Observe carefully the difference between the contractions that occur when an augment is added to a verb that begins with a vowel and the elision that happens when a preposition is followed by a vowel. A vowel at the beginning of a verb combines with the augment, while a vowel at the end of a preposition is normally destroyed by the augment.

 $\mathring{\epsilon} + \mathring{\alpha} \gamma o \nu \rightarrow \mathring{\eta} \gamma o \nu \qquad \mathring{\epsilon} + \mathring{\alpha} \nu \alpha \beta \lambda \epsilon \pi o \nu \rightarrow \mathring{\alpha} \nu \epsilon \beta \lambda \epsilon \pi o \nu \qquad \mathring{\epsilon} + \mathring{\alpha} \nu \alpha \gamma \omega \rightarrow \mathring{\alpha} \nu \eta \gamma o \nu$

Put these verbs into the Imperfect (1st singular)

1.	ἀγω	3.	βλεπω	5.	παραλαμβανω	7.	άνοιγω
2.	ύπαγω	4.	ἀναβλεπω	6.	ἀποκαλυπτω	8.	διδασκω

6.6 POINTS TO NOTE ABOUT THE $\sigma$ SUFFIX

Look at what happens when the  $\boldsymbol{\sigma}$  suffix is added to verbs which end in particular consonants:

βλεπω	_	I see (Present)
βλεψω	_	I will see (Future)

A  $\sigma$  suffix (for the Future or Aorist) will often combine with the final consonant of the verb's stem. This should not be seen as a special rule about the Future and Aorist of verbs; it is more a matter of pronunciation. We will meet the same changes later on in certain nouns (Chapter 12).<sup>4</sup>

KEY GRAMMAR

Watch out when an  $\sigma$  is added to stem of a verb ending in a consonant

π, β, φ τ, δ, θ, ζ	+ +	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$

Examples

Present		Future
	Actual form	Meaning	Process
βλεπω βαπτιζω ἀνοιγω	βλεψω βαπτισω ἀνοιξω	I will see I will baptise I will open	βλεπ-σω βαπτιζ-σω ἀνοιγ-σω

The  $\sigma$  behaves in the same fashion in the Aorist (Aorist of  $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega$  is  $\dot{\epsilon}\beta\lambda\epsilon\psi\alpha$ ).

Hint

Because the Aorist involves the addition of the  $\varepsilon$  prefix and the  $\sigma$  suffix, both sets of complications can occur. Thus the Aorist of  $\alpha voi\gamma \omega$  is  $\eta voi\xi \alpha$  ( $\varepsilon \alpha voi\gamma \sigma \alpha$ ).

PRACTICE 6.6

Put these verbs into the Aorist (1st singular)

1. βαπτιζω	3. ἀκουω	5. κηρυσσω	7. ἀποκαλυπτω
2. πεμπω	4. ἀπολυω	6. ἀναβλεπω	8. δοξαζω

6.7 DEALING WITH THE PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES

You need to think carefully about the way in which these prefixes and suffixes behave (as described in sections 6.5 and 6.6) because they make it harder to spot which tense verbs are in. You need to get used to realising that > ήγον is really  $\dot{\epsilon}$ -άγον and thus is an Imperfect άνοιξω is really άνοιγ-σω and thus a Future

Hint

Very few verbs begin with  $\eta$  or  $\omega$  in their basic form<sup>6</sup> – if you see a verb beginning in this way, it is very likely to have been something else initially ( $\alpha$ ,  $\epsilon$ , or o) to which an  $\mathring{\epsilon}$  has been added – it will therefore be in the Imperfect or the Aorist.

Almost no verbs end in  $\psi$ ,  $\xi$ , or a single  $\sigma$  (they do end in  $\sigma\sigma$ ) naturally<sup>7</sup> – if you see a stem ending in this way it must have been something else initially to which an  $\sigma$  has been added – it will therefore be in the Future or the Aorist.

Note: ἐχω (I have) is unusual.

Imperfect	εἰχον (ἐ being augmented to εἰ not ή)
Future	ἑ ξ ω (χ + σ → ξ as expected, but ἑ not ἐ)

The Aorist of  $\dot{\epsilon}\chi\omega$  is actually  $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\chi\omega$  which is arrived at by following a different pattern (see Chapter 11, Section 11.1.3) but is quite rare, since 'having' in the past normally implies 'over a period' and hence the Imperfect.

PRACTICE 6.7

What tense are the following in?

1.	ἐκραζεν	3.	βλεψετε	5.	εἰχομεν	7.	πεισομεν
2.	ἐδιωξα	4.	ἐγραψαν	6.	ἀνεβλεπετε	8.	ἐκηρυξεν

6.8 TENSES IN THE $-\epsilon\omega$ VERBS

In Chapter 2, section 2.2 we learnt that there was a family of verbs with a weak  $\varepsilon$  at the end of their stems. This combined with the endings in the Present, giving forms such as  $\varphi i \lambda o \psi \varepsilon v$  ( $\varphi i \lambda \varepsilon \cdot o \mu \varepsilon v$ ).

- In the Imperfect the same pattern of contractions occurs.
- In the Future and Aorist the addition of the  $\sigma$  suffix causes two changes:
  - (i) The  $\varepsilon$  lengthens to a  $\eta$  (except kalew keeps the  $\varepsilon$ : kaleva,  $\dot{\varepsilon}$  kaleva)
  - (ii) The endings are now next to the  $\sigma$ , not the weak  $\varepsilon$ , so there are no contractions (i.e. the Future and Aorist of  $-\varepsilon \omega$  verbs are identical to  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ ).

 $<sup>^6</sup>$  In the NT only ήγεομαι, ήκω and ώφελεω (which occur 28, 26 and 15 times respectively) and the very rare words ήσυχαζω, ήτταομαι, ώδινω, ώνεομαι, ώρυομαι.

 $<sup>^7\,</sup>$  In the NT only úvow (20 times) and  $\alpha \dot{\upsilon}\xi \omega$  and  $\theta \alpha \rho \sigma \epsilon \omega,$  both of which are uncommon.

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I You (sing.) He, she, it	φιλω φιλεις φιλει	φιλησω φιλησεις φιλησει	ἐφιλουν ἐφιλεις ἐφιλει	ἐφιλησα ἐφιλησας ἐφιλησεν
We You (pl.) They	φιλουμεν φιλειτε φιλουσιν or φιλουσι	φιλησομεν φιλησετε φιλησουσιν	ἐφιλουμεν ἐφιλειτε ἐφιλουν	ἐφιλησαμεν ἐφιλησατε ἐφιλησαν

Thus the full pattern for  $\varphi \iota \lambda \epsilon \omega$  (I love) is as follows:

PRACTICE 6.8

Moods

7.1 IDEA OF MOODS

The Mood of a verb indicates the manner in which the action is to be regarded – is it a statement, a command, hypothetical etc.? There are five moods in Greek – we have already met one (Indicative). This chapter introduces three others (Imperative, Infinitive, Participle) and one is left until Chapter 17 (Subjunctive).

Mood	Used to express	Example in English
Indicative	Statements and questions	I am listening
Imperative Infinitive Participle	Commands The idea of the verb in general Verbal adjective	Listen! To listen Listening, he understood
Subjunctive	Uncertainty	I may listen

- Often the Indicative behaves in one way and all four other moods behave in a different way therefore they are known as the other moods.
- In the other moods, there is no Future tense or Imperfect.
- In the Indicative, tense communicates both time and aspect. Page 248 In the other moods, the time part falls away – thus the difference between the Present and the Aorist becomes solely one of aspect – process or undefined.
- In the Indicative, verbs are made negative by the addition of oů (or oůκ/oůχ) see Chapter 4, section 4.6. In the other moods, a different word is used μη. This also affects any compounds of oů.

Thus, our means 'no longer', but this becomes  $\mu\eta\kappa\epsilon\tau\iota$  with a verb in one of the other moods.

Negation – Indicative	oů
Other moods	μη

7.2 THE IMPERATIVE

Acts 16.31:  $\pi i \sigma \tau \epsilon v \sigma ov$  en tov kupiov Infouv – Believe on the Lord Jesus!

πιστευσον is communicating a command (or exhortation). πιστευω is now in a different mood – the Imperative.

7.2.1 The formation of the Imperative<sup>1</sup>

	Present	Aorist
2 nd person singular	λυε	λυσον
2 nd person plural	λυετε	λυσατε

Notes

- Imperatives are either singular (to one person) or plural (to more than one).
- Imperatives are either in the Present tense or in the Aorist.
- These imperatives are known as 2nd person imperatives this is because they are commands to 'you' to do something.<sup>2</sup>
- Note that the Aorist Imperatives do not have the augment. This is because the augment marks past time, but in the Imperative the difference between the tenses is only one of aspect, not of time.
- The Aorist Imperative has a  $\sigma$  suffix, just as it does in the Indicative.
- The  $2^{nd}$  plural Present Imperative looks identical to the  $2^{nd}$  plural Present Indicative ( $\lambda \nu \epsilon \tau \epsilon$  could be 'you untie' or 'untie!' but the context normally makes it clear which it is).
- The  $\varepsilon\omega$  verbs follow the normal rules for the contractions (pages 24 and 71) which gives the imperatives:  $\varphi i \lambda \varepsilon i$ ,  $\varphi i \lambda \pi \varepsilon i$ ,  $\varphi i \lambda \eta \sigma \alpha \tau \varepsilon$ .

Hint

It's easy to mix up the Future Indicative and the Aorist Imperative (both have a  $\sigma$  suffix and no prefix). The endings are the key – if it looks like a Future but doesn't seem to have the right endings, think 'Aorist in another mood'.

Acts 16.31: πιστευσον ἐπι τον κυριον Ἰησουν
 Believe in the Lord Jesus! (Aorist Imperative)

Present – Process

Aorist – Undefined

7.2.2 The difference between the Present and Aorist Imperatives

English only has one Imperative. However, Greek has the flexibility of putting a command in either the Present or Aorist tense, to communicate aspect.

The Present Imperative expresses a 'process'– that is, a command for something to be done either repeatedly or continuously – 'keep on doing it'.

The Aorist Imperative is undefined. Sometimes this will be truly undefined (or default) – the simplest form of the Imperative. Sometimes it is deliberately used as opposed to using the Present for process, to stress a 'one-time' sense.

It is hard to put into an English translation the difference between the Present and Aorist Imperative – that's why you need to read the Bible in Greek!

Most students wrongly think of the Present Imperative as the normal one, and then either forget the Aorist or think of it as stressing a 'one-time' action. In fact, the Aorist is the normal or default – if you see a Present Imperative being used you should ask yourself, 'Why is the process command being used here?'

Examples

- κηρυσσετε το εὐαγγελιον. Preach (pl.) the good-news! (continually: 'go on preaching')
- blewate ta pobata. Watch (pl.) the sheep! (default)
- kurie, swound ton laon. Lord, save the people! (default)

- 7. ζητησετε τον θεον.
- 8. Open (s.) the heavens!
- 9. Teach (pl.) her! (continually)
- 10. Untie (pl.) the children!

7.3 THE INFINITIVE

John 16.12: πολλα έχω ὑμιν λεγειν. – I have many things to say to you.

 $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \epsilon \iota v$  is the equivalent of 'to say' in English. This is clearly closely related to  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  meaning 'I say' – it is the same verb but now in the Infinitive mood.

Infinitives come in just one form in each of the Present and Aorist tenses.

	Present	Aorist
Infinitive	λυειν	λυσαι

Notes

- The Infinitive can be translated in English as 'to . . . '. Both lueiv and lugar mean 'to untie'.
- As in the Imperative, the Aorist Infinitive has a  $\sigma$  suffix, but no augment.
- The ew verbs follow the normal rules:  $\varphi\imath\lambda\epsilon\imath\nu,\,\varphi\imath\lambda\eta\sigma\alpha\imath.$

The difference between the Present and Aorist Infinitive is the same as between the Present and Aorist Imperative – the Aorist is the default, undefined, aspect; the Present is process (either continuous or repeated).

Later (in Chapter 18) we will learn some special uses of the Infinitive in Greek.

However, it is often used just as it is in English. In particular, it is used to convey purpose, and tends to follow certain verbs, such as:

$\theta \epsilon \lambda \omega - I$ wish / want to	μελλω – I intend to, I am about to $\delta \epsilon \iota$ – It is necessary to	έξεστι – It is permitted to

Examples

Mark 3.14-15: ἐποιησεν δωδεκα ... ἐχειν ἐξουσιαν ἐκβαλλειν τα δαιμονια.

And he made twelve . . . to have authority to throw out the demons. These infinitives are Present, because the twelve will continuously have authority and will repeatedly throw out demons.

ό Ἰησους θελει σωσαι αὐτην. – Jesus is willing to save her. This Infinitive is Aorist because it does not point to a continual action.

7.4 PARTICIPLES

Philem. 4-5: εὐχαριστω τῷ θεῷ ... ἀκουων σου την ἀγαπην.
– I give thanks to God . . . hearing of your love.
Acts 18.8: πολλοι των Κορινθιων ἀκουοντες ἐπιστευον.
– many of the Corinthians hearing were believing.

ἀκουων and ἀκουωντες are from ἀκουω (I hear) but are in the*Participle*mood meaning 'hearing' (one is singular, one is plural). A participle works alongside a main verb adding a further layer of meaning: not just
 'I give thanks' but 'hearing of your love', not just 'they were believing' but 'hearing'.

The frequent use of participles is one of the most characteristic features of Greek. The full scheme for participles is quite complicated, and so is left until Chapter 14. However, we will learn one particular usage now that is particularly common in the New Testament.

Participles are verbal adjectives - part of the verb behaving like an adjective.

Like adjectives:

For now, we will learn only the masculine nominative of the participle, because often in the New Testament participles are qualifying (further describing) masculine nouns in the Participles must agree with the noun they qualify in gender, case and number nominative. You will need to ensure they agree in number - singular or plural.

Like verbs:

Participles have tense (Present or Aorist), and may have an object

7.4.1 The form of the participle

	(Masculine nominative) Present Aorist
Singular	λυων	λυσας
Plural	λυοντες	λυσαντες

Notes

- As in the Infinitive and Imperative, the Aorist does not have an augment (time is not expressed outside of the Indicative), but it does have a  $\sigma$ .
- The plural participles both have endings in -ντες.
- The Aorist participles have an 'a' sound, the Present an 'o' sound.
- The  $\varepsilon \omega$  verbs follow the normal rules, thus the participles are:

	(Masculine nominative) Present Aorist
Singular	φιλων	φιλησας
Plural	φιλουντες	φιλησαντες

PRACTICE 7.4.1

Parse the following (giving tense, gender, case and number)

βαλλοντες 3. διωξαντες 5. γραφων 7. ύπαγοντες πεμψας 4. ποιησας 6. παρακαλων 8. ἀκουσας

7.4.2 The meaning of the participle

Greek participles do not easily translate word for word into English. The technique is to start with the 'wooden translation' given below and rephrase it into good English, guided by the underlying 'idea' of the participle.

Wooden translatio	ns Present participle	untying
	Aorist participle	having untied
Idea The heart of understanding participles is that the participle is dependent upon a main verb (Indicative, or possibly Imperative) in the sentence. It expresses meaning in relation to that main verb , not absolutely.
Present Participle Aorist Participle	going on at the same time as th	the neous process – the action in the participle is a process n at the same time as the action in the main verb. ce – the action in the participle occurred before the in the main verb. <sup>3</sup>

Present Participle	Simultaneous
Aorist Participle	Sequence

Good English

Rephrasing into appropriate, good English is really a matter of practice.

For a Present participle, this often involves 'while' or 'as'. Thus from  $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\theta$ iov $\tau\epsilon\zeta$   $\dot{\eta}\kappa$ ou $\sigma\alpha\nu$  you get 'eating they heard' and so 'while they were eating, they heard'.

For an Aorist participle, this often involves 'after' or 'when'. Thus  $\beta\lambda\epsilon\psi\alpha\nu\tau\epsilon\varsigma$   $\epsilon\pi\iota\sigma\tau\epsilon\nu\sigma\alpha\nu$  is rephrased from 'having seen they believed' to 'after they had seen they believed' or 'when they had seen they believed'.

&lt;sup>3</sup> The connection between this and ideas of aspect will be discussed more in Chapter 18, section 18.5.

Examples
Matt. 4.18:	περιπατων παρα την θαλασσαν της Γαλιλαιας είδεν (he saw) δυο άδελφους.
	- While he was walking alongside the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers.
Mark 6.16:	ἀκουσας δε (but) ὁ Ἡρῷδης ἐλεγεν
	– But when Herod heard (this) he said (was saying)

PRACTICE 7.4.2

7.4.3 Participles with objects

Because the participle is a verb, it can have its own object (in the accusative). This is not complicated once you get the hang of it:

βλεψας τον όχλον δ Ίησους ἐκηρυξεν τον λογον.

The main sentence is underlined above: Jesus (subject) proclaimed (main i.e. Indicative verb) the word (object). The participle introduces a subordinate clause. It agrees with the subject of the sentence (Jesus) and is telling us something extra involving its own object: 'having seen the crowd'.

= When he saw the crowd, Jesus proclaimed the word.

Hint
```

If the simple subject-verb-object sentence is the trunk of the tree, the participle starts off a new branch:

Translate

- 1. ἀνοιξαντες τους ὀφθαλμους αὐτων ἐβλεψαν την θαλασσαν.
- 2. λεγων τω όχλω ό άποστολος έθεωρει τον ούρανον.
- 3. γραψας το βιβλιον ὁ Πετρος ἐπεμψεν αὐτο τῃ ἐκκλησια.
- 4. After proclaiming the word, they worshipped God.

7.5 PARTICIPLES AS NOUNS

We learnt in Chapter 5, section 5.5 that adjectives can be 'turned into' nouns by the addition of the article. Thus  $\delta \dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\theta\sigma\varsigma$  means 'the good man'. Since participles are verbal adjectives, unsurprisingly the same can be done with participles.

• Mark 4.14:  $\dot{b}_{\sigma} \pi \epsilon_{i} \rho \omega_{v}$  τον λογον σπειρει.

Sentence = The sower is sowing the word.

Mark 4.18: ούτοι (these) είσιν οί τον λογον ἀκουσαντες.
 ἀκουσαντες = having heard (Aorist masculine nom. pl. participle of ἀκουω) οἱ ἀκουσαντες = the having heard ones = those who heard Sentence = These are the people who heard the word.

Don't be afraid to introduce words like 'who' in your translation of participles that are acting as nouns. The aim is to convey the meaning in good English.

 $<sup>^6</sup>$  Because of the way -εω verbs work there are two different possible ways of parsing these verbs. Can you work out what they are? In your translation use the imperative.

Other patterns of nouns and verbs

8.1 DEPONENT VERBS

John 21.13: ἐρχεται Ἰησους και λαμβανει τον ἀρτον. – Jesus comes and takes the bread.

Both έρχεται and λαμβανει are  $3^{rd}$  person Present Indicative verbs. However, they have different endings. This is because έρχεται is from a different family of verbs called the deponent verbs, with their own set of endings.

The majority of Greek verbs conjugate like  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . However, there are two other groups. One, the  $\mu \iota$  verbs, only contains a handful of words and will be left until Chapter 19. The other group, the deponent verbs, needs to be learnt now.

The deponent verbs behave just as other verbs do, including sharing the same pattern of  $\varepsilon$  and  $\sigma$  in the different tenses, but simply have different endings.

8.1.1 The deponent endings

Indicative of ῥυομαι – I rescue

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I	ρ́υ-ομαι	ρ́υσ-ομαι	ἐρυ-ομην	ἐρυσ-αμην
You (sing.)	ρໍυ-η	ρ́υσ-η	ἐρυ-ου	ἐρυσ-ω
He, she, it	ρໍυ-εται	ρ́υσ-εται	ἐρυ-ετο	ἐρυσ-ατο
We	ρύ-ομεθα	ρύσ-ομεθα	έρυ-ομεθα	έρυσ-αμεθα
You (pl.)	ρύ-εσθε	ρύσ-εσθε	έρυ-εσθε	έρυσ-ασθε
They	ρύ-ονται	ρύσ-ονται	έρυ-οντο	έρυσ-αντο

The Elements of New Testament Greek

Notes

- The endings are completely different from those of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ .
- As in  $\lambda v \omega$  the Aorist endings have 'a' sounds, the other tenses 'o' or 'e'.
- As in  $\lambda v \omega$  the endings in the Future are the same as the Present.
- The endings are very similar in the different tenses, except for the 2nd sing.
- The addition of the  $\varepsilon$  and the  $\sigma$  have the same features as in  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . Thus from άρχομαι (I begin), the Future is ἀρξομαι, the Imperfect ἠρχομην and the Aorist ήρξαμην.

		Present	Aorist
Imperative	2 nd Sing.	ρύου	ρύσαι
	2 nd Pl.	ρύεσθε	ρύσασθε
Infinitive		ρ νεσθαι	ρνσασθαι
Participle	Sing.	ῥυομενος	ρύσαμενος
(masc. nom.)	Pl.	ῥυομενοι	ρύσαμενοι

Other moods of buoman

Notes

- As in  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  the 2nd plural Present Imperatives are the same as the 2nd plural Present Indicatives.
- As in  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  the Aorists in the other moods lack the  $\varepsilon$  but still have the  $\sigma$  and the 'a' sound in the endings.
- The Present endings are very similar to those of the Aorist.
- The participles have a distinctive -μεν-.

PRACTICE 8.1.1

Parse

2.

- έρχονται 1.
- 4. ἀρνησαμενος
- εἰσερχομενοι

- έλογιζετο 3. συνηρχομην
- 5. δεξεται
- 6.
- άπτου
- 8. ἐργαζομενος
- ἀσπαζεσθε 9.

8.1.2 Using deponent verbs

It is crucial to understand that deponent verbs are simply a second group of verbs.

Deponent Verbs mean exactly the same as Normal Verbs For example, the Future of a deponent verb means just the same as the Future of a normal verb (like  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ ). Some verbs are deponent verbs and use the deponent endings, most are normal and use the normal endings – that is just the way it is – and it makes no difference to the meaning.

8.1.3 Which verbs are deponent?

It is very difficult to produce a rule for why certain verbs are deponent when most are normal. Many of the deponent verbs are intransitive verbs, that is they cannot have objects (e.g. I go), but there are so many exceptions that this is not a useful guide.

The form of a verb in a vocabulary list or dictionary reveals whether the verb is deponent, since verbs are always quoted in their 1st person singular Present Indicative. If the verb is listed as ending in  $-\omega$ , it is therefore like  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  (normal); if it is listed as ending in  $-\omega \alpha$ , it will be deponent, like  $\dot{\rho} \upsilon \omega \alpha$ .

For example, πιστευω (I believe) and βαπτιζω (I baptize) are normal like λυω, while ἐρχομαι (I come) and ἀρχομαι (I begin) are deponent like ῥυομαι.

PRACTICE 8.1.3

Put the verb in the form indicated

- 1.  $\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\omega$ , Present 3rd plural Indicative
- 2. ἐρχομαι, Present 3rd singular Indicative
- 3. δεχομαι, Imperfect 2nd plural Indicative
- 4. ἀρχομαι, Aorist masc. nom. pl. participle
- 5. γραφω, Future 1st plural Indicative
- 6. ἐξερχομαι, Present Imperative (plural)
- 7. λογιζομαι, Aorist 3rd plural Indicative
- 8.  $\pi\epsilon\iota\theta\omega$ , Present masc. nom. sing. participle
- 9. προσευχομαι, Present Infinitive
- 10. ἀρνεομαι, Imperfect 3rd plural Indicative

8.1.4 Terminology

Grammatically, the deponent verbs are said to be in the Middle Voice, and the normal verbs in the Active Voice. This is potentially confusing because it could imply that it is possible for a deponent verb to be put into the Active Voice rather than the Middle Voice, which is not true.

Later (in Chapter 15) we will need to use the terminology of Middle and Active Voices. For now, it is easier to think of two types of verbs – normal and deponent – each with their own family of endings. Indeed, the details in Chapter 15 will be easier to understand if you have got used to the ideas of two different types of verb, and have learnt the different endings appropriate to each.

When parsing (e.g. ἐρχομαι) you can say either Middle or deponent (1st sing. Present) – the former is technically better, though the second more helpful.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. ἐρχονται εἰς το ἱερον.
- 2. θελω ἡυσασθαι αὐτον.
- 3. δεχεσθε τον λογον.
- 4. ἀκουσαντες ἠρξαντο ἐρχεσθαι.
- 5. ἀπερχομενος ἐδοξαζεν τον θεον.
- 6. μελλω προσευχεσθαι λεγων
- 7. οἱ Ἰουδαιοι ἐξερχονται ἐκ της συναγωγης.
- 8. μη εὐαγγελιζεσθε.
- 9. The Pharisees began to work.
- 10. They were greeting the wicked.
- 11. I will refuse to keep the law.
- 12. It is necessary to go into the temple.

8.2 IMPERFECT, FUTURE AND OTHER MOODS OF $\epsilon i \mu \iota$

We have already learnt the Present of ɛiµı (I am). Unfortunately, most of its forms are irregular, and so also need to be learnt specially.

		Present	Future	Imperfect
Indicative	I You (sing.) He, she, it We You (pl.) They	εἰμι εἰ ἐστι (ν) ἐσμεν ἐστε εἰσι (ν)	ἐσομαι ἐσῃ ἐσται ἐσομεθα ἐσεσθε ἐσονται	ἠμην ἠς (or ἠσθα) ἠν ἠμεν (or ἠμεθα) ἠτε ἠσαν
Present Infinitive		εἰν	αι
Present part	iciple (masc. n	om.) Sin	g. ἀν Plu	ural ὀντες

Notes

• The Imperfect begins with an  $\eta$ , the Present and Future an  $\varepsilon$ . This makes sense – if you add the augment for the Imperfect to an  $\varepsilon$ , you get an  $\eta$ .

- The Future is almost exactly  $\mathring{\varepsilon}$  plus  $\sigma$  (for the Future) plus deponent endings (except the 3rd singular is  $\mathring{\varepsilon}\sigma\tau\alpha\iota$  rather than  $\mathring{\varepsilon}\sigma\varepsilon\tau\alpha\iota$ ).
- There can be no Aorist of ɛiµı since if you are talking of 'being' in the past, it is naturally Imperfect, describing a 'process' or 'continued state'.

8.3 NOUNS OF CONFUSING GENDER

John 20.3: ὑ Πετρος και ὑ ἀλλος μαθητης ... ἀρχοντο εἰς το μνημειον. – Peter and the other disciple were coming to the tomb.

The words  $\delta$ , Πετρος,  $\lambda\lambda\delta$ ς and  $\mu\alpha\theta\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$  are nominative masculine singular since 'Peter' and 'disciple' are both the subjects of the sentence, and  $\delta$  and  $\lambda\lambda\delta\varsigma$  are agreeing with them. However,  $\mu\alpha\theta\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$  does not look like a masculine nominative singular – this is because it is from a new pattern of nouns.

So far we have learnt that masculine nouns decline like  $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \varsigma$  and feminine nouns like  $\dot{\alpha} \rho \chi \eta$  (or  $\dot{\eta} \mu \epsilon \rho \alpha / \delta \circ \xi \alpha$ ). However, there is a family of masculine nouns that decline similarly to  $\dot{\alpha} \rho \chi \eta$ , and a couple of feminine nouns that decline like  $\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \varsigma$ .

8.3.1 Masculine nouns similar to $d\rho\chi\eta - \pi\rho o\phi\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$ and Ιουδας

There is a group of masculine nouns that are either proper names or are the names of types of people. Their endings are identical to those of  $d\rho\chi\eta$  /  $\eta\mu\epsilon\rho\alpha$  except in the nominative and genitive singular.

		(prophet)	(Judas/Judah)
Sing.	Nom.	προφητ ης	'Ιουδ ας
	Acc.	προφητην	'Ιουδαν
	Gen.	προφητ ου	'Ιουδ α
	Dat.	προφητη	'Ιουδ α

Plural	Nom.	προφηται	(the few words in $-\alpha\varsigma$ for
	Acc.	προφητας	which a plural is logical
	Gen.	προφητων	have the same endings as
	Dat.	προφηταις	in προφητης)

Notes

- These nouns are unusual for not having vocatives identical to their nominatives the vocatives are  $\pi \rho o \phi \eta \tau \alpha$  and 'Iou $\delta \alpha$ .
- Nouns in  $-\alpha \zeta$  whose stems end in  $\varepsilon$ ,  $\iota$  or  $\rho$  (e.g. 'H $\lambda\iota\alpha\zeta$ ) have a genitive in  $-\upsilon \upsilon$  ('H $\lambda\iota\upsilon\upsilon$ ), copying  $\pi\rho o\phi\eta\tau\eta\zeta$ .

8.3.2 Feminine nouns identical to λογος

Here are three words that decline exactly the same as  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$  but are feminine.

δδος – way έρημος – wilderness Αἰγυπτος – Egypt

8.3.3 Agreements

For both of these types of noun you need to watch agreements carefully, for these nouns are the gender they are (e.g.  $\pi \rho o \phi \eta \tau \eta v$  is masculine,  $\delta \delta o v$  is feminine) despite what the endings might suggest.

When these nouns have the article, adjective or anything else that has to agree with them, the agreement is with the actual gender of the noun, rather than simply 'the endings matching'.

e.g. τον προφητην, της όδου, τω πιστω Βαρναβα.

8.3.4 Terminology

Traditionally the different declensions we have learnt are labelled as follows:

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
1 st declension	(Limited number of words like προφητης)	ἀρχη	(none)
2 nd declension	λογος	(Few words like ὁδος declining like λογος)	ἐργον

However, since the adjectives, pronouns and the article all take endings like  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$  in the masculine, like  $\dot{\alpha} \rho \chi \eta$  in the feminine and like  $\dot{\epsilon} \rho \gamma o v$  in the neuter, it is more helpful to think of all these words belonging to a single pattern, with the minor variations noted in this section.

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Normal Pattern	λογος	ἀρχη	ἐργον
Exceptions	(Limited number of nouns like προφητης which have feminine-looking endings)	(Few nouns like ὑδος which decline like the masculine λογος)	(none)

However, occasionally it might be necessary for you to understand the traditional terminology of 1st declension and 2nd declension.

Pronouns and conjunctions

9.1 ἐκεινος AND ούτος (THAT AND THIS)

Matt. 21.11: ἐλεγον. Ούτος ἐστιν ὁ προφητης Ἰησους ... – They were saying: 'This is the prophet Jesus . . .' Matt. 14.1: ἐν ἐκεινφ τῷ καιρῷ ἠκουσεν Ἡρῷδης ... – At that time Herod heard . . .

9.1.1 Formation

ἐκεινος ('that', plural 'those') declines just like αὐτος (Chapter 3, section 3.6) – i.e. like ἀγαθος except in the nominative and accusative neuter singular, where the ending is -o rather than -ov.

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ἐκεινος	ἐκεινη	ἐκεινο
	Acc.	ἐκεινον	ἐκεινην	ἐκεινο

	Dat.	ἐκεινωις	ἐκειναις	ἐκεινων

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ού τος	$\underline{\alpha \dot{v}}$ τη <sup>1</sup>	τουτ ο
	Acc.	τουτον	ταυτην	τουτ ο
	Gen.	τουτου	ταυτης	τουτου

Plural	Nom.	ού τοι	αύ ται	τ αυ τα
	Acc.	τουτους	ταυτας	τ αυ τα
	Gen.	τουτων	$\tau \underline{ov} \tau \omega v$	τουτων
	Dat.	τουτοις	ταυταις	τουτοις

ούτος ('this', plural 'these'	) is a little more awkward:
-------------------------------	-----------------------------

Notes

- The endings of ούτος are the same as for ἐκεινος (and therefore the same as αὐτος and similar to ἀγαθος).
- Pronoun? See it in English Section 1.3 Page 242
- ούτος begins with a τ in most of its forms. However, there is a rough breathing instead in the nominative, masculine and feminine, singular and plural. This is the same as in the article (which begins with a τ except for ô, ή, oi and αi).
- The first vowel fluctuates between ov and  $\alpha v$ . The rule is that it matches the second vowel (the one in the ending). If the second vowel has an o sound, the first vowel is ov, but if it has an  $\eta$  or  $\alpha$  sound, it is  $\alpha v$ .

Hint

Initially, what is important is simply to be able to recognise the forms of  $o\dot{\upsilon}\tau\sigma\varsigma$  in Greek. This is relatively easy, but watch for the forms without the  $\tau$ .

Pa	rse
1.	ἐκειναι	3.	ταυτα	5.	αύτοι	7.	ἐκεινο
2.	τουτου	4.	ἐκεινα	6.	ούτοι	8.	αύτη

9.1.2 Use

ούτος and ἐκεινος can both be used either as a pronoun or as an adjective. Although this sounds complicated, it is exactly the same as English (pronoun – this is boring; adjective – this book is boring).

Their use as pronouns is straightforward (if it is not clear what noun they are standing in place of, try supplying in English 'person' or 'man' if they are masculine, 'woman' [feminine] or 'thing' [neuter]).

ἐβλεψα ἐκεινους. – I saw those people. ἀρξεται ταυτα. – He will begin these things.

Their use as adjectives is almost as simple, but two points need to be learnt.

(i) The article must always be used in addition.

(ii) They are placed in the predicative word order (i.e. before the article or immediately after the noun, but never immediately after the article) despite the fact that their use is really attributive.<sup>2</sup>

In English:	This brother
In Greek:	ούτος ὁ ἀδελφος (This the brother) όλος ('whole') declines like ἀγαθος but it is used like οὑτος (i.e. it comes before the article), e.g. the whole crowd = όλος ὁ ὀχλος not ὁ ὁλος ὀχλος

PRACTICE 9.1.2

9.2 THIRD PERSON PRONOUNS

9.2.1 Further use of αὐτος

We have already met the common  $3^{rd}$  person pronoun  $\alpha \dot{\upsilon} \tau \sigma \varsigma$  (he, she, it, they – Chapter 3, section 3.6). As well as its use as a pronoun,  $\alpha \dot{\upsilon} \tau \sigma \varsigma$  can be used as an adjective, in which case it has two different meanings, depending on its position:

- Adjective meaning 'same' Normal attributive position (between article and noun)
- Emphatic adjective (himself, herself, itself, themselves) Coming before the article (predicative position) 'for emphasis'

 $<sup>^2\,</sup>$  You can rationalise this by thinking that 'this' and 'that' are by nature emphatic words, and so come first for emphasis.

Examples

- λεγω αὐτη. I am speaking to her.
- οἰ μαθηται αὐτου ἐλεγον. His disciples were speaking.
- δ αύτος κυριος σωζει τον λαον. The same Lord saves the people.
- αὐτος ὑ κυριος σωζει τον λαον. The Lord himself saves the people.

9.2.2 ἑαυτος

έαυτος is the 3rd person reflexive pronoun (himself, herself, itself, themselves). This is confusing, because English uses the same words (e.g. himself) to cover two different meanings – an emphatic adjective and a reflexive pronoun. In Greek the emphatic adjective is αὐτος, the reflexive pronoun ἑαυτος.

έαυτος declines exactly as αὐτος does, but because of its meaning will never occur in the nominative.

Examples

- δ κυριος σωζει έαυτον. The Lord saves himself.
- αὐτος ὑ κυριος σωζει τον λαον. The Lord himself saves the people.

Hint
```

You can tell whether 'himself' etc. is reflexive or emphatic by deleting it. If the sentence's basic meaning is unaltered, it was emphatic; if not, it was reflexive.

9.2.3 άλλος and άλληλος

άλλος (other) and άλληλος (one another) both decline like ἐκεινος.

άλλος is an adjective meaning 'other'. It is used in the same way as a normal adjective, i.e. in the attributive position (not like ἐκεινος and ούτος).

 $\alpha\lambda\eta\lambda\sigma\zeta$  is a pronoun meaning 'one another'. It is used exactly as one would expect (note: because of its meaning, it can never appear in the nominative).

Examples

Mark 4.36: και ἄλλα πλοια ήν μετ' αύτου. – And other boats were with him.<sup>3</sup> Mark 4.41: ἐλεγον προς ἀλληλους. – They were saying to one another.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. ἀρνουνται ἑαυτους.

2. φιλω έκεινον τον μαθητην.

&lt;sup>3</sup> The neuter plural nom. or acc. of ἀλλος looks the same as the word for 'but'. Here accents can help us – ἀλλὰ means 'but' while ἄλλα is from ἀλλος.

104 The Elements of New Testament Greek

9.3 FIRST AND SECOND PERSON PRONOUNS AND ADJECTIVES

9.3.1 Pronouns

		1 st Person				2 nd Perso	n
	Sir	ıg.	P	lural	Sing.		Plural
Nom.	ἐγω	Ι	ήμεις	we	συ	уои	ύμεις
Acc.	ẻμε or με	те	ήμας	us	σε	уои	ύμας

Dat.	μου ἐμοι or μοι	mine to/for me	ήμιν	our to/for us	σοι	your to/for you	ύμιν

Note

λυομεν itself means 'we untie'. There is no need for a word for 'we'. Indeed, these pronouns should be used in the nominative (ἐγω, ἡμεις, συ, ὑμεις) only when particular emphasis or contrast is intended.

Examples

Gal. 5.2: ἐγω Παυλος λεγω ὑμιν ... – I Paul tell you . . .

- John 12.27:  $\sigma\omega\sigma$ on  $\mu\epsilon$  èk the wrat tauthe. Save me from this hour.
- John 21.17: λεγει αὐτῷ ... Φιλεις με; ... και λεγει αὐτῷ. Κυριε ... συ γινωσκεις ὑτι φιλω σε. – he said to him ... 'Do you love me?' ... and he said to him, 'Lord ... you know that I love you'.

9.3.2 Reflexive pronouns

Myself	έμαυτος (declines like αὐτος)
Yourself (sing.)	σεαυτος (declines like αὐτος)
Ourselves	just use plural of ἑαυτος
Yourselves (pl.)	just use plural of ἑαυτος

9.3.3 Possessive adjectives

The most common way of expressing possession is by using the genitive of the personal pronouns –  $\mu \omega v$ ,  $\sigma \omega v$ ,  $\dot{\eta} \mu \omega v$ ,  $\dot{\upsilon} \mu \omega v$  (of me, of you, of us, of you).

However, there are also adjectives (which decline like  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\theta_{0\varsigma}$ ) for 'my' and 'you' (singular).

Му	ἐμος	Your (sing.)	σος
					Hint
'My words' is	οί λογοι μου	not λογοι μου. (Comp	are: 'his w	ords', οἱ λογοι αὐτου.) ἐμος,	σος, μου, ήμων	ν, σ ου and ὑμων all nee	ed the artic	le.

9.4 CONJUNCTIONS

Conjunctions are words that join together two sentences – words such as 'therefore', 'thus', 'when' etc. There are equivalent words in Greek and so translation is quite straightforward. However, there are four points to note.

9.4.1 Timid words

There are a number of conjunctions that are 'timid', in that they cannot stand first in their sentence or clause (the technical name for them is postpositives).

cannot come as the first word<sup>4</sup>

When translating you need mentally to move the postpositive one word earlier in the sentence.<sup>5</sup>

Examples

Mark 3.10: πολλους γαρ ἐθεραπευσεν – because he healed many 1 Thes. 2.20: ὑμεις γαρ ἐστε ἡ δοξα ἡμων και ἡ χαρα.

– because you are our glory and joy.

9.4.2 μεν and δε

 $\mu\epsilon\nu$  is normally used preceding a  $\delta\epsilon$ . In these cases, a contrast between two things is being stressed. You can think of  $\mu\epsilon\nu$  meaning 'on the one hand' and then  $\delta\epsilon$  as meaning 'on the other hand' (although this can sound excessive in English).

λογιζεσθε ἑαυτους εἰναι  $\sqrt{}$  νεκρους μεν τη ἁμαρτια  $\sqrt{}$  ζωντας δε τω θεω (Rom. 6.11) – consider yourselves to be (on the one hand) dead to sin but (on the other hand) alive to God.

1 Cor. 1.12: ἑκαστος ὑμων λεγει· Ἐγω μεν εἰμι Παυλου, ἐγω δε Ἀπολλω, ἐγω δε Κηφα, ἐγω δε Χριστου. - Each of you says, 'I am Paul's, I am Apollos', I am Cephas', I am Christ's' (or 'I belong to Paul, I belong to Apollos . . .').

If  $\mu\epsilon\nu$  and  $\delta\epsilon$  are used just with the article, they mean 'some . . . but others . . .'.

Acts 14.4: ... και oi μεν ήσαν συν τοις Ιουδαιοις, oi δε συν τοις ἀποστολοις. – and some were with the Jews but others were with the apostles.

9.4.3 Use of δε

Normally every Greek sentence needs to be connected to the previous one by a conjunction in a way that is not necessary in English. Greek will tend to use the word  $\delta\epsilon$  to do this. Therefore, a Greek  $\delta\epsilon$  will often be untranslated in English.

Thus  $\delta \varepsilon$  is a weak 'but'. Another conjunction,  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\alpha$  (which is not postpositive), expresses 'but' more strongly.

δε is also used just with the article (e.g. όδε) to point out that the subject has changed (e.g. Mark 6.37-38: λεγουσιν αὐτῷ ... όδε λεγει αὐτοις, Ποσους ἀρτους ἐχετε; – They said to him ... he said to them, 'How many loaves of bread do you have?')

9.4.4 Use of και

 $\kappa \alpha t$  normally means 'and'.<sup>6</sup> However, it can also be used to give emphasis, equivalent to 'also' or 'even' in English. The rule for translating it is that if 'and' is necessary (i.e. there is no other conjunction), then it is 'and'. If 'and' is not necessary (i.e. the  $\kappa \alpha t$  seems redundant), then it is there for emphasis and should be translated 'also' or 'even'.

 $\tau\epsilon$  is often followed by  $\kappa\alpha\iota$  giving the meaning 'both . . . and'.

Examples

Mark 2.28: κυριος έστιν ὁ υἱος του ἀνθρωπου και του σαββατου.

– The son of man is lord even over the Sabbath.

Acts 1.1: (ών) ήρξατο ό Ίησους ποιειν τε και διδασκειν.

- (which) Jesus began both to do and to teach.

Complex sentences

10.1 RELATIVE PRONOUN

Rom. 16.5: ἀσπασασθε Ἐπαινετον τον ἀγαπητον μου, ὡς ἐστιν ἀπαρχη της ἘΑσιας εἰς Χριστον.

– Greet my beloved Epaenetos, who is a beginning of Asia for Christ.

Luke 7.27: ούτος ἐστιν περι ού γεγραπται ...

- this is (the one) concerning whom it is written . . .

Luke 6.46: tí de me kaleite kurie kurie, kai où poieite  $\underline{\dot{\alpha}}$  legw;

- why do you call me, 'Lord, Lord', and do not do what I say?

The Greek word  $\delta \varsigma$  (which declines giving forms such as  $o \upsilon$  and  $\dot{\alpha}$ ) is equivalent to the English 'who' (which itself produces whom, whose, what and which). These words join together two sentences/clauses: they come in the second, but point back to a noun in the first, exactly as they do in English.

10.1.1 Understanding relatives

The relative pronoun is not difficult in Greek – it functions in basically the same way as in English. However, because the function of the relative is to join together into one sentence what could be two sentences, you do need to have a firm grasp of the basics of Greek sentences (from Chapters 2, 3 and 4). In particular:

- There will be two main verbs in a complex sentence one from each of the two constituent sentences. You need to be clear which verb is going with which subject.
- The relative pronoun functions as the join between the two constituent sentences both of these sentences have a role in determining its gender, case and number.

Pronoun? Section 1.3 Page 242

112 The Elements of New Testament Greek

In formal English the relative pronoun changes in different cases ('who' is different from 'whom'), but most English speakers do not now use this distinction, and so find it frustrating that there is not a single word for 'who' in Greek.<sup>1</sup>

Examples

Two basic sentences:	1. The lord sent the messenger.
	2. The messenger saw the sea.

Since 'the messenger' occurs in both sentences, he can be replaced in the second by the relative pronoun.

One complex sentence: The lord sent the messenger who saw the sea.

When this is written in Greek, it is vital to be aware that:

- there are still two basic sentences here (e.g. there are two main verbs 'sent' and 'saw')
- 'who' is standing in for 'the messenger'. Grammatically 'the messenger' is called the antecedent of 'who' the word in the previous sentence that the 'who' is looking back to.

One complex sentence:	They are keeping the law which he teaches.
Two basic sentences:	<ol> <li>They are keeping the law.</li> <li>He teaches the law.</li> </ol>

Thus, in the complex sentence, 'the law' is the antecedent of 'which'.

Hint

- The antecedent will come in the first sentence.
- The relative will be in the second sentence (replacing the antecedent).
- In English the antecedent normally immediately precedes the relative.

PRACTICE 10.1.1

Break down these complex sentences into two basic sentences. Which word is the antecedent of the relative in these sentences?

- 1. Jesus threw out the demon which was in the man.
- 2. I am the man whom you are seeking.

&lt;sup>1</sup> However, 'whose' as the genitive of 'who' is still generally used in English.

- 3. She ate the meal which the king sent.
- 4. The prophet offered the sacrifice, because of which the rain came.
- 5. Is this the Messiah for whom we are waiting?
- 6. The governor sent the soldiers who arrested Jesus.

10.1.2 Formation of the relative in Greek

The relative pronoun  $\delta \varsigma$  (English: who, whom, whose, what, which) declines very similarly to the definite article. To highlight this in the table below, the article is declined in the white columns next to the corresponding part of the relative.

		Masc	uline	Femi	nine	Neut	er

	Dat.	οίς	τοις	αίς	ταις	οίς	τοις

Key: ov Relative pronoun

τον Definite article for comparison

A very short word with a rough breathing is almost certain to be part of the relative pronoun. Replace the rough breathing with a  $\tau$  and you will have the corresponding part of the article which, hopefully, you will be able to recognise.

Hint

 $<sup>^2</sup>$  The forms  $\hat{\eta}$ ,  $\hat{o}$ , oi and  $\alpha i$  occur in both the relative and the article. Context will normally make clear which is meant. However, accents can help here, since the relative always has an accent (normally grave), while the article almost never does. These forms will be accented in this book to help you; you may find it helpful to write them yourself.

10.1.3 Using the relative in Greek

To get the relative correct in Greek, it is useful first to identify the two basic sentences, and the relative's antecedent.

In the relative: Number and Gender agree with the antecedent Case is determined within its own sentence, by the normal rules (e.g. whether it is the object, governed by a preposition etc.)

Examples

• The lord sent the messenger who saw the sea. Antecedent: the messenger 2nd sentence: who (the messenger) saw the sea

The antecedent is masculine singular; 'who' is the subject of its sentence. Relative should be masculine, singular, nominative =  $\delta\varsigma$

- = ὁ κυριος ἐπεμψεν τον ἀγγελον ὡς ἐβλεψεν την θαλασσαν.
- They are keeping the law which he teaches. Antecedent: the law
   2nd sentence: he teaches which (the law)

The antecedent is masculine singular; 'which' is the object of its sentence. Relative should be masculine singular, accusative =  $\delta v$

- = τηρουσιν τον νομον ών διδασκει.
- That is the synagogue into which they are coming. Antecedent: the synagogue 2nd sentence: they are coming into which (the synagogue)

The antecedent is feminine singular; 'who' is governed by  $\varepsilon i \varsigma$  and therefore must be accusative. Relative should be feminine, singular, accusative =  $\eta v$ .

= ἐκεινη ἐστιν ἡ συναγωγη εἰς ἡν ἐρχονται.

Further points<sup>3</sup>

• Often the relative clause will come in the middle of the complex sentence, not neatly at the end. English also does this, but not as often as in Greek.

e.g. τα τεκνα ἁ ἐδιδασκον κραζει.

- The children whom I was teaching are crying out.
- If the antecedent should be part of αὐτος, οὑτος or ἐκεινος it will often be omitted.

e.g. ό υίος ούς θελει ζωοποιει. = ό υίος ζωοποιει αύτους ούς θελει.

– The son makes alive those whom he wishes (John 5.21)

- Also Greek will often put the relative clause first. e.g.  $\dot{\alpha} \beta \lambda \epsilon \pi \omega \varphi_1 \lambda \omega = \varphi_1 \lambda \omega \alpha \dot{\upsilon} \tau \alpha \dot{\alpha} \beta \lambda \epsilon \pi \omega$ .
  - I like the things which I see = I like what I see.

Examples

John 6.2: έθεωρουν τα σημεια ἁ έποιει.

– They were seeing the signs which he was doing.

Rom. 9.18: ἀρα οὐν ὑν θελει ἐλεει.

– So then, he has mercy on whom he wishes.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. blepw ton doulon on ékalesen.
- 2. ὑπαγε ἐκ του οἰκου ἐν ὡ εἶ.
- 3. που έστιν τα ποτηρια ἁ φιλουμεν;
- 4. ἐπιστευσαν γαρ τω εὐαγγελιω ὃ οἱ ἀποστολοι ἐκηρυσσον.
- 5. ἀσπαζεσθε οἳ ἐρχονται προς ὑμας.
- 6. ούτος έστιν ό κυριος δι' ού προσευξομεθα.
- 7. ἁ ήκουσα ταυτα λεγω ὑμιν.
- 8. ἀσπαζεσθε τον Τιμοθεον ὑπερ οὑ ἡ ἐκκλησια προσευχεται.
- 9. He keeps the bread which he made.
- 10. It is necessary to love the God who saves us.
- 11. Do you (s.) believe the gospel which you heard?
- 12. Did the disciple who denied Jesus repent?

10.2 SLANTED QUESTIONS

In Chapter 4, section 4.5 we learnt how to ask questions in Greek (using either a question word or just the question mark).

However, in Greek just as in English it is possible to ask questions in such a way as to imply that you are expecting the answer 'yes' or 'no'. Greek does this in a very compact and straightforward way.

In English we have various different ways of expressing these kinds of question, A question expecting the answer:  $(no' - \mu\eta ...; yes' - ov ...;$

often involving tone of voice. What is important is the we understand the meaning conveyed by the question, and then find some suitable way of putting it in English.

Examples

John 6.67: Μη και ύμεις θελετε ύπαγειν;

- You don't also wish to go away, do you?

- Surely you don't also want to go away?

John 7.25: Ούχ ούτος ἐστιν ὑν ζητουσιν;

- This is whom they are seeking, isn't it?

- Surely this is the one they are after?

Notes

- It is difficult to find any logical reason behind the use in slanted questions of these two forms of 'not'.
- Word order can help distinguish this special use of  $o\dot{v}$  and  $\mu\eta$  from their use as negatives. As question words they will normally come first in the sentence, but this is very unusual when they are simple negatives. (When they are question words there will also be a question mark, of course.)
- $\mu\eta\tau\iota$  is also sometimes used instead of  $\mu\eta$ , and ov $\chi\iota$  instead of ov.<sup>4</sup>

Luke 4.22: και έλεγον, Ούχι υίος έστιν Ἰωσηφ ούτος;

- And they were saying, 'Isn't this Joseph's son?'

John 8.22: ἐλεγον οὐν οἱ Ἰουδαιοι, Μητι ἀποκτενει [to kill] ἑαυτον;

- So the Jews were saying, 'He isn't going to kill himself, is he?'

&lt;sup>4</sup> μητι can also be used for a hesitant question wondering whether something could be the case. For example John 4.29: μητι ούτος ἐστιν ὁ Χριστος; – Could he be the Messiah? or He cannot be the Messiah, can he?

PRACTICE 10.2

Translate

1.  $\mu\eta\beta\lambda$ epete; 2. où gileic  $\mu$ e; 3. égw où gilw se. 4.  $\mu\eta$  égw;

10.3 DIRECT AND INDIRECT STATEMENTS

In English a verb of saying can be followed either by the words that were said enclosed in quotation marks or by the word 'that' followed by a report of what was said. The former is said to be direct speech or a direct statement, the latter indirect speech or an indirect statement.

He said, 'I am the Christ. – Direct statement He said that he was the Christ. – Indirect statement

Indirect statements also occur after other 'verbs of saying or thinking' (such as feeling, believing, knowing, learning, fearing etc.).

I thought that he was the Christ.

Direct statements

Direct statements are expressed in four different ways in Greek:

- 1. The word  $\delta \tau i$  is used to introduce the direct statement (thus the  $\delta \tau i$  is equivalent to the opening inverted commas or speech marks in English).
- 2. The participle of  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  is added immediately before the direct statement (again, the participle is then equivalent to the opening inverted commas in English).

e.g. και ἐκηρυσσεν λεγων· Ἐρχεται... (Mark 1.7) and he used to preach (saying), 'He is coming . . .'

- 3. Both  $\delta \tau i$  and the participle of  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$  (i.e. 1 and 2 combined).
- 4. Nothing marks out the beginning of the direct statement.

In most printed texts the beginning of a direct statement is also marked out with a capital letter. However, early manuscripts were written completely in capitals, and so this marking out of direct statements merely expresses the opinion of the editors of your printed text and is not part of the text itself (but to begin with, it is sensible to assume they are right!).

• Nothing marks out the end of a direct statement in Greek. Thus it is hard to be certain where direct speech finishes (e.g. in John 3 it is not clear where between verses 10 and 21 the speech begun in verse 10 ends).

Indirect statements

Indirect statements are expressed in Greek by the word  $\delta \tau i$  (meaning 'that'), and so are quite straightforward.

e.g. θεωρω ότι προφητης εΐ συ. (John 4.19) – I see that you are a prophet.

However, when the words or thoughts were in the past, Greek uses a tense for the words / thoughts that is different from the tense used in English.

Greek uses the tense of the original words or thoughts

For example, take the English sentence, 'She heard that Jesus was coming.' This is an indirect statement and so will be translated into Greek using  $\delta\tau\iota$ . However, the actual report that she heard was 'Jesus is coming.' Hence it will be translated into Greek using the Present tense of coming (is coming), whereas in English we use a past tense (was coming).

She heard that Jesus was coming. ήκουσεν ότι Ἰησους ἐρχεται. (John 11.20)

Similarly, to translate into Greek the sentence 'The Jews did not believe that he had been blind', you need to identify that the original words/thoughts were 'He was not blind'; thus, this would be an Imperfect in Greek:

The Jews did not believe about him that he had been blind. οὐκ ἐπιστευσαν οἱ Ἰουδαιοι περι αὐτου ὁτι ἠν τυφλος. (John 9.18)

Hint

Do not be confused by the three different meanings of ότι:

- 1. To introduce direct statements (= open speech marks)
- 2. To introduce indirect statements (= 'that')
- 3. As a word meaning 'because'

PRACTICE 10.3

Do these sentences include direct or indirect statements? If indirect, which Greek tense would be used in the indirect statement?

- 1. The centurion says that he is going.
- 2. I said to him, 'Worship me.'
- 3. The women said that he had been blind.
- 4. The soldiers thought that they saw him.

- 5. The blind people said, 'We want to see.'
- 6. Then they cried out that he was coming.

10.4 TIME EXPRESSIONS

Greek expresses time in a rather clever but compact way. No preposition is used – the word referring to the period of time is simply put in the appropriate case.

KEY GRAMMAR
 Time 'how long' – accusative
 Time 'during' – genitive
 Time 'at which' – dative

Examples

- δυο ήμερας άκουουσιν του κυριου.
- 1. ήμερας is acc. plural<sup>5</sup>
- 2. In a time expression acc. means time 'how long', expressed in English by 'for'
- 3. Sentence = 'For two days they listen to the Lord.'
- της ήμερας άκουουσιν του κυριου.
- 1. ήμερας is gen. sing.<sup>6</sup>
- 2. In a time expression gen. means time 'during', expressed in English by 'during' or 'by'
- 3. Sentence = 'During the day they listen to the Lord.' or 'By day they listen to the Lord.'
- τη ήμερα άκουουσιν του κυριου.
- 1. ἡμερα is dat.
- 2. In a time expression dat. means time 'at which', expressed in English by 'on'.
- 3. Sentence =  $\frac{On the day}{On the day}$  they listen to the Lord.

Note: Sometimes, although no preposition is needed,  $\dot{\epsilon}v$  is used as well as the dative ( $\dot{\epsilon}v$  τη ήμερα βλεπουσιν). This makes no difference to the meaning.

 $<sup>^5\,</sup>$  In form it could be gen. sing. but δυο meaning 'two' shows it must be a plural.

2.

In Greek, what case would be used for these time expressions?

- 1. They came on the Sabbath. He fasted for forty days.
- Three days he was in the tomb. 4.
- 5. At dawn the stone moved.
- 3. Nicodemus came by night. He was arrested during Passover. 6.

Special verbs

John 1.11: εἰς τα ἰδια ήλθεν, και οἱ ἰδιοι αὐτον οὐ παρελαβον. – he came to his own, and his own received him not. Luke 4.9: ήγαγεν δε αὐτον εἰς Ἰερουσαλημ ... και εἰπεν αὐτφ ... – he led him to Jerusalem . . . and said to him . . .

The four verbs here  $-\dot{\eta}\lambda\theta\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\alpha\rho\epsilon\lambda\alpha\beta\nu\nu$ ,  $\dot{\eta}\gamma\alpha\gamma\epsilon\nu$  and  $\epsilon\dot{\imath}\pi\epsilon\nu$  – are all in the Aorist tense, as is reflected in their translations. However, the Aorist has not been formed in accordance with the pattern we learnt in Chapter 6 (in particular, while there is an  $\epsilon$  augment, there is no added  $\sigma$ ). This is because these four verbs belong to the group of verbs that form their Aorist in a different way, called the 'Second (2nd) Aorist'.

In the 2nd Aorist, verbs use different stems. Sometimes these are similar to the normal stem  $-\pi\alpha\rho\epsilon\underline{\lambda\alpha\beta}$ ov from  $\pi\alpha\rho\alpha\underline{\lambda\alpha\mu\beta\alpha\nu}\omega$  and  $\underline{\eta\gamma\alpha\gamma}\epsilon\nu$  from  $\underline{\alpha\gamma\omega} - at$  other times they are completely different  $-\eta\lambda\theta\epsilon\nu$  from  $\epsilon\eta\chi\omega\mu\alpha$  and  $\epsilon\lambda\pi\epsilon\nu$  from  $\lambda\epsilon\gamma\omega$ .

11.1 SECOND AORISTS

11.1.1 The principle

There is a group of Greek verbs that do not form their Aorist in the normal way.

They are said to use a  $2^{nd}$  (form of the) Aorist rather than the more common  $1^{st}$  (form of the) Aorist, which is the one we have already met. It is crucial to realise that the  $1^{st}$  Aorist and the  $2^{nd}$  Aorist are simply different ways of forming the Aorist – they are not two different tenses.<sup>1</sup>

KEY GRAMMAR

The 2nd Aorist has the same meaning as the 1st Aorist A verb will have either a 1st Aorist or a 2nd Aorist but not both

Thus, in this chapter you need to learn which verbs have a 2nd Aorist and how to form the 2nd Aorist, but there will be no discussion of its meaning or use, because its meaning and use are the same as those of the 1st Aorist in Chapter 6.

11.1.2 Compare in English

Most English verbs form their Past tense by adding –ed. e.g. walk  $\rightarrow$  walked; row  $\rightarrow$  rowed; attack  $\rightarrow$  attacked

Some verbs form their Past tense by changing their stem instead of adding -ed. e.g. sing  $\rightarrow$  sung; see  $\rightarrow$  saw; throw  $\rightarrow$  threw

Only very rare words can do both.

e.g. hang  $\rightarrow$  hung or hanged.

There is no 'different quality of pastness' depending on which way the verb forms its Past tense. The form is different, but the meaning is the same.

There is no rule for determining which pattern a given word follows. When learning English you simply have to learn which verbs form their Past tense by changing their stem, and learn what their stem changes to. You know that all the other verbs will form their Past tense by adding –ed. Those learning English may sometimes get this wrong and create forms such as 'sayed'. This is wrong, but understandable, and not too serious a mistake, because 'sayed' is simply wrong rather than meaning anything different from 'said'.

All of the points are also true of the Greek 1st and 2nd Aorists.

11.1.3 The formation of the 2nd Aorist

The distinguishing feature of the 2nd Aorist is the changed stem. This changed stem is always present in the 2nd Aorist and is only present in the 2nd Aorist.

key grammar 2nd Aorist = Changed Stem

Stems

Unfortunately, there is no way of working out what the changed stem will be. You have to learn the changed stems of the verbs which have a 2nd Aorist. There are 21 such verbs which occur with any frequency in the New Testament. These are listed here and in the grammar reference pages on page 270.

KEY GRAMMAR
It is impossible to spot a 2 nd Aorist unless you recognise the 2 nd Aorist stem Learn them!

Some 2nd Aorist stems are shortened versions of the Present stem:

	Present	2 nd Aorist
I sin	ἁμαρταν-ω	ἡμαρτ-ον
I die	ἀποθνησκ-ω	ἀπεθαν-ον
I throw	βαλλ-ω	ἐβαλ-ον
I find	εύρισκ-ω	εὑρ-ον
I leave	καταλειπ-ω	κατελιπ-ον
I take	λαμβαν-ω	ἐλαβ-ον
I learn	μανθαν-ω	ἐμαθ-ον
I suffer	πασχ-ω	ἐπαθ-ον
I drink	πιν-ω	ἐπι-ον
I flee	φευγ-ω	ἐφυγ-ον

These include two whose endings are a little different:

I go <sup>2</sup>	βαιν-ω	ἐβ-ην
I know	γινωσκ-ω	ἐγν-ων

Others make other minor adjustments to the stem:

I lead	ἀγ-ω	ἠγαγ-ον
I have	ἐχ-ω	ἐσχ-ον
I fall	πιπτ-ω	$\dot{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\sigma$ -on

One is deponent (and therefore has deponent endings):

I become γιν-ομαι έγεν-ομην

Five have 2nd Aorists that bear no resemblance to their forms in the Present.<sup>3</sup>

I come	ἐρχ-ομαι	ήλθ-ον
I say	λεγ-ω	εἰπ-ον

&lt;sup>3</sup> What is happening here is that there are two different verbs with the same meaning, one of which is used in the Present and the other in the  $(2^{nd})$  Aorist (as in English 'go' and 'went').

I eat	ἐσθι-ω	έφαγ-ον
I see	ό ρα-ω ⁴	είδ-ον
I carry	φερ-ω	ήνεγκ-ον

Endings

The 2nd Aorist does not use the (1st) Aorist endings. Instead it uses the endings more normally associated with other tenses – the Imperfect in the Indicative, and the Present in the other moods (where there is no Imperfect).

2nd Aorist Indicative – Imperfect Endings 2nd Aorist Other Moods – Present Endings

Thus for  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$  (I throw), the 2nd Aorist forms are:

Indicative	I You (sing.)	ἐβαλον ἐβαλες	Imperative	2 nd Sing. 2 nd Pl.	βαλε βαλετε
	He, she, it	ἐβαλεν	Infinitive		βαλειν
	We	ἐβαλομεν	Participle	Sing.	βαλων
	You (pl.)	έβαλετε	(masc. nom.)	Plural	βαλοντες
	They	ἐβαλον

11.1.4 Indicative 2nd Aorists

Notice that in the Indicative the 2nd Aorist looks very similar to the Imperfect – having the augment, no  $\sigma$  and the Imperfect endings, just as the Imperfect does. In fact, the only difference between, for example, the 2nd Aorist and Imperfect of  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$  is that the 2nd Aorist uses the changed stem, hence  $\dot{\epsilon}\beta\alpha\lambda\nu\nu$ ,  $\dot{\epsilon}\beta\alpha\lambda\epsilon\varsigma$ ,  $\dot{\epsilon}\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\epsilon\varphi$ , etc.

Examples

ἐφευγον	3 rd Plural Imperfect Indicative	They were fleeing ἐφυγον	3 rd Plural Aorist Indicative	They fled έγινετο	3 rd Singular Imperfect Indicative	It was happening
έγενετο	3 rd Singular Aorist Indicative	It happened
έλεγετε	2 nd Plural Imperfect Indicative	You were saying εἰπετε	2 nd Plural Aorist Indicative	You said

Translate

2.	ἐλαβον	4.	εἰπεν	6.	ήλθον	8.	είδες

11.1.5 Other moods 2nd Aorists

Augments

The 2nd Aorist Indicative has an augment. However, as in the 1st Aorist, the augment is removed in the other moods. You need to be aware that the forms listed above included the augments. This is obvious in the case of, say,  $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\alpha\beta\sigma\nu$ , but less so in the case of  $\dot{\eta}\lambda\theta\sigma\nu$  (whose unaugmented form is  $\dot{\epsilon}\lambda\theta$ -). A list of the more confusing unaugmented forms is given on page 270.

είπον and είδον are confusing, in as much as while the augment can be removed from είδον to give  $i\delta$ -, even in the other moods είπον remains είπ-.

Endings

In the other moods, the 2nd Aorist can look like a Present (just as, in the Indicative, it can look like the Imperfect). For example, the - $\omega v$  in  $\beta \alpha \lambda \omega v$  tricks many students into thinking that it is a Present participle like  $\lambda \upsilon \omega v$ . However, in fact, the Present (simultaneous) participle of  $\beta \alpha \lambda \lambda \omega$  is  $\beta \alpha \lambda \omega v$  while the Aorist (sequence) participle is  $\beta \alpha \lambda \omega v$ .

11.1.6 Unusual endings

(i) ginvs kw and katabains

γινωσκω (I know) and βαινω (I go) have unusual endings in the 2nd Aorist. In Greek of the New Testament period, βαινω only exists in compounds such as καταβαινω and ἀναβαινω. Therefore we will use καταβαινω as a model.

Indicative	έγνων, έγνως, έγνω, έγνωμεν, έγνωτε, έγνωσαν
Imperative	γνω, γνωτε	Infinitive	γνωναι
Participle	γνους, γνοντες
Indicative	κατεβην, κατεβης, κατεβη, κα	τεβημεν, κατεβι	ητε, κατεβησαν
Imperative	καταβηθι, καταβητε	Infinitive	καταβηναι
Participle	καταβας, καταβαντες

These can best be understood as the result of the form being dominated by the strong long vowel with which their stems end ( $\omega$  or  $\eta$ ). These verbs also have irregularities in the other tenses (see Chapter 18, section 18.4 and the lists on pages 253–4).

(ii) 2nd Aorists with 1st Aorist endings

ήλθον, εἰπον, εἰπον, εἰδον and ἠνεγκον are sometimes found with 1st Aorist endings (i.e. what we learnt in Chapter 6 as the Aorist endings) rather than with the Imperfect/Present endings you would expect for the 2nd Aorist. This makes no difference to the meaning.

e.g.  $\epsilon i \pi \underline{\alpha v}$  rather than  $\epsilon i \pi \underline{ov}$  (Acts 16.31)  $\eta \lambda \theta \underline{\alpha \tau \epsilon}$  rather than  $\eta \lambda \theta \underline{\epsilon \tau \epsilon}$  (Matt. 25.36)

11.2 THE FUTURE AND AORIST OF LIQUID VERBS

1 Cor. 1.17: οὐ γαρ ἀπεστειλεν με Χριστος βαπτιζειν ...
– because Christ did not send me to baptize ...
Luke 11.49: ἀποστελῶ εἰς αὐτους προφητας και ἀποστολους ...
– I will send to them prophets and apostles ...

άπεστειλεν is the Aorist of άποστελλω and άποστελῶ is the future. In both cases notice how the σ we would expect to find at the end of the stem, marking out the Future/Aorist, is missing. Also there are slight changes in the stem. This is because ἀποστελλω is a 'liquid verb'.

Verbs whose stems end in  $\lambda$ ,  $\mu$ ,  $\nu$  or  $\rho$  (called liquid verbs)<sup>5</sup> have peculiar Aorists and Futures. However, this is not because they form a new class of verbs. What is happening is that for both the Aorist and the Future a  $\sigma$  is added to the stem. However, for reasons of pronunciation a  $\sigma$  cannot follow a  $\lambda$ ,  $\mu$ ,  $\nu$  or  $\rho$  – thus the expected  $\sigma$  disappears, and there are various compensatory changes.

The Future

- A different stem is used.
- No  $\sigma$  is added (which you would expect for the Future).
- The endings from the Present of  $\varphi\imath\lambda\epsilon\omega$  are used (-w, -eiz, -ei, -oumen, -eite, -ousin).

The Aorist

- A different stem is used.
- No  $\sigma$  is added (which you would expect for the Aorist).
- The augment and endings of the (1st) Aorist are used as normal.

Fortunately, the stem changes involved are normally minimal – just the shifting between a double and single consonant, or between long and short vowels.

KEY GRAMMAR

In liquid verbs there is no  $\sigma$  in the Future or Aorist

11.2.1 Common liquid verbs<sup>6</sup>

Many use the same stem in the Aorist as the Present. In the Future this stem is altered by the final vowel of the stem being shortened:

	Present	Future <sup>7</sup>	Aorist
I sow	σπειρω	σπερεω	έσπειρα
I raise	ἐγειρω	ἐγερεω	ήγειρ α
I kill	ἀποκτεινω	ἀποκτενεω	ἀπεκτεινα
nilar is:

Similar is:

I lift up αἰ	οω αρεω	ήρα
--------------	---------	-----

Others move from a final double consonant in the Present to a single consonant in the Future, and to a single consonant with a lengthened vowel in the Aorist:

I send	ἀποστελλω	ἀποστελεω	ἀπεστειλα
I announce	ἀγγελλω	ἀγγελεω	ήγγειλα

Some are similar but show no change in the Future, since in the Present their final vowel is already short, and their final consonant is not doubled:

I remain	μενω	μενεω	ἐμεινα
I judge	κρινω	κρινεω	ἐκρινα

Some follow the same general principles but have 2nd Aorists:

I die	ἀποθνησκω	ἀποθανεομαι	ἀπεθανον
I throw	βαλλω	βαλεω	ἐβαλον

Examples

John 15.10: μενειτε έν τῃ ἀγαπῃ μου.

– You will remain in my love.

Matt. 21.1: τοτε Ἰησους ἀπεστειλεν δυο μαθητας.

- Then Jesus sent two disciples.

11.2.2 Accents in the Future

Because some liquid verbs such as  $\mu\epsilon\nu\omega$  and  $\kappa\rho\nu\omega$  use the same stem for the Present as for the Future, the only difference in form between the Present and the Future is that the Future uses the  $-\epsilon\omega$  endings. However, once the contraction has happened, often the  $-\epsilon\omega$  endings are no different from the normal  $-\omega$  endings

(e.g.  $\mu\epsilon\nu\omega$ ,  $\mu\epsilon\nu\epsilon\iota\zeta$ ,  $\mu\epsilon\nu\upsilon\sigma\iota\nu$ ). Thus the Present does not differ from the Future. In these cases the accent can be helpful.

A liquid verb has a circumflex if (and only if) it is Future

e.g. μένεις is Present (you remain), μενεῖς is Future (you will remain).

None of the nouns underlined in these passages have the endings that we would expect.  $\sigma\alpha\rho\kappa\iota$  and  $\pi\nu\epsilon\nu\mu\alpha\tau\iota$  must be dative (after  $\dot{\epsilon}\nu$ );  $\sigma\alpha\rho\xi$ ,  $\alpha\dot{\mu}\alpha$  and  $\pi\alpha\tau\eta\rho$  are nominatives (subjects); the tov in front of  $\pi\nu\epsilon\nu\mu\alpha\tauo\varsigma$  shows it is genitive; similarly  $\theta\nu\gamma\alpha\tau\epsilon\rho\epsilon\varsigma$  must be nominative plural (with  $\alpha\dot{\iota}$ ). All of this highlights that there is another family of nouns, adjectives and pronouns with a different set of endings.

12.1 THE ESSENCE OF THE 3RD DECLENSION

All the nouns, adjectives and pronouns that we have learnt so far form one large family, having endings either identical or very similar to those of  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\theta\sigma\varsigma$ . The traditional terminology divides this group into 1st and 2nd declension nouns (see Chapter 8, section 8.3.4), but they basically form one family.

In this family you can work out the stem from the nominative, and then add the endings to it. Thus,  $\theta \varepsilon \circ \varsigma$  has the stem  $\theta \varepsilon$ - to which we can add endings, giving  $\theta \varepsilon \circ \circ \varsigma$ ,  $\theta \varepsilon \circ \circ v$ ,  $\theta \varepsilon \circ$

We now need to learn the other family of nouns, adjectives and pronouns known as the 3rd declension.

There are a few characteristic features of the 3rd declension:

- The masculine and feminine are identical; the neuter is similar.<sup>1</sup>
- The nominative singular form is irregular it is not formed from the stem plus an ending, although all the other forms are.<sup>2</sup>
- Because the nominative is irregular:
  - for a 3rd declension word you need to learn both the nominative and another form from which the stem can be deduced (the genitive is best)<sup>3</sup>
  - no ending indicates that a word is  $3^{rd}$  declension, in the way that up to now words ending in  $-o\varsigma$  have always declined like  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$ . Indeed, the beauty of the  $3^{rd}$  declension is its ability to cope with words whatever their nominative.

These features are true of all the 3rd declension family. In this chapter we shall learn the standard 3rd declension words (those with consonants at the end of their stems). Chapter 13 covers those with stems ending in vowels.

12.2 MASCULINE AND FEMININE NOUNS WITH CONSONANT STEMS

The endings are as follows:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.4	Various	-ες
Acc.	- CL	-ας
Gen.	-ος	-ων
Dat.	-1	-σιν <sup>5</sup>

Notes

- On the whole there is no connection between these endings and those of the 1st and 2nd declension, although the genitive plural ending -ων is the same.
- Watch out for the endings that are used differently in the 3rd declension from the way they are in the 1st and 2nd (see overleaf):

-ος	gen. sing.	masc. nom. sing.
-α	acc. sing. (masc. or fem.)	neut. nom. or acc. pl. (or nom. sing. of ἡμερα)
-ας	acc. pl. (masc. or fem.)	fem. acc. pl. (or gen. sing. of ἡμερα)

The stem to which these endings are added is found by removing the  $-o\zeta$  from the genitive singular of the word (which needs to have been learnt or can be found in the vocabulary).

For example, 'star' is ἀστηρ, ἀστερος and therefore its stem is ἀστερ-. Hence it declines as follows:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	ἀστηρ	ἀστερες
Acc.	ἀστερα	ἀστερας
Gen.	ἀστερος	ἀστερων
Dat.	ἀστερι	ἀστερσιν

12.2.1 Note on the dative plural

Since the ending for the dative plural is  $-\sigma_i v$ , the  $\sigma$  will end up next to the consonant with which the stem of the word ends. Then, as happens with verbs (Chapter 6, section 6.6), the  $\sigma$  and the final consonant will combine. Because this is about pronunciation, rather than anything special about the 3rd declension, the combinations are the same as in the Future and Aorist of verbs.

				IAR
π, β, φ	+	σιν	$\rightarrow$	ψιν
$\tau,\delta,\theta,\nu$	+	σιν	$\rightarrow$	σιν
κ, γ, χ	+	σιν	$\rightarrow$	ξιν

e.g. 'flesh' is σαρξ, σαρκος and so the dative plural is σαρξιν. 'child' is παις, παιδος and so the dative plural is παισιν.

In addition, there can be slight changes to the vowel sounds within the word. This happens according to a standard pattern for those with stems ending in  $-\varepsilon v\tau$  and  $-ov\tau$ , and then occasionally for other words.<sup>6</sup>

 $evt + \sigma iv \rightarrow ei\sigma iv$   $ovt + \sigma iv \rightarrow ou\sigma iv$

e.g. 'ruler' is ἀρχων, ἀρχοντος and so the dative plural is ἀρχουσιν.

12.2.2 The family group

fatherπατηρ, πατροςmotherμητηρ, μητροςall follow the same slightly irregular patterndaughterθυγατηρ, θυγατρος

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	πατηρ	πατ ε ρες
Acc.	πατ ε ρα	πατ ε ρας
Gen.	πατρος	πατ ε ρων
Dat.	πατρι	πατρ α σιν

Note the  $\varepsilon$  which is sometimes part of the stem and sometimes not. Also the  $\alpha$  in the dative plural.  $\pi \alpha \tau \eta \rho$  (alone) also has an irregular vocative  $\pi \alpha \tau \underline{\varepsilon} \rho$ .

Put in the form indicated

(You will need to look at the vocab list on pages 142 to find the genitives)

- ανηρ, genitive plural γυνη, dative plural πους, accusative singular
   χειρ, accusative plural
- 13.  $\sigma\alpha\rho\xi$ , dative singular
  - 14. χαρις, genitive singular
  - 15. θυγατηρ, nominative plural
  - 16. αἰων, dative plural

12.3 NEUTER NOUNS WITH CONSONANT STEMS

These follow a very similar pattern to the masculine and feminine nouns:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	Various	-α
Acc.	Identical to nom.	Identical to nom.
Gen.	-Ος	-ων
Dat.	-ι	-σιν (or -σι)

The only difference is that, as in all neuters, the acc. is the same as the nom., and the nom. and acc. plural is  $-\alpha$  (as in the 1st and 2nd declensions). The dative plural follows the same rules as in the masculine and feminine.

For example, 'body' is σωμα, σωματος. Therefore, it declines as follows:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	σωμα	σωματα
Acc.	σωμα	σωματα
Gen.	σωματος	σωματων
Dat.	σωματι	σωμασιν

In fact, although there are  $3^{rd}$  declension neuter nouns with a wide variety of stem endings, many  $3^{rd}$  declension neuter words are very similar to  $\sigma\omega\mu\alpha$ , ending in  $-\mu\alpha$  in the nominative and having a stem ending in  $-\mu\alpha\tau$ .

- 11. I have big feet.
- 12. They saw the light.

12.4 ADJECTIVES WITH CONSONANT STEMS

The few adjectives that follow the 3rd declension have the endings of the masculine/ feminine nouns in their masculine/feminine parts, and of the neuter nouns in their neuter parts. They have a single stem, but both of their nom. sing. forms need to be learnt (i.e. the masculine/feminine and the neuter nom. sing.).

The most common adjectives of this form are the comparatives e.g. 'more':  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota\omega\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota\sigma\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota\sigma\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\pi\lambda\epsilon$ ,

	Sing	ılar	Plural
	Masculine Neuter Feminine		Masculine Feminine	Neuter
Nom. Acc. Gen. Dat.	πλειων πλειονα πλειονος πλειονι	πλειον πλειον πλειονος πλειονι	πλειονες πλειονας πλειονων πλειοσιν	πλειονα πλειονα πλειονων πλειοσιν

Hint

If a noun and an adjective qualifying it are from different families, their endings will differ even when they are agreeing in gender, case and number.

e.g.  $\delta \, d\gamma \alpha \theta o \varsigma \, \ell \chi \epsilon \imath \, \pi \lambda \epsilon \imath o v \underline{\alpha} \varsigma \, \varphi \imath \lambda \underline{o \upsilon \varsigma} \, -$  The good man has more friends.

PRACTICE 12.4

- 1. πλειονες στρατιωται έρχονται.
- 2. έχεις μειζονα κεφαλην μου.
- 3.  $\acute{o}$  Ihsous eicen pleionas matrix  $\rafta$  'Iwanny;
- 4. προφητης είμι μειζονος ίερου.

12.5 τις AND τίς

There are two pronouns that decline like  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota\omega\nu$ . What is a little more confusing, however, is that although the pronouns are different, they look identical – in all their forms – except for the accents they carry.

τις is the indefinite pronoun – someone, anyone τίς is the interrogative pronoun – who? what?<sup>8</sup>

Formation

Since their neuter sing. is  $\tau\iota$  and their genitive  $\tau\iota vo\varsigma$ , they decline as follows:

	Sing	ular	Plural
	Masculine Neuter		Masculine	Neuter
	Feminine		Feminine
Nom.	τις	τι	τινες	τινα
Acc.	τινα	τι	τινας	τινα
Gen.	τινος	τινος	τινων	τινων
Dat.	τινι	τινι	τισι	τισι

Use

Their use as pronouns is quite straightforward, although when using  $\tau i \varsigma$  meaning 'who' you need to think about which case is appropriate (since in English the distinction between 'who' and 'whom' is now being lost).

e.g. τίνα θεωρεις; Whom do you see? ἐβλεψα τινα. I saw someone. τίς ἐρχεται; Who is coming? ἀκουει τις. Someone is listening. περι τίνων λεγεις; What/Who are you speaking about?

Both can also be used as adjectives, when they must agree with their nouns.

e.g.	τίνα μισθον ἐχετε;	What reward do you have?
	στρατιωται τινες ἐρχονται.	Some soldiers are coming.

τί can also mean 'why?'

e.g. τί λεγεις; Why are you speaking? (or 'What are you saying?')

Examples

 Mark 2.24:
 τί ποιουσιν τοις σαββασιν ὃ οὐκ ἐξεστιν

 - Why are they doing on the Sabbath what is not permitted?

 Mark 8.29:
 ὑμεις δε τίνα με λεγετε εἰναι – But who do you say that I am?

 Mark 11.25:
 εἰ τι ἐχετε κατα τινος – If you have something against someone.

Distinguishing between $\tau\iota\varsigma$ and $\tau\iota\varsigma$

There are three ways of distinguishing between  $\tau\iota\varsigma$  (someone) and  $\tau\iota\varsigma$  (who?).

- The context normally makes it very clear (and indeed there will be a question mark if  $\tau i \varsigma$  is meant). You just need to start with an open mind.
- $\tau\iota\varsigma$  (someone) cannot be the first word in a sentence, while  $\tau\iota\varsigma$  (who) frequently is.
- You can learn some relatively simple rules about the accents.

Accents

The full rules of accentation are complicated. But the following test is simple and 99 per cent accurate:

Accent on the first syllable  $\rightarrow \tau i \varsigma$  (who?, what?) No accent or an accent on the second syllable  $\rightarrow \tau i \varsigma$  (someone)

The third declension – Part 2

In Chapter 12 we learnt the 3rd declension. In this chapter we look at several groups of words that exhibit some variations from the standard pattern.

13.1 NOUNS WITH VOWEL STEMS

There are quite a number of nouns with  $-\iota$  stems. These are all feminine and frequently describe abstract nouns (e.g.  $\gamma\nu\omega\sigma\iota\varsigma - \text{knowledge}$ ,  $\pi\iota\sigma\tau\iota\varsigma - \text{faith}$ ). They have a nominative in  $-\iota\varsigma$  and a genitive in  $-\epsilon\omega\varsigma$ .

Similarly, there are several nouns with  $-\varepsilon v$  stems. These are masculine, and frequently describe 'occupations' (e.g.  $\beta \alpha \sigma \iota \lambda \varepsilon v \varsigma - king$ ,  $i \varepsilon \rho \varepsilon v \varsigma - priest$ ). They have a nominative in  $-\varepsilon v \varsigma$  and a genitive in  $-\varepsilon \omega \varsigma$ .

e.g. 'city' or 'town' is polic, polewc, $\dot{\eta}$ and 'king' is basileuc, basilewc,	e.g. '	'city' o	or 'town'	is πολις,	πολεως,	ήand	'king' i	is βασιλευς,	βασιλεως,
--	--------	----------	-----------	-----------	---------	------	----------	--------------	-----------

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
πολις	πολεις	βασιλευς	βασιλεις
πολιν	πολεις	βασιλεα	βασιλεις
πολεως	πολεων	βασιλεως	βασιλεων
πολει	πολεσιν	βασιλει	βασιλευσιν

Notes

- These two patterns are very similar in particular having the distinctive gen. singular in  $-\varepsilon\omega\varsigma$  and nom. and acc. plurals in  $-\varepsilon\iota\varsigma$ . The main difference between them is in the acc. singular ( $-\iota\nu$  or  $-\varepsilon\alpha$ ).
- If you think of  $-\epsilon\omega\varsigma$  as  $-\epsilon\varsigma\varsigma$  then the  $-\varsigma\varsigma$  ending is what you would expect in the  $3^{rd}$  declension.
- There is another pattern of words that have stems ending in -υ. However, there is only one word in this family that is at all common, ἰχθυς (fish), and even that occurs only 20 times in the New Testament. Its endings are the same as ἀστηρ except for the accusative singular: ἰχθυς, ἰχθυο, ἰχθυος, ἰχθυος, ἰχθυος, ἰχθυως, ἰχθυων, ἰχθυσιν.

Hint

Don't worry too much about these nouns. They are not particularly common, and most of their forms are close enough to either the 1st and 2nd or the 3rd declension endings in the appropriate case and number for you to be able normally to guess them correctly!

13.2 CONTRACTING NOUNS AND ADJECTIVES

There is a family of  $3^{rd}$  declension adjectives and neuter nouns that have stems ending in - $\epsilon$ . Unsurprisingly, this weak  $\epsilon$  combines with the endings, giving rise to slightly altered forms. However, these are not new endings, but the normal  $3^{rd}$ declension endings hidden by rather predictable contractions.

13.2.1 Nouns

These are all neuter. Remember their stem ends in  $-\varepsilon$  even though this is normally not displayed. E.g. 'nation' is  $\dot{\varepsilon}\theta vo\varsigma$ ,  $\dot{\varepsilon}\theta vo\varsigma$ ,  $\tau o$  (with a stem  $\dot{\varepsilon}\theta v\varepsilon$ ).

These decline very similarly to  $\dot{\epsilon}\theta vo \varsigma$ . E.g. true is  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\eta\theta\eta\varsigma$ ,  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\eta\theta\epsilon\varsigma$ ,  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\eta\theta\circ\upsilon\varsigma$ .

Note: It is only the acc. plural masculine/feminine which is slightly peculiar in copying the nom., when you might expect some contraction of  $-\varepsilon\alpha\varsigma$ .

13.3 πας (ALL)

 $\pi\alpha\zeta$  defines a hybrid declension called the 3-1-3, because in the masculine and neuter it follows the 3rd declension but in the feminine the 1st declension. Think of  $\pi\alpha\zeta$  as a 3rd declension word that wants to have distinct feminine endings. But in the 3rd declension there are no separate feminine endings, so it borrows the only ones available – those of the 1st declension.

To decline a word such as  $\pi\alpha\varsigma$ , you needs to know four pieces of information:

- 1. the masculine nominative singular
- 2. the neuter nominative singular
- 3. the genitive (or stem) for the masculine and neuter
- 4. the feminine nominative singular

Points 1–3 are the same as you need to know for any 3rd declension adjective (since there is no rule for deducing the nominative singulars from the stem).

Point 4 is sufficient to generate the whole of the feminine, since in the  $1^{st}$  and  $2^{nd}$  declensions the endings follow on directly from the nominative.

Thus, for  $\pi\alpha\varsigma$ , once we know the nominative singulars:  $\pi\alpha\varsigma$ ,  $\pi\alpha\sigma\alpha$ ,  $\pi\alpha\nu$ , and the 3rd declension stem:  $\pi\alpha\nu\tau$ -, we can deduce the rest of the declension.

		Masculine 3 rd decl.	Feminine 1 st decl. <sup>1</sup>	Neuter 3 rd decl.
Sing.	Nom.	πας	πασα	παν
	Acc.	παντα	πασαν	παν

Pl.	Nom.	παντες	πασαι	παντα
	Acc.	παντας	πασας	παντα
	Gen.	παντων	πασων	παντων
	Dat.	πασιν	πασαις	πασιν

 $\pi\alpha\varsigma$  is the only common adjective that follows this pattern. However, the pattern is important because half of the participles in Greek also follow it. Up to now we have only used participles in the nom. masculine (Chapter 7, section 7.4), but in the next chapter we shall need to use them in any case, gender or number.<sup>2</sup>

Using $\pi\alpha\varsigma$

 $\pi\alpha\varsigma$  means 'all', but in English this is normally best translated as 'every' or 'whole' when in the singular. It is used in the same manner as other adjectives:

- On its own, in which case its gender reveals what is implied: masculine = person/man; feminine = woman; neuter = thing.
  - e.g. John 1.3: παντα δι' αὐτου ἐγενετο. All things came to be through him. Mark 6.50: παντες γαρ αὐτον εἰδον. – For everyone saw him.
- It can occur with a noun without the article.

e.g. Matt. 7.17: παν δενδρον άγαθον καρπους καλους ποιει.
- Every good tree produces good fruit.

• It can occur with a noun with the article, in which case it normally stands in the predicative positive (i.e. before the 'the').

e.g. Mark 14.53: συνερχονται παντες οἱ ἀρχιερεις. - All the chief priests gather.

• It can occur with the article and participle.

e.g. 1 John 5.1 πας ὁ πιστευων ὁτι Ἰησους ἐστιν ὁ Χριστος. - Everyone who believes that the Messiah is Jesus.

PRACTICE 13.3

Parse

1.	παντες	3.	παντος	5.	παν
2.	πασαις	4.	πασαν	6.	παντι

Translate

- 7. παντες οἱ πατερες ἀπεθανον.
- 8. κηρυξω το εὐαγγελιον ἐν πασιν τοις ἐθνεσιν.
- 9. πας έθαυμασεν δια παντα ἁ ἐποιει.
- 10. ό σωτηρ παντων προσευχεται.

είς – ΟΝΕ 13.4

The word 'one' declines in a manner similar to  $\pi\alpha\varsigma$ , in as much as its masculine and neuter follow the 3rd declension, and its feminine (using a completely different stem) the 1st declension. Obviously there is no plural of 'one'.

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Nom.	είς	μια	ἑν
Acc.	ένα	μιαν	ἑν
Gen.	ένος	μιας	ἑνος

Hint

Watch the breathings –  $\varepsilon v$  (one) and  $\varepsilon v$  (in);  $\varepsilon \iota \varsigma$  (one) and  $\varepsilon \iota \varsigma$  (into).

ούδεις and μηδεις

Both oùdeic and µndeic mean 'no one, nothing'. oùdeic is used when où would be used (i.e. clauses in the Indicative), and  $\mu\eta\delta\epsilon\iota\varsigma$  is used when  $\mu\eta$  would be used (i.e. in other moods). They are declined as  $\varepsilon i \varsigma$  plus a prefix:

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Nom. Acc. Gen. Dat.	οὐδεις οὐδενα οὐδενος οὐδενι	οὐδεμια οὐδεμιαν οὐδεμιας οὐδεμια	οὐδεν οὐδεν οὐδενος οὐδενι
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Nom. Acc. Gen. Dat.	μηδεις μηδενα μηδενος μηδενι	μηδεμια μηδεμιαν μηδεμιας μηδεμιας	μηδεν μηδεν μηδενος μηδενι

Note: In Greek, a sentence is either negative or not. If it is negative (i.e. it contains où or  $\mu\eta$ ), then other suitable forms in the sentence will also be in the negative. That is, in Greek two negatives make a negative, not as in English where two negatives make a positive (e.g. où βλεπω oùδεν means 'I did not see anything' not 'I did not see nothing', which in English implies that you did see something!).

Examples

- Mark 13.32: περι δε της ήμερας ἐκεινης ή της ὡρας οὐδεις οἰδεν [he knows] οὐδε οἱ ἀγγελοι ἐν οὐρανῷ οὐδε ὁ ὑίος, εἰ μη ὁ πατηρ.
  - But about that day or hour no one knows, neither the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father.
- Mark 14.60: Οὐκ ἀποκρινῃ οὐδεν;

Participles

Example 1

In Chapter 7, section 7.4 we learnt the basics of participles:

Luke 18.22: ἀκουσας δε ὁ Ἰησους εἰπεν αὐτῷ· Ἐτι ἑν σοι λειπει· – having heard Jesus said to him, 'One thing still remains for you ...'

- when Jesus heard (this) he said to him, 'You still lack one thing . . .'

ακουσας is a participle from ακουσ
 (nom. masc. sing.), which tells us that it is Jesus who is doing the hearing. It is in the Aorist to convey the 'sequence' meaning (present would be 'simultaneous'), i.e the action in the participle is happening before that in the main verb: first Jesus hears, then he speaks.

Example 2

Luke 7.9: ἀκουσας δε ταυτα ὁ Ἰησους ἐθαυμασεν αὐτον. – when he heard these things Jesus was amazed at him.

Once again,  $\dot{\alpha}\kappa\omega\sigma\alpha\zeta$  is a participle, but this time it has its own object  $\tau\alpha\upsilon\tau\alpha$  – these things.

Thus the participle has some of the features of a verb, and some of an adjective (grammarians call it a 'verbal adjective').

Like adjectives:

Like verbs:

Up to now, we have only dealt with participles that are in the nominative – qualifying the subject. However, participles can qualify any noun. KEY GRAMMAR

Participles must agree with the noun they qualify in gender, case and number

KEY GRAMMAR

Participles have a tense (Present or Aorist) and may have an object Example 3

Rev. 7.2: και είδον άλλον ἀγγελον ἀναβαινοντα ἀπο ἀνατολης ἡλιου ἐχοντα σφραγιδα θεου ... – and I saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun having a seal from God . . .

The basic sentence here is clear:

είδον is the main verb, containing in it the subject - 'I saw'.

άγγελον is the object – an angel.

άλλον is an adjective ('other') in the acc. masc. sing. agreeing with ἀγγελον, thus it is further describing (qualifying) ἀγγελον – not 'an angel', but 'an other angel'.

- 'I saw another angel', but then the sentence is enriched by two participles:

 $\dot{\alpha}$ ναβαινοντα is a participle – it behaves partly as an adjective and partly as a verb. As an adjective, it is similar to  $\dot{\alpha}\lambda\lambda$ ov. It is also in the acc. masc. sing. because it is further describing  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda$ ov.

As a verb, it is in the Present tense – the ascending is going on at the same time as the seeing – and it leads into  $\dot{\alpha}\pi\sigma$   $\dot{\alpha}\nu\alpha\tau\sigma\lambda\eta\varsigma$   $\dot{\eta}\lambda\iota\sigma\upsilon$  – from the rising sun.

έχοντα is also a participle. Again it is masc. acc. sing. agreeing with άγγελον. It is in the Present tense – having – and has its own object – σφραγιδα – a seal.

Thus we have two participles in the accusative, further describing the object of the main verb. He did not just see an angel, but an angel ascending . . . and having . . .

Example 4

Mark 1.16: παραγων παρα την θαλασσαν...είδεν Σιμωνα και 'Ανδρεαν... ἀμφιβαλλοντας ἐν τῃ θαλασσῃ.

– While he was passing alongside the sea, he saw Simon and Andrew casting (nets) in the sea.

The basic sentence is again clear:

είδεν Σιμωνα και 'Ανδρεαν – he saw Simon and Andrew

There are two participles  $\pi\alpha\rho\alpha\gamma\omega\nu$  and  $\dot{\alpha}\mu\phi\iota\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\nu\tau\alpha\varsigma$  but these agree with different words in the sentence.

παραγων is nominative singular, so it is agreeing with the subject 'he'. The person seeing is the same person as the one going alongside the sea.

ἀμφιβαλλοντας is accusative plural, so it is agreeing with the object 'Simon and Andrew'. Simon and Andrew are the ones casting in the sea.

It is only by identifying the case (and gender and number) of the participle that we can identify which noun in the sentence it is qualifying. Otherwise we might wrongly translate Mark 1.16 as 'he saw Simon and Andrew passing along the sea casting in the sea', or 'while he was casting in the sea he saw Simon and Andrew passing alongside the sea' or 'while he was passing along the sea casting in the sea he saw Simon and Andrew'.

14.1 FORMATION

We have already met the Present and Aorist participles of the normal (Active) verbs like  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  and the deponent (Middle) verbs like  $\dot{\rho} \upsilon \omega \mu \alpha \iota$ .

Thus we have four basic participles:

Ac	tive	Deponent	t (Middle)
	(untying) (having untied)	ἡυ-ομενος ἡυ-σαμενος	(rescuing) (having rescued)

Notes

- In the Aorist there is no augment (there are never augments in the other moods).
- In the Aorist there is a  $\sigma$  and an  $\alpha$  sound.
- The 2nd Aorist participle uses the Present participle endings (e.g. βαλων), as does the (Present) participle of εἰμι (ών 'being').

What we now need to do is to learn how to decline each of these basic participles, so that we can form, for example, the accusative neuter singular of the Present participle of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ . Before we do that you should revise the formation of the participles we have already covered (pages 83–7 and 126).

PRACTICE 14.1 - REVISION

Put the verb in the participle form indicated (all nom. masc.)

- 1. γραφω, Aorist singular
- 2. ποιεω, Present plural
- ἐρχομαι, Present singular
- 4. φιλεω, Aorist plural
- 5. λογιζομαι, Aorist singular
- 6. προσευχομαι, Present plural

14.2 DECLENSION

The participles follow two different declensions.

Note:  $\pi \alpha \zeta$  is from the 3rd declension, so its nominative is 'irregular', not following the pattern of stem plus endings. Thus both  $\lambda \upsilon \omega \nu$  and  $\lambda \upsilon \sigma \alpha \zeta$  can decline like  $\pi \alpha \zeta$ .

14.2.1 ρύομενος and ρύσαμενος

These decline exactly as  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\theta_{0}\zeta$  does. Thus:

ρύομενους – Accusative masculine plural of the Present participle of ρύομαι ἀρξαμεναις – Dative feminine plural of the Aorist participle of ἀρχομαι ἐρχομενα – Nom./acc. neuter plural of the Present participle of ἐρχομαι

14.2.2 λυων and λυσας

These follow the 3-1-3 pattern like  $\pi\alpha\varsigma$  (Chapter 13, section 13.3). Therefore, to decline them, we need their three nominative singulars, and the 3rd declension stem:

λυων	nom. sing. – λυων, λυουσα, λυον	$3^{rd}$ decl. stem – $\lambda vov\tau$ - λυσας	nom. sing. – λυσας, λυσασα, λυσαν	$3^{rd}$ decl. stem – λυσαντ-

Thus:

 $\lambda \upsilon \sigma \alpha v$  – Nom./acc. neuter singular of the Aorist participle of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ γραφοντι – Dative masc./neuter singular of the Present participle of γραφω έλθοντες – Nom. masculine plural of the (2nd) Aorist participle of έρχομαι ούσιν – Dative masc./neuter plural of the Present participle of εἰμι.

Hint

There are two steps in forming a participle. The chart opposite may help you understand the sequence:

Participle  $\rightarrow$  basic forms (essentially a verbal matter – about tense)  $\rightarrow$  particular instance of that form (essentially an adjectival matter – about gender, case and number).

When faced with a Greek participle, think about this sequence:

- 1. Which of the basic forms is it from?
- 2. Which particular instance of that form is it?

PRACTICE 14.2

14.3 MEANING

We have already learnt the meaning of the participles (Chapter 7, section 7.4.2).

Wooden translations	Present participle	untying
	Aorist participle	having untied

- Idea The heart of understanding participles is that the participle is dependent on a main verb (Indicative, or possibly Imperative) in the sentence. It expresses meaning in relation to that main verb, not absolutely.<sup>2</sup>
- Present participle Simultaneous process the action in the participle is a process going on at the same time as the action in the main verb.
- Aorist participle Sequence the action in the participle occurred before the action in the main verb.<sup>3</sup>

We just need to become familiar with using these meanings when the participle is not in the nominative. In the sentences marked 1 below, the participle is in the nominative (qualifying the subject). In those marked 2, the participle is in the accusative (qualifying the object), producing a very different meaning. In these examples, the word order will also help, but you can't always rely on that.

Present participle Aorist participle	Simultaneous Seguence

- 1. λεγων βλεπει το δενδρον. While he was talking, he saw the tree.
- 2. βλεπει το δενδρον λεγον. He saw the talking tree.
- δ Ἰησους εἰσελθων ἐθεραπευσεν την γυναικα. When he came in, Jesus healed the woman (lit: Jesus having come in healed the woman).
- δ Ἰησους ἐθεραπευσεν την εἰσελθουσαν γυναικα. Jesus healed the woman who had come in (lit: Jesus healed the having-come-in woman).

Of course, the participle could qualify something other than an object:

E.g. ὁ Ἰησους εἰπεν τῃ εἰσελθουσῃ γυναικι. – Jesus spoke to the women who had come in (lit: Jesus spoke to the having-come-in woman).

&lt;sup>2</sup> E.g. Matt. 8.7: ἐγω ἐλθων θεραπευσω αὐτον. The participle 'having come' gives time (sequence) in relation to the main verb – first he will come, then he will heal. However, the absolute time is revealed by the main verb. Here the main verb is future, therefore the whole action (including the 'coming') is happening in the future, but the 'coming' occurs before the healing. Thus we might translate it, 'I will come and heal'.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

Hint

Successive Aorist participles are often best translated by a number of main verbs in English e.g. Mark 5.27 – ἀκουσασα περι του Ἰησου, ἐλθουσα ἐν τῷ ὀχλῷ ὀπισθεν ἡψατο του ἱματιου αὐτου. – When she heard about Jesus, she came up behind in the crowd and touched his cloak.

Translate

- 2. ἀναβαινων είδεν το πνευμα.
- 3. φυγοντες ήλθον εἰς ἱερον.
- 4. έβαπτιζεν τους πονηρους μετανοησαντας.
- 5. εἰπομεν τοις ἐρχομενοις τεκνοις.
- 6. ἐβλεψατε τους γραμματεις εἰσελθοντας εἰς το ἱερον;
- 7. ζητω την μελλουσαν βασιλειαν.
- 8. ὑπαγαγουσα είδεν τον πατερα αὐτης λαλουντα.
- 9. Jesus greeted the approaching crowd.
- 10. When she saw she believed.
- 11. The Pharisee taught the Jews who were listening.
- 12. When the king heard this he sent his soldiers to find the child.

14.4 OTHER USES OF PARTICIPLES

14.4.1 As nouns<sup>4</sup>

This was discussed in Chapter 7, section 7.5.

e.g. John 15.23: ό ἐμε μισων και τον πατερα μου μισει. – The one who hates me (or whoever hates me) also hates my father.<sup>5</sup>

Now we can simply use this construction with a participle in other cases.

e.g. John 12.45: και ὁ θεωρων ἐμε θεωρει τον πεμψαντα με.
The one who sees me is seeing the one who sent me.

Acts 10.44:  $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\pi\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$  to  $\pi\nu\epsilon\nu\mu\alpha$  to  $\dot{\alpha}\gamma\iota\nu\nu$   $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota$   $\pi\alpha\nu\tau\alpha\varsigma$   $\underline{\tau}\nu\nu\varsigma$   $\dot{\alpha}\kappa\sigma\nu\nu\tau\alpha\varsigma$  tov  $\lambda$ o $\gamma$ ov. – The holy spirit fell on all those who were listening to the word.

14.4.2 Causal, concessive and instrumental uses

Participles can be used to imply a causal, concessive or instrumental sense, although these are relatively rare and still flow out of the 'wooden translations'.

- Causal:
   Matt. 1.19: Ἰωσηφ δε ὁ ἀνηρ αὐτης, δικαιος ἀν...

   But Joseph her husband, because he was (lit: being) righteous ...
- Concessive:
   Rom. 1.21: γνοντες τον θεον οὐχ ὡς θεον ἐδοξασαν.

   Although they knew (lit: knowing) God, they did not glorify him as God.
- Instrumental: 1 Tim. 4.16: τουτο γαρ ποιων και σεαυτον σωσεις και τους άκουοντας σου. – For by doing this (lit: doing this) you will save both yourself and your hearers.

14.4.3 With Imperatives and Infinitives

Just as Greek will tend to avoid having one main verb immediately followed by a second, replacing one by a participle ('having entered he spoke', rather than 'he entered and he spoke'), Greek also often avoids a sequence of two Imperatives or Infinitives, again replacing the first with a participle.

E.g. οὐκ εἰμι ἱκανος κυψας λυσαι τον ἱμαντα των ὑποδηματων αὐτου. (Mark 1.7) – I am not worthy to stoop down and untie the strap of his sandals (lit: having stooped down, to untie).

The Passive and Voices

Rom. 11.26: και ούτως πας ° Ισραηλ σωθησεται . – and thus all Israel will be saved.
Luke 2.4: ἀνεβη δε και Ἰωσηφ ἀπο της Γαλιλαιας εἰς πολιν Δαυιδ ήτις καλειται Βηθλεεμ. – Joseph also went up from Galilee to
(the) city of David which is called Bethlehem.
Matt. 3.10: παν ούν δενδρον μη ποιουν καρπον καλον ἐκκοπτεται και εἰς πυρ βαλλεται . – Therefore every tree not producing good fruit is cut down and is thrown into a fire.
Rom. 5.1: δικαιωθεντες οὐν ἐκ πιστεως εἰρηνην ἐχομεν προς τον $\theta \epsilon ov \dots$ – Therefore having been justified through faith we have peace towards God

In these sentences the verbs underlined are in the Passive (as opposed to the Active).

15.1 THE IDEA OF THE PASSIVE

Until now, all our sentences have been active in meaning – that is, the subject of the sentence is the one acting. However, in both English and Greek you can have passive sentences, in which the subject of the sentence is acted upon.

Active: Jesus heals the leper. Passive: The leper is healed.

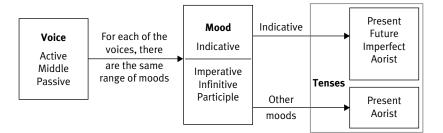

A passive sentence does not indicate who did the action. However, this can be achieved by specifying an agent – 'the leper is healed by Jesus'. Greek expresses the agent by using the preposition  $b\pi o + \text{gen}$  (= 'by'). (See Chapter 4, section 4.3 for the distinction between animate agents and inanimate instruments.)

Voices – Active and Passive? See it in English Section 8 Page 247

Mark 1.9: ἐβαπτισθη εἰς τον Ἰορδανην ὑπο Ἰωαννου. – He was baptised in the Jordan by John.

15.2 VOICES

There are three Voices in Greek – Active, Middle and Passive. As we learnt in Chapter 8, section 8.1.4, the deponent verbs (like  $\dot{p}vo\mu\alpha\iota$ ) use the Middle Voice to give an Active meaning. The Middle Voice will be discussed further later. For now, it is important to see that in both the Passive and Middle there is the whole range of moods and tenses that there is in the Active.

15.3 DISTINGUISHING THE TENSES

When we first met the tenses in Chapter 6 we saw that they could be distinguished by a pattern of  $\varepsilon$  prefixes and  $\sigma$  suffixes. The same pattern held when we met the Middle (deponent) verses in Chapter 8. In the Passive we can also be greatly helped by noticing a similar, though slightly different, pattern.

	Indicative								Ot	ther N	Лоо	ds
	Active Middle				Passi	ive	Act	ive	Mid	dle	Pass	ive
Present		λυ			ρ̈́υ			λυ		λυ		ρὑυ		λυ
Future		λυ	σ		ρ̈́υ	σ		λυ	θησ
Imperfect	š	λυ		å	ρ̈́υ		š	λυ
Aorist	ċ	λυ	σ	å	ρ̈́υ	σ	å	λυ	θ	λυ	σ	ρ҅υ	σ	λυ	θ

Notes

- The pattern in the Active and in the Middle is the same.
- ρύομαι is used as the exemplar in the Middle rather than λυω because the Middle is normally used only for the deponent verbs.
- In the Passive, the pattern of è augments is the same as in the Active the Imperfect and Aorist Indicative has an augment.

- The Aorist Passive is marked out by a  $\theta$  suffix.
- The Future Passive is marked out by a  $\theta\eta\sigma$  suffix.
- The Future Indicative is easily confused with the Aorist in the other moods in the Active and Middle (both have  $\sigma$  suffixes but no augment).

PRACTICE 15.3

Give the possible tenses and voices of the following, and say whether they are indicative or other moods.

1.	ἐπιστευθη	3.	ἐλαμβανεν	5.	ἀπολυθησονται	7.	ποιηθητε
2.	πεμψατε	4.	ἀρξεται	6.	λογισασθαι	8.	έμι σησ αν

15.4 THE MEANING OF THE PASSIVE

There is nothing unusual to learn about the meaning of the Passive. However, it can be helpful to see the basic English equivalents (compare Chapter 6, section 6.3 for the Active).

Indicative	Present Future Imperfect Aorist	I will   I was	being untied, you are being untied, De untied, you will be untied, Deing untied, you were being untied, untied, you were untied,
Imperative	Present – process Aorist – undefined		Be untied! (continuously/repeatedly) Be untied!
Infinitive	Present – pro Aorist – und		To be untied (continuously/repeatedly) To be untied
Participle	Present Aorist	· ·	untied (simultaneous) g been untied (sequence)

15.5 THE PASSIVE ENDINGS

Indicative Passive of λυω

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I	λυομαι	λυθησομαι	ἐλυομην	ἐλυθην
You (sing.)	λυη	λυθηση	ἐλυου	ἐλυθης
He, she, it	λυεται	λυθησεται	ἐλυετο	ἐλυθη
We	λυομεθα	λυθησομεθα	ἐλυομεθα	ἐλυθημεν
You (pl.)	λυεσθε	λυθησεσθε	ἐλυεσθε	ἐλυθητε
They	λυονται	λυθησονται	ἐλυοντο	ἐλυθησαν

Other moods Passive of $\lambda \upsilon \omega$

		Present	Aorist
Imperative	2 nd Sing. 2 nd Pl.	λυου λυεσθε	λυθητι λυθητε
Infinitive		λυεσθαι	λυθηναι
Participle		λυομενος	$λυθεις^1$

15.5.1 The Passive in the Present and Imperfect

If you look at the Present and Imperfect in the charts above, you will see that the endings are exactly the same as in the Present and Imperfect (Middle) of the deponent verbs. For example, ρύεται –  $3^{rd}$  Singular Present Indicative Middle of ρύομαι λυεται –  $3^{rd}$  Singular Present Indicative Passive of λυω

		Masc.	Fem.	Neuter
Singular	Nom.	λυθεις	λυθεισα	λυθεν
	Acc.	λυθεντα	λυθεισαν	λυθεν
	Gen.	λυθεντος	λυθεισης	λυθεντος
	Dat.	λυθεντι	λυθειση	λυθεντι
Plural	Nom.	λυθεντες	λυθεισαι	λυθεντα
	Acc.	λυθεντας	λυθεισας	λυθεντα
	Gen.	λυθεντων	λυθεισων	λυθεντων
	Dat.	λυθεισιν	λυθεισαις	λυθεισιν

This obviously raises a question of how you tell the Middle and the Passive apart – we will deal with this later. For now, however, this is good news, since it means that there are no more endings to learn.

15.5.2 The Passive in the Future and the Aorist

If you look at the Future Passive in the chart on page 260, you will see that it has the same endings as the Future Middle (and hence the same as the Present Middle, and Present Passive). The distinguishing feature is the  $\theta\eta\sigma$  suffix.

Looking at the Aorist, it is worth noting the surprising fact that its endings are far more similar to Active endings (in particular the  $-\eta\mu\epsilon\nu$  and  $-\eta\tau\epsilon$  and the participle not ending in  $-\mu\epsilon\nu\circ\varsigma$ ) than the other Passive/Middle endings.

Both the Future and the Aorist Passive involve the addition of a  $\theta$  to the end of the stem. Unsurprisingly, this can cause complications, just as adding a  $\sigma$  suffix can do (Chapter 6, section 6.6). The combinations that occur are given in the table on the right.

				AR
π, β, φ	+	θ	$\rightarrow$	φθ
$\tau,\delta,\theta,\nu$	+	θ	$\rightarrow$	σθ

Plus, as you would expect, in  $-\varepsilon \omega$  verbs the  $\varepsilon$  is lengthened into an  $\eta$  before the  $\theta$  (just as it is before the  $\sigma$  in the Future/Aorist Active/ Middle).

Examples

άχθησομαι – Future Passive Indicative of άγω – I will be led ήχθην – Aorist Passive Indicative of άγω – I was led λαληθεις – Aorist Passive participle of λαλεω – Having been spoken βαπτισθηναι – Aorist Passive Infinitive of βαπτιζω – To be baptised

PRACTICE 15.5.1 AND 15.5.2

Parse

1.	ήνοιγετο	3.	βαπτισθεις	5.	έρχονται

15.5.3 Irregular Future and Aorist Passives

All verbs use the standard endings for the Future and Aorist Passive, but there are a number of verbs that have irregular stems. However, at least they use the same stem for both the Future and the Aorist. In the table below the Aorist Passive Indicative is quoted, but the Future Passive can be reliably formed from this.<sup>2</sup> These five only have slight changes in the stem:

	Present	Aorist Passive
I hear	άκουω	ήκουσθη ν
I throw	βαλλω	ἐβληθην
I lift	ἐγειρω	ἠγερθη ν
I call	καλεω	ἐκληθην
I save	σωζω	ἐσωθην

This one is quite difficult to recognise:

I take	λαμβανω	ἐλημφθην
1 ture	Mappava	ενημφυην

These five form a very awkward group, since they don't display the  $\theta$ , which you normally rely on to indicate that the verb is Aorist or Future Passive.<sup>3</sup>

I send	ἀποστελλω	ἀπεσταλην
I write	γραφω	έγραφην
I sow	σπειρω	ἐσπαρην
I turn <sup>4</sup>	στρεφω	ἐστραφην
I shine <sup>5</sup>	φαινω	ἐφανην

There are three whose Aorist Passive stems are formed from different verbs:

I say	λεγω	ἐρρεθην (or ἐρρηθην)
I see	όραω	ὦφθην
I carry	φερω	ἠνεχθην

Parse

PRACTICE 15.5.3

1.	ἐσωθημεν	3.	κληθησεται	5.	ἐρρεθη
2.	ἐγραφη	4.	βληθεις	6.	έλημφθη σ αν

15.6 UNDERSTANDING THE MIDDLE

The Middle Voice often ends up as a weak point for students – they understand the Active and the Passive (because they occur in English) but are then confused by what the Middle can mean. Soon we will learn a special meaning for the Middle, but this is very unusual. Normally, the Middle is used simply because the verb is a deponent verb, and deponent verbs use the Middle Voice when they want the Active meaning.

The following chart may help:

		Ve	erb is
		Normal	Deponent
Meaning wanted	Active	Use Active	Use Middle
	Passive	Use Passive	Use Passive

This chart illustrates that grammatically deponent verbs can be put into the Passive – when they want the Active meaning they use the Middle forms, when they want the Passive meaning they use the Passive forms. However, many deponent verbs are intransitive (i.e. they cannot have an object, for example 'I go') and so cannot occur in the Passive ('it was goed'?). Even those others which can occur in the Passive ( $\dot{\alpha}p\chi o\mu\alpha t - I$  begin) rarely do so. This is useful, because in the Present and Imperfect tenses the Middle and the Passive forms are identical, and so all you can say grammatically about, for example,  $\dot{\alpha}p\chi\epsilon\tau\alpha t$  is that it is 3rd sing. Present Middle or Passive Indicative. In practice, however, it is far more likely to be Middle (with the Active meaning) than Passive (with the Passive meaning).

This can be summarised in the following chart:

		Verb is
		Normal	Deponent
Form	Active	Active $\rightarrow$ Active meaning on the page is	Middle or Passive	Passive → Passive meaning (or very unusually the special meaning of the Middle – see below)	Middle $\rightarrow$ Active meaning (or quite unusually it is actually in the Passive with Passive meaning)

• Both of these charts only work if you know which verbs are deponent!

It often helps to be clear about why you find something confusing! For many students it is because the Middle seems to be Active in meaning, but very close to the Passive in endings. It is confusingly in the middle!

15.6.1 Special uses of the Middle

In Classical Greek (from which New Testament – Koine – Greek developed) the Middle was used much more widely to express actions that affected the subject (e.g.  $\varphi \epsilon \rho \omega - I$  carry,  $\varphi \epsilon \rho \omega \mu \alpha i - I$  carry off for myself = I win). There are remnants of this in Koine Greek.

- (a) A small number of verbs still use the three Voices with different meanings.
   ἐνδυει (Active) He puts (clothes) on (someone else) ἐνδυεται (Middle) He puts (clothes) on himself ἐνδυεται (Passive) It is put on.
- (b) Some writers (particularly the author of Luke and Acts) use the Middle as a stylistic device, imitating Classical Greek, which was thought at the time to be of greater literary quality (this is called 'archaizing').

Hint

Example

(φυλασσω in the Active – I guard; in the Middle – I am on my guard)

- Luke 2.8: Και ποιμενες ήσαν ἐν τῃ χωρα τῃ αὐτῃ ... φυλασσοντες (Active) φυλακας της νυκτος ἐπι την ποιμνην αὐτων. – And in that region there were shepherds . . . keeping watch over their flock by night.
- Luke 12.15: εἰπεν δε προς αὐτους· Όρατε και φυλασσεσθε (Middle) ἀπο πασης πλεονεξιας. – And he said to them, 'Look out and be on your guard against all kinds of greed.'
- Acts 1.1: Τον μεν πρωτον λογον ἐποιησαμην περι παντων ... I made a first account concerning all the things ... (There is no particular reason for the use of the Middle ποιεομαι here rather than the Active ποιεω, it is really just a matter of style.)

Hint

Be aware of these special uses; but remember, the vast majority of the time when you see a middle, it is a deponent verb conveying an active meaning.

15.7 PASSIVE DEPONENTS

The last straw for many students is to hear that there are Passive deponents – words that are Passive in form (not Middle) but Active in meaning! However, there are only four words in this category – and even some of those only when in the Aorist – so they can be thought of simply as an endearing idiosyncrasy. Since Middle and Passive only differ in form in the Future and the Aorist, it is only here that the difference between Middle and Passive deponents matters.

Present	Future		Aorist
I wish βουλομαι I fear φοβεομαι I answer ἀποκρινομαι I go πορευομαι	Passive Passive Middle Either or	βουλησομαι φοβηθησομαι ἀποκρινουμαι πορευσομαι πορευθησομαι	Passive Passive Passive Passive	ἐβουληθην ἐφοβηθην ἀπεκριθην ἐπορευθην

- *7. και έφαγον τον καρπον παντες, και ήρθη το περισσευσαν.

&lt;sup>8</sup> Greek often uses the participle ἀποκριθεις alongside another verb of speaking (here λεγει). In many ways the ἀποκριθεις is redundant, although it helps to point out that the speaker has changed. The closest translations in English might be 'in reply' or 'answering' ('answering' seems wrong for an Aorist participle – but think of the sequence as being between the question in the previous sentence and the answer in this one).

- ή γαρ ἀγαπη του θεου ἐκχειται ἐν ταις καρδιαις ἡμων δια πνευματος ἁγιου του λαμβανομενου ὑφ' ἡμων.
- 9. When the time of harvest [lit. 'time of the fruits'] came, he sent his slaves to receive the produce [the fruits] which was his.
- 10. Philip said, 'We were hindered by the devil but after a long time<sup>9</sup> we finished the sanctuary.
- *11. So he sent one of his disciples, saying to him, 'Go into the city, and a man carrying a cup of water will serve you.'
  - 12. For I make known to you, brothers and sisters, that the good news which was proclaimed by me is not according to a human being.

The Perfect

Mark 1.2:	καθως γεγραπται έν τα	) Ήσαϊα τώ	προφητη·	'Ιδου ἀποστελλω

– Just as it is written in Isaiah the prophet, 'Look!, I am sending . . .'

John 19.30: ὁ Ἰησους εἰπεν· Τετελεσται – Jesus said, 'It is finished'.

1 John 5.10: ὁ μη πιστεύων τῷ θεῷ ψευστην πεποιηκεν αὐτον, ὁτι οὐ πεπιστεύκεν εἰς την μαρτυριαν ἡν μεμαρτυρηκεν ὁ θεος περι του υίου αὐτου.

> – The one who does not believe in God has made him a liar, because he has not believed in the testimony which God has testified concerning his son.

The underlined verbs are in the Perfect tense; the first two are Perfect Passive, those in 1 John 5.10 Perfect Active.

The Perfect tense communicates a past action with a present effect. The past action is seen as completed (the action itself is not continuing in the present), but it is not simply past history: it continues to have an effect in the present.

Thus Mark 1.2 could be translated as either 'it has been written' (stressing that it was written in the past) or 'it is written' (stressing that it bears witness in the present); either way, the writing of the text is a completed action that effects the present.

In John 19.30 the 'is . . .' wording seemed to fit best in English, in 1 John 5.10 the 'has . . .' wording, but however the Perfect is put into English, its meaning remains the same – a past completed action that has a present effect.

16.1 THE IDEA OF THE PERFECT

The Perfect tense is the fifth and final tense that we need to learn.<sup>1</sup> Since it is a tense, we will need to consider its form and meaning in the different voices and moods.

The essence of the Perfect is the idea of completion. This is an aspect – it conveys the nature of the action. If the Perfect is used, it conveys not a process, nor is it undefined, but rather that the action is now completed. Time is less important in the Perfect – the fact that the action is completed says something about the past (it was done in the past) but also something about the present (it is completed). 'Past event with present effect' is a useful slogan for the Perfect.

Greek tense	Time	Aspect	English equivalent
Present	Present	Process or Undefined	I am untying or I untie
Future	Future	Undefined	I will untie
Imperfect	Past	Process	I was untying
Aorist	Past	Undefined	I untied
Perfect	Present and Past	Completed	I have untied

We can now complete the chart in Chapter 6, section 6.3 giving the meaning of the tenses:

16.2 THE FORM OF THE PERFECT

		Active	Middle <sup>2</sup>	Passive
Indicative	I You (sing.) He, she, it We You (pl.) They	λελυκα λελυκας λελυκεν λελυκαμεν λελυκατε λελυκασιν	ἡερυμαι ἡερυσαι ἡερυται ἡερυμεθα ἡερυσθε ἡερυνται	λελυμαι λελυσαι λελυται λελυμεθα λελυσθε λελυνται
Participle		λελυκως	ρέρυμενο ς	λελυμενος

 $<sup>^2\,</sup>$  As it happens, <code> $\acute{p}vo\mu\alpha$ 1</code> never occurs in the Perfect, but it seems sensible to keep using the same 'pattern word'.

Notes

- The distinguishing mark of the Perfect, in all forms, is reduplication (see below).
- The Perfect Active also has a characteristic κ.
- The Perfect Indicative Active endings are similar to those in the Aorist.
- The Middle and the Passive share the same forms in the Perfect (as they also do in the Present and Imperfect).
- The Perfect Middle and Passive endings are similar to the Present Middle and Passive endings, but they lack any initial vowel (e.g. -ται not -εται, -μενος not -ομενος).
- λελυκως declines like πας with nominative singulars λελυκως, λελυκυια, λελυκος and 3rd declension stem λελυκοτ- (written in full on page 258).
- You can get Perfects in all of the other moods, where they convey a sense of completion (e.g. Perfect Infinitive Active λελυκεναι, Passive λελυσθαι). However, these are very rare.

16.2.1 Reduplication

Reduplication is the repeating of the first letter of the stem. This occurs in every form of the Perfect tense (and hence marks out Perfects very clearly). As you might expect, although all verbs have reduplication in the Perfect, the exact form it takes is dependent on what the first letter of the verb is.

Starting with a consonant

Normally the consonant is repeated, followed by an  $\varepsilon$ .

E.g.  $\underline{\lambda e}$  luka,  $\underline{\pi e}$  pisteuka.

- $\chi$ , φ, θ (i.e. has an 'h' sound): The consonant is repeated without the 'h' sound, followed by an ε (κε $\chi$ -, πεφ- or τεθ-). E.g. τεθεραπευκα.
- $\sigma$ , ζ or ξ (i.e. has an 's' sound): The normal rule applies (thus  $\sigma \epsilon \sigma$ -, ζεζ- or ξεξ) but normally the initial consonant is then dropped leaving, effectively, just the addition of an ε. E.g. ἐζητηκα, but also σεσωκα.

Starting with a vowel

The doubling of the vowel is represented by its lengthening.

 $\alpha \rightarrow \eta$   $\epsilon \rightarrow \eta$   $o \rightarrow \omega$  E.g.  $\underline{\dot{n}}$ koloubyka

Notes

• Reduplication affects the stem – thus, in a compound verb the preposition will need to be removed, the stem reduplicated, and then the preposition rejoined (cf. augments). Thus the Perfect of ἀπολυω is ἀπολελυκα.

• When the effect of reduplication is only to add an  $\varepsilon$  or to lengthen a vowel it looks the same as adding an augment, but there is a crucial difference:

Reduplication – Perfect – in all moods Augmentation – Imperfect and Aorist – only in the Indicative

16.2.2 Stem changes

All forms of the Perfect result in a consonant being placed next to the end of the verb – either the  $\kappa$  for the Perfect Active, or the ending itself in the Middle or Passive. This can cause some complications, just as adding a  $\sigma$  or a  $\theta$  for the Future or Aorist does.

- $\varepsilon \omega$  verbs are predictable – the  $\varepsilon$  is lengthened into an  $\eta$  before the consonant.

E.g. πεποιηκα is the 1st sing. Perfect Indicative Active of ποιεω τετηρηται is the 3rd sing. Perfect Indicative Passive of τηρεω.

The stem changes in other verbs (i.e. those whose stems end in a consonant) are not worth learning because: (i) they are quite complicated, (ii) the Perfect is rare in the first place, and (iii) the words are normally still quite recognisable.

Basically what happens is that the consonant at the end of the stem changes to whichever consonant within its group sounds better next to the ending. The groups are the same as we have met before when considering additions of  $\sigma$  and  $\theta$ :

16.3 MORE ON THE MEANING OF THE PERFECT

The essence of the Perfect was given at the beginning of the chapter – completion – and the basic English equivalent of 'I have untied'. However, there are two further points worthy of note.

16.3.1 Participles

The meaning of the Perfect participles is as you would expect – they refer neither to sequence nor to simultaneous action but to a present state of affairs (resulting from completed action in the past).

    E.g. Acts 16.34: ήγαλλιασατο ... πεπιστευκως τω θεω.
    – he rejoiced . . . because he had become a believer in God.

(i.e. he had believed and still believed in God.)

What is a little awkward is that there is no 'wooden translation' which can be used other than 'having believed', which is identical to the Aorist. Thus, you need to take care that you do express the true meaning of Perfect participles when you rephrase your 'wooden translation' into good English.

In practice, Perfect Active participles are very rare. Perfect Passive participles are more common and are often effectively equivalent to an adjective or a Present participle since they describe a present state.

E.g. Matt. 5.10: μακαριοι οἱ δεδιωγμενοι.

- Blessed are those who have been persecuted (i.e. the persecuted).

16.3.2 Difference between the Perfect and Aorist

The basic English equivalents 'I have untied' for the Perfect and 'I untied' for the Aorist are not always dependable. This is why you should try not to rely on these equivalents but rather think of the meaning of these tenses – Aorist is past undefined, Perfect is completed.

The difficulties are best highlighted by three examples:

- 1)  $\ensuremath{\check{\eta}}\xspace$  four sequences of (Mark 5.34)
- 2) οὐκ ἀνεγνωτε; (Mark 12.26)
- 3) έκαλεσεν αύτους. (Mark 1.20)

1) is in the Perfect – the saving is complete – it happened in the past and is now being viewed as completed, giving rise to a state of salvation in the present.

2) and 3) are both in the Aorist – the actions are past, but without anything more being said about the nature of the action (process, completed etc.).

In English, though, we would probably translate these sentences as:

- 1. Your faith has saved you.
- 2. Have you not read?
- 3. He called them.

Thus, in English, we will probably use the word 'have' in sentence 2 (as an alternative to 'did you not read?') despite the fact that the Greek verb is Aorist and we associate the translation 'I have read' with the Perfect.

This displays the limitations of thinking of 'English equivalents'. 'Have you not read?' is a good translation of oùk  $\alpha v \epsilon \gamma v \omega \tau \epsilon$ ; because translation is about conveying meaning, and both the Greek phrase and this translation convey a question about an action in the past the nature of which (process, completed etc.) is left undefined. The fact that order to convey this meaning English uses the word 'have' which you normally associate with the Perfect is merely unfortunate.<sup>3</sup>

Focus on the meaning of the tenses, not their basic English equivalents

Conversely, sometimes it is impossible to convey in a reasonably fluent English translation the fact that the verb is Perfect, despite its importance for the meaning of the sentence. For example, take 1 Cor. 15.3-4: Xp10700 Å $\pi\epsilon\theta\alpha\nu\epsilon\nu$ (Aorist)  $\kappa\alpha\iota \dot{\epsilon}\gamma\eta\gamma\epsilon p\tau\alpha\iota$  (Perfect, irregular form)  $\tau\eta \dot{\eta}\mu\epsilon p\alpha \tau\eta \tau p\tau\eta\tau$ . It is almost impossible to avoid translating this as 'Christ died and was raised on the third day', which would convey to an English reader that the two verbs 'died' and 'raised' are both in the same tense, pointing to actions in the past. However, this is not the meaning of the Greek, since  $\dot{\alpha}\pi\epsilon\theta\alpha\nu\epsilon\nu$  is Aorist while  $\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\eta\gamma\epsilon\rho\tau\alpha\iota$  is Perfect, thus a different is being drawn between the two verbs – the death was a past action but the resurrection has continuing effect today ('was raised, and is still in the state of being raised today').

<sup>3</sup> Technically, the problem is that in Greek action in indefinite past time uses the Aorist (past undefined), whereas English uses the Perfect. This can be represented thus:

English Perfect	Present state resulting from past action He has eaten it	Greek Perfect
	Action in indefinite past
	He has eaten many apples over the last year	Greek Aorist
English Past Simple	Action in definite past	GICCK MOLIST
English Fast Shipple	He ate it

PRACTICE 16.3

Which tense is appropriate for the underlined verb?

- 1. I have learnt Greek.
- 2. I have learnt my vocab every day.
- 3. She has been helped by the teacher.
- 4. They have the books.
- 5. They spoke to those who had seen it all.

16.4 THE PLUPERFECT

The Pluperfect is very rare and is mentioned here more for the sake of completeness than for its importance. It is a variant on the Perfect which in effect moves the time of the events one stage further into the past.

Perfect	Present state arising from event in the past
	'I have broken the window' – past event, but it is still broken
Pluperfect	Past state arising from event in the remote past
	'I had broken the window' - past event, created a state, but the state is now past (it was broken for a time, but now is fixed)

However, it is misleading to think of 'I had untied' as an English equivalent of the Greek Pluperfect, because normally when there is a 'had' in English it would not be translated as a Pluperfect in Greek.

This is because the two most common occurrences of 'had' in English are in indirect statements and in temporal clauses, both of which are handled without the use of the Pluperfect in Greek.

Indirect statements (see Chapter 10, section 10.3)

E.g. 'But he said that he had not destroyed the law.'

Greek uses the tense of the original words of the thought/speech, here 'I have not destroyed the law' and hence Perfect, not Pluperfect.

 $\circ$  de eipen oti où kataleluken ton nomon.

Temporal clauses

E.g. 'When he had come, he spoke to the people'.

Greek would normally translate this with a participle, 'having come, he spoke to the people'. Alternatively, the word  $\delta \tau \epsilon$  ('when') followed by an Aorist could be used. Despite the 'had' in English, the Pluperfect would not be used in Greek, because the meaning wanted is not the meaning of the Pluperfect:

 $\underline{\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\omega\nu}$ εἰπεν τῷ λαῷ or ότε ἠλθεν, εἰπεν τῷ λαῷ.

Form of the Pluperfect

The Pluperfect only occurs in the Indicative. It has reduplication as in the Perfect and should have an augment (since it does refer to past time), although this is often omitted. The Active endings are similar to the Perfect Active, with the  $\alpha$  of the ending replaced by  $\epsilon \iota$ . The Middle and Passive endings are very similar to the Aorist and Imperfect Middle endings, without the first vowel, and in fact are only marginally different from the Perfect endings.

	Active	Middle and Passive
I	(ἐ)λελυκειν	(ἐ)λελυμην
You (sing.)	(ἐ)λελυκεις	(ἐ)λελυσο
He, she, it	(ἐ)λελυκει	(ἐ)λελυτο
We	(ἐ)λελυκειμεν	(ἐ)λελυμεθα
You (pl.)	(ἐ)λελυκειτε	(ἐ)λελυσθε
They	(ἐ)λελυκεισαν	(ἐ)λελυντο

In which of the following would a Pluperfect be used?

- 1. When he had arrived, they began to eat.
- 2. The scribes said that the law had been broken.
- 3. I had believed but I do not any longer.
- 4. After I believed I was happy.
- 5. They thought that the temple had been destroyed.

The Subjunctive

All of the verbs underlined in these verses are in the Subjunctive mood. As you can see the Subjunctive does not have a single meaning but it used in a range of different situations, often preceded by a particular word, such as  $i\nu\alpha$  or  $\delta\tau\alpha\nu$ .

17.1 THE IDEA OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

The Subjunctive is the fifth and final mood to learn – by the end of this chapter you will know the whole of the verb (as well as all the nouns and adjectives).

The Subjunctive is only used in set constructions, never just because the writer thought it would be fun. Thus there is no 'meaning' of the Subjunctive to learn – it only occurs as one part of a broader construction, and it is that construction which has a meaning (such as expressing purpose).<sup>1</sup> However, it can be hard to learn something if you can't summarise the 'meaning' of what you are learning. Therefore, it may help to think of the Subjunctive as the 'mood of doubtful assertion'. A rough parallel in English would be the use of 'may' or 'might'.

Subjunctives occur in all three of the Voices (Active, Middle or Passive), but only in the Present or the Aorist tense. Thus it is similar to the Imperative and Infinitive – indeed the difference between the Present and the Aorist in the Subjunctive is the same as in the Infinitive and Imperative (process or default). Like the Indicative it occurs in the first, second and third person, singular and plural.

17.2 THE FORMATION OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

The Subjunctive is easy to form. It differs from the Indicative only in the lack of augment and in having different endings. But those endings are in fact only a simple permutation on the Indicative ones, and only come in two patterns.

KEY GRAMMAR

 Remove any augment
 Replace the Indicative endings with the Subjunctive ones

17.2.1 Present Active, Aorist Active, Aorist Passive

The Subjunctive endings are the same as the Present Indicative Active of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$  with the initial vowels lengthened.

 $-\omega$ ,  $-\eta \zeta$ ,  $-\eta$ ,  $-\omega\mu\epsilon\nu$ ,  $-\eta\tau\epsilon$ ,  $-\omega\sigma\iota\nu$

Thus:

Present Active	λυω, λυης, λυη, λυωμεν, λυητε, λυωσιν
1 st Aorist Active	λυσω, λυσης, λυση, λυσωμεν, λυσητε, λυσωσιν

2 nd Aorist Active	βαλω, βαλης, βαλη, βαλωμεν, βαλητε, βαλωσιν
Aorist Passive	λυθω, λυθης, λυθη, λυθωμεν, λυθητε, λυθωσιν

17.2.2 Present Middle, Present Passive, Aorist Middle

The Subjunctive endings are the same as the Present Indicative Middle of  $\dot{\rho}\nu \omega\mu\alpha i$  / Passive of  $\lambda\nu\omega$  with the initial vowels lengthened.

-wmai, -h, -htai, -wmeqa, -hvpe, -wntai

Thus:

Present Middle	ρύωμαι, ρύη, ρύηται, ρύωμεθα, ρύησθε, ρύωνται
Present Passive	λυωμαι, λυη, λυηται, λυωμεθα, λυησθε, λυωνται
1 st Aorist Middle	ρύσωμαι, ρύση, ρύσηται, ρύσωμεθα, ρύσησθε, ρύσωνται
2 nd Aorist Middle	γενωμαι, γενη, γενηται, γενωμεθα, γενησθε, γενωνται

Notes

- The -εω verbs are easy in the Subjunctive the endings always begin with a long vowel, so the ε will always be absorbed and the endings left identical to those of λυω. Thus, the Present Active Subjunctive of φιλεω is φιλω, φιλης, φιλη, φιλωμεν, φιλητε, φιλωσιν.

PRACTICE 17.2

Parse

1.	ἀγωμεν	4.	ἐρχωνται	7.	ἀρξωμαι	10.	ἀκουσητε
2.	πεμψωσιν	5.	λυθης	8.	βαλληται	11.	ἰδωμεν
3.	τελη	6.	εἰπωσιν	9.	διδασκη	12.	φιλουμεν

17.3 THE USES OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

There are seven different constructions in which the Subjunctive is used. The Subjunctive has to occur in these constructions, and will not occur elsewhere. The first two of the constructions are far more common than the others. Whichever construction is being used, the difference between the tenses is the same – the Present if the action is being viewed as part of a process (continuous or repeated), otherwise the Aorist, just as in the Infinitive and Imperative.

17.3.1 Indefinite clauses

Clauses that refer to a person, place or time that is not definite use the word (technically a 'particle') dv plus the Subjunctive, to express this indefiniteness.

Present Subjunctive – Process Aorist Subjunctive – Default

Often, this indefiniteness is expressed in English by the word 'ever'.

ός – who	$\delta \varsigma  \dot{\alpha} v$ + Subjunctive – whoever
$\delta \pi o \upsilon - where$	$\delta \pi$ ου $dv$ + Subjunctive – wherever $\delta \tau \epsilon$ – when

Examples

Mark 3.35:  $\underline{\delta \zeta} \, \underline{\alpha} v \pi \delta \eta \sigma \eta$  to  $\theta \epsilon \lambda \eta \mu \alpha$  tou  $\theta \epsilon \delta v \dots$

- whoever does the will of God . . .

Matt. 6.6:  $\sigma v \delta \varepsilon \, \underline{\delta \tau \alpha v \pi \rho o \sigma \varepsilon v \chi \eta} \dots$  – But whenever you pray . . .

Rev. 14.4: ούτοι οἱ ἀκολουθουντες τῷ ἀρνιῷ ὑπου ἀν ὑπαγῃ.

- These ones follow the lamb wherever he goes.

Notes

• Sometimes ἐαν is used in place of ἀν.

Col. 3.23:  $\underline{\delta}$  έαν ποιητε, έκ ψυχης έργαζεσθε ώς τω κυριω και οὐκ ἀνθρωποις. – whatever you do, work at it wholeheartedly as (a task for) the Lord and not for humans.

Often the meaning of a sentence is indefinite, and hence Greek will use an indefinite construction, when the use of 'ever' seems inappropriate in English. For example, Matt. 6.6 όταν προσευχη means 'whenever you pray' – what follows is a general rule, not an instruction for a particular occasion. However, in English this might be translated as 'when you pray'. Similarly Mark 6.10 μενετε έως ἀν ἐξελθητε means 'remain until ever you leave' – i.e. remain until whenever it happens to be that you leave – but would normally be translated in English simply as 'remain until you leave'.

17.3.2 Purpose clauses

We have already seen that purpose can be expressed simply by the use of an Infinitive. For example,  $\eta\lambda\theta\epsilon\nu$   $\gamma\rho\alpha\psi\alpha\iota$   $\beta\iota\beta\lambda\iota\circ\nu$ . – She came to write a book.

An alternative to this is to use  $i\nu\alpha$  plus the Subjunctive. The negative of this is  $i\nu\alpha$  $\mu\eta$  although sometimes  $\mu\eta$  is used on its own.

ίνα	+ Subjunctive = purpose

Examples

John 8.59: ήραν οὐν λιθους ἱνα βαλωσιν ἐπ' αὐτον.

– Therefore they took stones in order that they might throw (them) at him.

Matt. 7.1:  $\mu\eta$  krinete,  $ina \mu\eta$  kribhte.

- Do not judge, in order that you might not be judged.

Phil. 1.9: kai touto proseucomai, \underline{iva} ή dyaph úman ... perioseun ...

– And I pray this that your love may overflow . . .

It is important to understand that any of the Greek ways of expressing purpose can be translated by any of the English ways.<sup>2</sup>

Thus, either of these:	ήραν ούν λιθους	ίνα βαλωσιν	ἐπ'αὐτον
		βαλειν

could be translated by any of the following:

	in order that they might throw
Therefore they	to throw	(thoma) at him took stones	in order to throw	(them) at him.
	so that they might throw

Note:  $\delta\pi\omega\varsigma$  + Subjunctive is a more unusual alternative for  $i\nu\alpha$  + Subjunctive.<sup>3</sup>

&lt;sup>2</sup> Many students find it easier to think of the Greek purpose with the Infinitive matching the English purpose with an Infinitive, and the Greek purpose with  $iv\alpha$  + Subjunctive matching English, 'in order that ... may/might'. This is fine as an aid to memory, as long as it is understood that Greek and English purpose clauses do not need to match in this way.

Hint

We have looked at the two most common uses of the Subjunctive. Notice that each has a 'flag word' –  $\dot{\alpha}\nu$  ( $\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\nu$ ) or  $i\nu\alpha$  ( $\delta\pi\omega\varsigma$ ) – which alerts you to the fact that a Subjunctive is on the way.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. ήλθες ίνα ἀκουῃς;
- 2. οί προφηται ἀπεσταλησαν ίνα λεγωσιν ὑπερ του θεου.
- 3. ός ἀν βλεπῃ με, βλεπει τον πατερα.
- 4. ἐκρατησαν τον Παυλον ίνα μη φυγη.
- 5. όταν πορευησθε, φοβουμαι.
- 6. όπου πορευονται;
- 7. ὀ ἀποστολος ἐγραψεν ὑμιν ἱνα πιστευσητε.
- 8. όπου ἀν ἐλθῃ ὁ Ἰησους, μεγας ὀχλος συνηχθη.
- 9. Jesus cast out the demons in order that he might be saved.
- 10. Whoever entered the city died.
- 11. I called to her so she would hear.
- 12. Whenever I look I see the mountains.

17.3.3 Exhortations (Hortatory Subjunctive)

The Subjunctive can be used on its own in the 1st person plural form to express an exhortation, when the speaker is exhorting others to join him or her in an action.

KEY GRAMMAR

1st plural Subjunctive = 'let us'

Examples

Mark 4.35: διελθωμεν είς το περαν. – Let us go to the other side. Rom. 14.19 άρα ούν τα της είρηνης διωκωμεν.

– So therefore let us pursue the things of peace.

Heb. 10.22 προσερχωμεθα μετα άληθινης καρδιας έν πληροφορια πιστεως. – Let us approach with a true heart in full assurance of faith.

17.3.4 Deliberation (Deliberative Subjunctive)

The Subjunctive is used when the speaker is deliberating – 'What should I do?', 'Where should we go?'

1st person Subjunctive = deliberation

Examples

Luke 3.10: τί οὐν ποιησωμεν; – What then should we do? Heb. 11.32: και τί ἐτι λεγω; – And what more should I say? Rom. 6.15: τί οὐν; ἁμαρτησωμεν, ότι οὐκ ἐσμεν ὑπο νομον ἀλλα ὑπο χαριν; – What then? Should we sin, because we are not under law but under grace?

17.3.5 Prohibitions

We have already learnt that a command uses the Imperative mood, and that the negative for the other moods is  $\mu\eta$ . Thus, you might imagine that prohibitions (negative commands) are straightforward. Unfortunately, this is not the case.

Aorist Subjunctive replaces Aorist Imperative in prohibitions

Process	Positive Negative	Present Imperative μη + Present Imperative
Default	Positive Negative	Aorist Imperative μη + Aorist Subjunctive

As we have learnt, the difference between the Present and the Aorist in Imperatives and Subjunctives is that between process and default. In Imperatives and prohibitions this often means the difference between attitudes and conduct (Present) and specific actions (Aorist).<sup>4</sup>

Examples<sup>5</sup>

Luke 11.4: μη εἰσενεγκης ήμας εἰς πειρασμον. – Do not bring us to testing. Rom. 10.6: μη εἰπης ἐν τη καρδια σου· τίς ἀναβησεται εἰς τον οὐρανον;

- Do not say in your heart, 'Who will go up to heaven?'

Matt. 10.5: τουτους τους δωδεκα ἀπεστειλεν ὁ Ἰησους ... λεγων· Εἰς ὁδον ἐθνων μη ἀπελθητε και εἰς πολιν Σαμαριτων μη εἰσελθητε.
– Jesus sent out these twelve ... saying 'Do not go out into the road of the Gentiles, and do not enter a city of the Samaritans.'

17.3.6 Emphatic negative future

The standard way to make negative statements about the future is simply to use the Future Indicative with o $\vartheta$ . However, it is more emphatic to use the double negative o $\vartheta \mu \eta$  plus the Aorist Subjunctive.

oů μη + Aorist Subjunctive = emphatic negative future

Examples

Mark 13.30: ἀμην λεγω ὑμιν ὁτι οὐ μη παρελθη ἡ γενεα αὑτη ...
 – Truly I tell you that this generation will (definitely) not pass away...
 John 6.37: τον ἐρχομενον προς ἐμε οὐ μη ἐκβαλω ἐξω.

- The one who comes to me I will (definitely) not drive away outside.

• Sometimes, we find où  $\mu\eta$  + Future Indicative with a similar meaning:

Matt. 26.35: λεγει αὐτῷ ὁ Πετρος· ...  $\underline{oυ} \mu\eta$  σε ἀπαρνησομαι. – Peter said to him, '... I will never deny you.'

17.3.7 Conditions

Certain conditions use the Subjunctive (those after  $\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\nu$ ). These will be discussed in Chapter 20.

PRACTICE 17.3.3-17.3.7

Translate

- δπου ἐλθω;
- 2. μη έξελθητε.
- 3. ού μη ὑπαγαγωσιν.
- 4. δοξαζωμεν τον του κοσμου κυριον.
- 5. τί ἀκουσωμεν του διδασκαλου;
- 6. ζητωμεν άγιαν ζωην.

Using verbs

We have now learnt all of the basic forms and uses of verbs in Greek. However, there are a number of more unusual or particular uses that are worth looking at.

18.1 δυναμαι, καθημαι, κειμαι AND οίδα

These four verbs all describe states that can be thought of as arising from past situations. For example, if you are sitting now it is because you have sat down in the past. Similarly you know something now because you have learnt it in the past.

δυναμαι – I am able (to) καθημαι – I sit	oἰδα – I know
κειμαι – I lie

Therefore these verbs use the endings of the Perfect and Pluperfect tense for the Present and Past (Imperfect). KEY GRAMMAR Present: Current state arising from past action – use Perfect endings Past: Past state arising from action in further past – use Pluperfect endings

Note: the Past tense of these verbs is called their Imperfect (when, for example, you are parsing) because it describes an ongoing situation in the past (as opposed to the Aorist, which would more describe an action in the past).

• δυναμαι, καθημαι, κειμαι

These are deponent, and hence have the Middle endings.

	Present		Imperfect
δυνα-σθε	καθη-ται καθη-μεθα καθη-σθε	κει-σθε	-	ἐκαθη-μην ἐκαθη-σο ἐκαθη-το ἐκαθη-μεθα ἐκαθη-σθε ἐκαθη-ντο	-
	Infinitives Participles	δυνασθαι, καθησθαι, κεισθαι δυναμενος, καθημενος, κειμενος

οἰδα

This uses the Active endings.

Present	Imperfect
οἰδ-α	ήδ-ειν
οἰδ-ας	ἠδ-εις
οἰδ-εν	ήδ-ει
οἰδ-αμεν	ήδ-ειμεν
οίδ-ατε	ήδ-ειτε
οίδ-ασιν	ἠδ-εισαν

Infinitive	εἰδεναι
Participle	εἰδως¹

Hint

Some of the forms of  $oi\delta\alpha$  are easily confused with  $\epsilon i\delta ov$  the  $2^{nd}$  Aorist of  $\delta \rho \alpha \omega$  (I see).<sup>2</sup> Remember that there are no augments in the other moods.

	Indicative	Infinitive	Participle
I see – 2 nd Aorist <sup>3</sup>	είδον	ίδειν	ἰδων
I know	ໍາຸ່δειν (Imperfect)	εἰδεναι	εἰδως

&lt;sup>3</sup> Note also idou meaning look!/behold! which is related to but not directly part of  $\varepsilon idov$  (the actual Imperatives from  $\varepsilon idov$  being  $id\varepsilon tand id\varepsilon t\varepsilon$ ).

Examples

Jas. 2.14: μη δυναται ή πιστις σωσαι αὐτον; – Faith is not able to save him, is it? Acts 2.34: εἰπεν ὁ κυριος τῷ κυριῷ μου: Καθου ἐκ δεξιων μου.

- The lord said to my lord, 'Sit at my right.'

- Matt. 28.6: οὐκ ἐστιν ὡδε, ἠγερθη γαρ καθως εἰπεν· δευτε ἰδετε τον τοπον ὑπου ἐκειτο. – He is not here, for he has been raised just as he said; come see the place where he lay.
- Rev. 4.2: εὐθεως ἐγενομην ἐν πνευματι, και ἰδου θρονος ἐκειτο ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ, και ἐπι τον θρονον καθημενος. – Immediately I was in the spirit, and behold a throne lying in heaven, and one sitting on the throne.
- 3 John 12: και ήμεις δε μαρτυρουμεν, και οἰδας ότι ή μαρτυρια ήμων ἀληθης ἐστιν. – We also testify, and you know that our testimony is true.
- 2 Cor. 4.14: εἰδοτες ὑτι ὑ ἐγειρας τον κυριον Ἰησουν και ἡμας συν Ἰησου ἐγερεῖ. Knowing that the one who raised the Lord Jesus will raise you also with Jesus.

2.	καθημενοις	5.	οίδατε	8.	ἰδων
3.	δυνασθαι	6.	ήδειν	9.	εἰδως

18.2 USE OF INFINITIVES

We have already learnt the forms of the Infinitive, and the distinction between the Present and Aorist Infinitives. However, we have not yet studied carefully the different uses of the Infinitive in Greek – only noting that it is used as in English after certain verbs (e.g.  $\theta\epsilon\lambda\omega - I$  wish) and for purpose.

18.2.1 After certain verbs

An Infinitive often comes after the following verbs.<sup>4</sup>

$\delta \epsilon \iota^5$	It is (was) necessary	ἐξεστιν	It is lawful δυναμαι	I am able	θελω	I wish ἐστιν	It is	μελλω	I intend / am about (to)

&lt;sup>5</sup> The imperfect of δει is ἐδει ('it was necessary').

Examples

- Rev. 1.19: γραψον οὐν ἁ εἰδες και ἁ εἰσιν και ἁ μελλει γενεσθαι μετα ταυτα. – Therefore write what you see and what is and what is about to happen after these things.
- Gal. 4.21: λεγετε μοι, οί ύπο νομον θελοντες είναι, τον νομον οὐκ ἀκουετε;
  - Tell me, you who wish to be under the law, don't you listen to the law?
- 1 Cor. 10.23: παντα  έξεστιν ἀλλ' οὐ παντα οἰκοδομει.
  - Everything is permitted but not everything builds up.

The 'subject' of an Infinitive

Often when these verbs are used with an Infinitive there is a 'second subject'.

For example, in the sentence 'I want the messenger to depart' the subject of the sentence is 'I'. But what is 'messenger'? From one point of view it is the object of 'I want', from another it is the subject of 'to depart'. There is a simple rule in Greek that any such 'subject of an Infinitive' goes in the accusative.<sup>6</sup>

•	I want the messenger to depart – $\theta \epsilon \lambda \omega \tau o v$	KEY GRAMMAR
	άγγελον άπελθειν	The 'subject of an Infinitive' goes in the accusative

Examples

Mark 8.31: δει τον υίον του ἀνθρωπου πολλα παθειν. – The son of man must suffer greatly (lit: it is necessary the son of man to suffer greatly).

Rom. 16.19:  $\theta$ elw de úmas sofous eivai eis to àgabov ...

– I want you to be wise towards the good . . .

Notes

- ἐξεστιν is irregular, in that when combined with an Infinitive the 'subject' of the Infinitive is normally in the dative, not the accusative. For example: Matt. 14.4: Οὐκ ἐξεστιν σοι ἐχειν αὐτην. – 'It is not lawful for you to have her.'
- When translating  $\delta \epsilon \iota$  it is often sensible to rephrase 'it is necessary' (which you hardly ever say in English) to some form of 'must'. (N.B. there is no word in Greek for 'must'  $\delta \epsilon \iota$  is used instead).

&lt;sup>6</sup> This may seem annoying ('If it is a type of subject, why not put it in the nominative?'), but it has the advantage of strictly reserving the nominative for the subject of the main verb in the sentence, which helps when trying to analyse a complicated sentence.

18.2.2 Result clauses

Greek expresses result very easily, simply by the word  $\omega\sigma\tau\epsilon$  and the Infinitive.

ώστε + Infinitive = result

- This is a little different from English, which uses an Indicative.
- Often there is a second subject, in which case it goes in the accusative.
- To get the meaning right you should first translate ώστε as 'with the result that', but this sounds clumsy in English, so then you need to rephrase it, often using the English word 'so' or even just 'and'.

Examples

Matt. 15.30-1: και έθεραπευσεν αύτους. ώστε τον όχλον θαυμασαι.

- And he healed them, with the result that the crowd was amazed.
  - (or 'so the crowd was amazed' or 'and the crowd was amazed').
- Mark 15.5: ὁ δε Ἰησους οὐκετι οὐδεν ἀπεκριθη, ὡστε θαυμαζειν τον Πιλατον.
   But Jesus answered nothing further, with the result that Pilate was amazed. (or 'so Pilate was amazed' or 'and Pilate was amazed').

PRACTICE 18.2.1 AND 18.2.2

Translate

- 1. θελω αύτον γαμειν με.
- 2. δει διδασκαλον διδασκειν.
- 3. προσηλθεν ώστε αύτους ύπαγαγειν.
- 4. δυνασθε έσθιειν άρτον έν τω ίερω;
- 5. φιλω την σοφιαν ώστε ἀκουειν του διδασκαλου μου.

18.2.3 Purpose

As we have already learnt, purpose is expressed in Greek either by just using the Infinitive or by ivα plus the Subjunctive.

Examples

Jude 14: ίδου ήλθεν κυριος ... ποιησαι κρισιν κατα παντων.

Behold, the Lord is coming . . . to execute (lit: do) judgement against all.
 Mark 3.14-15: ἐποιησεν δωδεκα ἱνα ἀσιν μετ' αὐτου και ἱνα ἀποστελλη αὐτους κηρυσσειν και ἐχειν ἐξουσιαν ἐκβαλλειν τα δαιμονια. – He made (the) twelve in order (for them) to be with him and so that he might send them to preach and to have authority to cast out the demons.

18.2.4 Articular Infinitive

The neuter singular of the article ( $\tau o$ ,  $\tau o$ ,  $\tau o v$ ,  $\tau \psi$ ) can be put in front of an Infinitive to make a noun denoting the activity of the verb, or the fact of that activity happening (this is called the articular Infinitive).

κρινειν – to judge → το κρινειν – (the activity of/the fact of) judging εσθιειν – to eat → το εσθιειν – (the activity of/the fact of) eating

The articular Infinitive is mainly used with a preposition. The Infinitive itself does not decline, but the article does. The most common prepositions used with the articular Infinitive are:

$\delta\iota\alpha + acc.$	because of μετα + acc.	after
εἰς + acc. or προς + acc.	with a view to / aiming at / leading to <sup>7</sup>
$\pi \rho o + gen.$	before
$\dot{\epsilon}v + dat.$	during / while

Examples

Jas. 4.2: οὐκ ἐχετε  $\delta$ ια το μη αἰτεισθαι ὑμας.

- you do not have because you do not ask.

(lit: on account of the fact of you not asking)

Matt. 26.32: μετα δε το έγερθηναι με προαξω ύμας εἰς την Γαλιλαιαν. - after I have been raised I will go head of you into Galilee.

(lit: after the activity of me being raised)

- 2 Cor. 1.4: ὁ παρακαλων ἡμας ἐπι πασῃ τῃ θλιψει ἡμων εἰς το δυνασθαι ἡμας παρακαλειν τους ἐν πασῃ θλιψει. – the one encouraging us in all our suffering so that we might be able to encourage those who are in any suffering. (lit: with a view to the activity of us being able)
- Gal. 2.12: προ του γαρ ἐλθειν τινας ἀπο Ἰακωβου μετα των ἐθνων συνησθιεν.
   for before some people came from James, he used to eat with the Gentiles. (lit: before the fact of some people coming)

Mark 4.4: και έγενετο έν τω σπειρειν ὃ μεν έπεσεν παρα την όδον.

- And as he sowed some fell alongside the path.

(lit: in the activity of sowing . . .)

Either 1. Infinitive: (i) alone, (ii) preceded by  $\tau \circ \upsilon$ , (iii) preceded by  $\epsilon i \varsigma \tau \circ / \pi \rho \circ \varsigma \tau \circ$ or 2.  $i \nu \alpha + Subjunctive$

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. ἐδυναμεθα λεγειν αὐτῷ.
- 2. θελω είδεναι τον θεον.
- 3. μετα το προσευχεσθαι έξηλθον έκ της συναγωγης.
- 4. ή χηρα ήν πτωχη ώστε μη έχειν πολλα.
- 5. είδον ότι δει αὐτην ἀποθανειν.
- 6. οίδατε τας ἐπαγγελιας τας αἰωνιους;
- 7.  $\eta \lambda \theta \epsilon \zeta$  pros to proskungal to  $\theta \epsilon \omega$ ;
- 8. οἱ μαθηται ἐφυγον ώστε τους στρατιωτας μη εύρειν μηδενα.
- 9. Did you know him?
- 10. Before sitting down they gave thanks.
- 11. They were so amazed that they worshipped him.
- 12. You must be a slave.

18.3 THIRD PERSON IMPERATIVES

We have already learnt the normal Imperatives – commands to 'you' (singular or plural). These are called  $2^{nd}$  person Imperatives. Now we need to learn the  $3^{rd}$  person Imperatives. These are quite rare.

They mean 'let him/her/it/them [untie]' in the sense of 'he/she/it/they should' (not 'allow them to').

3 rd perse	on Imperatives =
	'Let'

The forms are as follows.

	Present Active	1 st Aorist Active	Present Middle or Passive	1 st Aorist Middle	Aorist Passive
Sing.	λυετω	λυσατω	ἡνεσθω	ἡυσασθω	λυθητω
Pl.	λυετωσαν	λυσατωσαν	ῥνεσθωσαν	ἡυσασθωσαν	λυθητωσαν

Notes

- The endings are distinctive:  $-\tau\omega/\Theta\omega$  for  $3^{rd}$  sing.,  $-\tau\omega\sigma\alpha\nu/-\Theta\omega\sigma\alpha\nu$  for  $3^{rd}$  pl.
- The standard distinguishing marks are visible:  $-\sigma\alpha$  in the 1st Aorist Active and Middle,  $\theta$  in the Aorist Passive.

Examples

Mark 4.23: εἰ τις ἐχει ὠτα ἀκουειν ἀκουετω.

- If someone has ears to hear, he should hear!
- Rom. 6.12: μη ούν βασιλευετω ή άμαρτια έν τω θνητω ύμων σωματι.
  - Therefore sin should not reign in your mortal body.

18.4 PRINCIPAL PARTS

In the previous chapters we have learnt all the different parts of the verb. In the process we have seen that endings are perfectly regular, but various verbs have irregularities in their stems (beyond those which are just the result of the standard combinations of letters such as  $\pi + \sigma \rightarrow \psi$ ).

There is a standard format for presenting this information about stems called the 'principal parts' of the verb. This consists of six parts of the verb, from which all of the tenses and Voices can be constructed. In the reference section (pages 253–4), the principal parts of the common verbs that have irregularities in their stems are listed.

Look at page 253. There we see the following information about  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$ .

Present	Future	Aorist	Perfect	Perfect	Aorist
		Active	Active	Passive	Passive
βαλλω	βαλεω	έβαλον	βεβληκα	βεβλημαι	ἐβληθην

This tells us all that we need to know to work out all the forms of  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$ , given that we know the standard endings (for  $\lambda\nu\omega$ ) in the different tenses. For while you wouldn't be able to work out that the Perfect Active of  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$  is  $\beta\epsilon\beta\lambda\eta\kappa\alpha$ , once you know this you can just add the standard endings of  $\lambda\nu\omega$  in the Perfect to  $\beta\epsilon\beta\lambda\eta\kappa\alpha$  to form the Perfect of  $\beta\alpha\lambda\lambda\omega$ .

Teachers differ as to how much they stress the importance of learning the principal parts of these common verbs – it is certainly very useful, but it is quite a chore. However, what is undoubtedly essential is being able to form the different parts of the verb once you have been given the principal parts (whether from this list, or from a dictionary).

The way in which each one of the principal parts relates to a number of different parts of the verbs (and vice versa) is set out below.

Principal parts			All the parts of the verb
Present Active	λυω	$\rightarrow$	Present Active Imperfect Active Present Middle/Passive Imperfect Middle/ Passive	λυω ἐλυον λυομαι ἐλυομην
Future Active	λυσω	$\rightarrow$	Future Active Future Middle	λυσω λυσομαι
Aorist Active	ἐλυσ α	$\rightarrow$	Aorist Active Aorist Middle	ἐλυσα ἐλυσαμην
Perfect Active	λελυκα	$\rightarrow$	Perfect Active Pluperfect Active	λελυκα (ἐ)λελυκειν
Perfect Middle/ Passive	λελυμαι	$\rightarrow$	Perfect Middle/Passive Pluperfect Middle/ Passive	λελυμαι ἐλελυμην
Aorist Passive	ἐλυθην	$\rightarrow$	Aorist Passive Future Passive	έλυθην λυθησομαι

Example

• βαλλω is given as:

Present	Future	Aorist Active	Perfect Active	Perfect Passive	Aorist Passive
βαλλω	βαλεω	ἐβαλον	βεβληκα	βεβλημαι	ἐβληθην

βαλλω		the 1 st sing. Imperfect Passive is	ἐβαλλομην
βαλεω <sup>8</sup>	tells you	the 2 nd plural Future Active is	βαλειτε
ἐβαλον	that, for	the 3 rd sing. Aorist Active is	ἐβαλεν example,	(and -ov ending points out that it h	as a 2 nd Aorist)
βεβληκα		the Perfect participle is	βεβληκως
βεβλημαι		the 3 rd plural Perfect Passive is	βεβληνται
ἐβληθην		the 1 st plural Future Passive is	βληθη σ ομεθα

- Imagine you need to translate of  $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota$  the grad the scalar state of  $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota$  the grad the scalar scal

You guess from the context that the final word is something to do with  $\sigma \pi \epsilon_{1}\rho \omega$ (I sow). You look up the principal parts of  $\sigma \pi \epsilon_{1}\rho \omega$  and find the sixth form is  $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma \pi \alpha \rho \eta v$ . This tells you that the Aorist Passive participle will be  $\sigma \pi \alpha \rho \epsilon_{1} \zeta$ (declined like  $\lambda v \theta \epsilon_{1} \zeta$ ; no augment for the participle, and the principal part has told you that it, unusually, does not have a  $\theta$ ). Given this, you can see that  $\sigma \pi \alpha \rho \epsilon_{1} \tau \epsilon_{2}$  is the masc. nom. plural of the Aorist Passive participle of  $\sigma \pi \epsilon_{1} \rho \omega$ . Hence the phrase means, 'the ones having been sown on the good soil'.

18.5 ASPECT AND TIME IN TENSES

As we have learnt the different moods and tenses we have encountered the ideas of time and aspect. Now it is time to look again at what is meant by the tenses. The student should be aware that the degree to which Greek tense is primarily about aspect or primarily about time is a matter of some dispute among scholars. It is perhaps fair to say that traditionally tense as been seen as being mainly about time, but more recently there has been a reassessment of this, stressing aspect. The learner is best to follow the famous Greek proverb 'moderation in all things' ( $\mu\eta\delta\epsilon\nu$  ἀ $\gamma\alpha\nu$ ) and to understand both the time and the aspect side of the tenses, and to be suspicious of those saying it is all of one or all of the other.

The building blocks of an understanding of tenses can be summarised as follows.

- Three time distinctions: future, present, past
- Three 'aspects': process the action is in progress undefined – the action is considered in itself, without reference to continuation or completion

completed - the action is completed

- · The tenses function differently in the different moods
  - Indicatives time and aspect
  - Participles relative time (relative to the main verb)
  - Other moods aspect only

		Indi	cative	Participles	Imperative Infinitive Subjunctive
Present	Present	+	Process	Simultaneous	Process
			(or Undefined)
Future	Future	+	Undefined	-	-
Imperfect	Past	+	Process	-	-
Aorist	Past	+	Undefined	Sequence	Undefined
Perfect	(Present)	+	Completed	-	-

Notes

- The meaning of the participles is closely related to that of the other moods action is normally simultaneous with the main verb because it is seen as an ongoing process, and action is prior to the main verb in sequence because it is seen as an action with an undefined relationship to the main verb. However, thinking in terms of being simultaneous or in sequence tends to make it easier for beginners to make a start on reading the New Testament.
- There are occasions when the time element of the Indicative seems to be absent and aspect dominates (e.g. Rom. 3.23: παντες γαρ ήμαρτον. – ήμαρτον is Aorist here, but clearly this does not mean 'for all sinned on one particular occasion in the past' but rather 'for all sin' – a general, 'undefined' statement). However, normally time (alongside aspect) is very important to tense in the Indicative.
- The augment marks out past time hence it occurs in the Imperfect and Aorist in the Indicative only.

Section A

- *1. ὁ Χριστος ὁ βασιλευς Ἰσραηλ καταβατω νυν ἀπο του σταυρου, ἱνα ἰδωμεν και πιστευσωμεν.
- *2. και έλεγον. Ούχ ούτος έστιν Ίησους ὁ υἱος Ἰωσηφ, οὑ ἡμεις οἰδαμεν τον πατερα και την μητερα; πως νυν λεγει ὁτι Ἐκ του οὐρανου καταβεβηκα;

&lt;sup>9</sup> Note: compound adjectives only occur with the masculine endings (for masculine and feminine) or the neuter.

212 The Elements of New Testament Greek

- *3. ὁ δε Ἰησους εἰπεν αὐτοις· Οὐκ οἰδατε τί αἰτεισθε. δυνασθε πιειν το ποτηριον ὃ ἐγω πινω ἡ το βαπτισμα ὃ ἐγω βαπτιζομαι βαπτισθηναι;
- *4. ὁ ἀφ' ἑαυτου λαλων ζητει την δοξαν την ἰδιαν· ὁ δε ζητων την δοξαν του πεμψαντος αὐτον οὑτος ἀληθης ἐστιν και ἀδικια ἐν αὐτῷ οὐκ ἐστιν.
- *5. Τοτε ὁ Ἰησους εἰπεν τοις μαθηταις αὐτου· Εἰ τις θελει ὀπισω μου ἐλθειν, ἀρνησασθω ἑαυτον και ἀρατω τον σταυρον αὐτου και ἀκολουθειτω μοι.
  - 6. και Μαρια θέωρει δυο άγγελους έν λευκοις καθιζομένους, ένα προς τη κεφαλη και ένα προς τοις ποσιν, όπου έκειτο το σωμα του Ίησου.
  - λεγοντες δε φωνη μεγαλη είπαν· 'Αξιον έστιν το άρνιον καθημενον έπι τφ θρονφ ἐν δεξια του θεου λαβειν την δυναμιν και σοφιαν και τιμην και δοξαν.
- *8. ὁ μεν οὐν κυριος Ἰησους μετα το λαλησαι αὐτοις ἀνεβη εἰς τον οὐρανον και ἐκαθητο ἐκ δεξιων του θεου.
- *9. Blessed are the pure in heart, because they will see God.
- 10. The power of God was there with a view to healing the sick and cleansing those with unclean spirits.
- 11. We are working now in order to read the New Testament.
- 12. Our knowledge is growing with the result that we are able to learn from the writings: first, the gospel according to Mark.

Section B

- 1. πορευθεντες δε μαθετε τί έστιν. Δει τον υίον του άνθρωπου πολλα παθειν.
- *2. και παλιν ήρξατο διδασκειν παρα την θαλασσαν· και συναγεται προς αὐτον ὀχλος πολυς, ώστε αὐτον εἰς πλοιον ἐμβαντα καθησθαι ἐν τῃ θαλασσῃ, και πας ὁ ὀχλος προς την θαλασσαν ἐπι της γης ἠσαν.<sup>10</sup>
- *3. δυναμεις και σημεια ἐποιησεν δι' αὐτου ὁ θεος ἐν μεσῷ ὑμων καθως αὐτοι οἰδατε.
- 4. ὁ θεριζων [harvester/reaper] μισθον λαμβανει και συναγει καρπον εἰς ζωην αἰωνιον, ἱνα ὁ σπειρων ὁπου χαιρῃ και ὁ θεριζων.
- *5. ἐνδυσασθε το ἱματιον το καθαρον προς το δυνασθαι εἰναι μετα του βασιλεως και των φιλων αὐτου.

 $<sup>^{10}\,</sup>$  You would expect to have the singular  $\dot\eta\nu$  here agreeing with  $\dot\varrho\chi\lambda\varsigma\varsigma$  but in fact Mark 4.1 has the plural, presumably because the crowd is thought of as many individuals.

- 6. οί δε άρχιερεις και παντες οί λοιποι έζητουν κατα του Ίησου μαρτυριαν είς το άποκτεινειν αύτον, και ούχ ηύρισκον.
- 7. και έν τω κατηγορεισθαι αύτον ύπο των ἀρχιερεων και πρεσβυτερων ούδεν ἀπεκρινατο.<sup>11</sup>
- 8. ὁ δε Ἡρῷδης ἰδων τον Ἰησουν ἐχαρη [irreg. Aorist 3rd sing. of χαιρω], ἠν γαρ ἐξ ἱκανων χρονων θελων ἰδειν αὐτον δια το ἀκουειν περι αὐτου και ἠλπίζεν τι σημειον ἰδειν ὑπ' αὐτου γινομενον.
- 9. It is necessary that servants of God be spiritual, worthy, and capable, free from impure desire, not new in the faith, and not unfaithful.
- *10. He is treating you unjustly with the result that you are not able to receive your wages.
- *11. For do you rich not have homes for the purpose of eating and drinking in?
  - 12. The strong, because they are free, are able to sit and eat with the unclean nations.

Section C

Matthew 6.9-13 Ούτως οῦν προσεύχεσθε ὑμεῖς· Πάτερ ἡμῶν ὁ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, ἁγιασθήτω τὸ ὄνομά σου· <sup>10</sup> ἐλθέτω ἡ βασιλεία σου· γενηθήτω τὸ θέλημά σου, ὡς ἐν οὐρανῷ καὶ ἐπὶ γῆς· <sup>11</sup> Τὸν ἄρτον ἡμῶν τὸν ἐπιούσιον [for today, for the coming day] δὸς [give!] ἡμῖν σήμερον· <sup>12</sup> καὶ ἄφες [forgive, ἀφιημι] ἡμῖν τὰ ὀφειλήματα [debts, from ὀφειλω] ἡμῶν, ὡς καὶ ἡμεῖς ἀφήκαμεν [ἀφιημι] τοῖς ὀφειλέταις [debtors] ἡμῶν· <sup>13</sup> καὶ μὴ εἰσενέγκης [εἰσφερω = εἰς+φερω] ἡμᾶς εἰς πειρασμόν [time of testing], ἀλλὰ ῥῦσαι ἡμᾶς ἀπὸ τοῦ πονηροῦ.

Extra verbs

19.1 -μι VERBS

The- $\mu\iota$  verbs (so called because they end in - $\mu\iota$  in their 1st singular Present Indicative Active) are a separate class of verbs from the normal - $\omega$  verbs (e.g.  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$ ). The bad news is that their full pattern is awkward to learn. The good news, however, is that only three of them are common, and you don't need to be able to form them yourself, only to recognise and translate them.

Matt. 27.60: και  $\underline{\acute{e}}$ θηκεν αὐτο ἐν τῷ καινῷ αὐτου μνημειῷ. – and he placed it in his new tomb.

Acts 20.35: makarion éstin mallon  $\underline{\delta i \delta o v \alpha i}$   $\mathring{\eta}$  lambanein.

- It is more blessed to give than to receive.

Rev. 3.20: ίδου  $\underline{i}$ στηκα έπι την θυραν και κρουω.

– Behold, I stand at the door and knock.

19.1.1 Characteristics of - $\mu\iota$ verbs

The essential feature of  $-\mu\iota$  verbs is that they use a different, longer stem in the Present (and thus also for the Imperfect) than for the rest of the verb (compare  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$ , where the one stem  $\lambda\upsilon$ - is used throughout). It is crucial to recognise which of the two stems a particular occurrence of a  $-\mu\iota$  verb is using.

The Three -µı Verbs	Verbal Stem	Present Stem (for Present and Imperfect)
τιθημι I place	θε	τιθε
διδωμι I give	δο	διδο
ἱστημι I cause to st	and στα	ίστα

Note

The Present stem is formed from the verbal stem by a form of reduplication – the first consonant is repeated (or an 'h' sound for those beginning with vowels or  $\sigma$ ) together with an  $\iota$ . Note the difference between this and proper reduplication (for the Perfect) which uses an  $\varepsilon$  vowel.

In -μι verbs the Present stem is longer than the verbal stem

19.1.2 Parsing $-\mu\iota$ verbs – the survival guide

The endings of the  $-\mu\iota$  verbs are slightly different from those of  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$ . They are discussed more in the next section. However, they are similar enough to those of  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$  that their person and number are normally recognisable, as is their voice (the context will often supply this as well). Hence the key issue in parsing is identifying tense. Fortunately, once you grasp the pattern that the changing stems form, the tense can easily be deduced without attention to the endings.

Present stem	Present
Present stem + augment	Imperfect
Verbal stem $+ \sigma$ suffix	Future Indicative (or 1 st Aorist other mood)
Verbal stem $+$ augment $+ \sigma$ suffix	1st Aorist Active Indicative
Verbal stem + augment	2 nd Aorist Active Indicative
Verbal stem	2 nd Aorist Active other mood
Verbal stem + $\theta^1$	Aorist Passive
Verbal stem + $\theta\eta\sigma^1$	Future Passive
Reduplicated verbal stem	Perfect

Notes

•  $\delta\iota\delta\omega\mu\iota$  and  $\tau\iota\theta\eta\mu\iota$  both use a 1st Aorist in the Indicative, and a 2nd Aorist in the other moods. Thus, verbal stem plus  $\sigma$  must be the Future Indicative (since there are no 1st Aorist other moods). For  $i\sigma\tau\eta\mu\iota$ , where there is a 1st Aorist in the other moods, the Future Indicative has to be distinguished by its endings, which are always the same as the Future Indicative of  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$ .

&lt;sup>1</sup> The Aorist Passive of τιθημι should be ἐθεθην, the θ for the Aorist Passive added to the verbal stem θε. However, to avoid two θ on the run, this was written as ἐτεθην etc. Similarly the Future Passive is τεθησομαι.

• The reduplication in the Perfect is proper reduplication with an  $\varepsilon$ :  $\delta\varepsilon\delta$ o-,  $\tau\varepsilon\theta\varepsilon$ -,  $\dot{\varepsilon}\sigma\tau\alpha$ -.

Examples

τιθετε	– Present stem	– Present	– you place
ἐθηκεν	– Verbal stem + $\epsilon$	– 2 nd Aorist Indicative	<ul> <li>she placed</li> </ul>
τιθεναι	- Present stem	– Present	– to place (Infinitive) θειναι	– Verbal stem	– 2 nd Aorist other	– to place mood	(Infinitive)
δεδοται	<ul> <li>reduplication</li> </ul>	– Perfect	<ul> <li>it has been given</li> </ul>
ίστας	- Present stem	– Present	<ul> <li>standing</li> </ul> (participle)
στας	– Verbal stem	- 2 nd Aorist other	<ul> <li>having stood</li> </ul> mood	(participle)
δωσετε	– Verbal stem + $\sigma$	- Future Indicative	– you will give ἐστησεν	– Verbal stem +	– 1 st Aorist Indicative	– he stood $\epsilon + \sigma$

PRACTICE 19.1.2

Which tense are the following?

(Have an intelligent guess at the rest of the parsing as well.)

1.	ἐδωκεν	5.	τεθησεται	9.	ίστησιν
2.	έδιδου	6.	διδωσιν	10.	σταθησονται
3.	δεδοται	7.	θωμεν	11.	στησατε
4.	τιθεμεν	8.	δοντας	12.	έστησατε

Examples

John 2.10: και λεγει αὐτῷ· Πας ἀνθρωπος πρωτον τον καλον οἰνον

τιθησιν ...

– And he said to him, 'Every person puts (out) the fine wine first . . .' Matt. 12.18: θησω το πνευμα μου ἐπ' αὐτον. – I will place my spirit on him. John 19.19: ἐγραψεν δε και τιτλον ὁ Πιλατος και ἐθηκεν ἐπι του σταυρου.

– Pilate also wrote a notice and placed (it) on the cross.

2 Tim. 1.11: εἰς ὃ ἐτεθην ἐγω κηρυξ και ἀποστολος και διδασκαλος.

- for which I was appointed a herald, and apostle and teacher.

- Eph. 1.22: και αὐτον ἐδωκεν κεφαλην ὑπερ παντα τῃ ἐκκλησια. and he gave him as head (or 'made him head') over all things for the church.
- Mark 4.11: ἐλεγεν αὐτοις· ἡΥμιν το μυστηριον δεδοται της βασιλειας του θεου. – He said to them, 'The secret of the kingdom of God has been given to you'.
- Matt. 20.18: και ὁ υἱος του ἀνθρωπου παραδοθησεται τοις ἀρχιερευσιν ... – And the son of man will be handed over to the chief priests . . .
- 2 Pet. 3.15: καθως και ὁ ἀγαπητος ἡμων ἀδελφος Παυλος κατα την δοθεισαν αὐτῷ σοφιαν ἐγραψεν ὑμιν. – Just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you according to the wisdom given to him.

19.1.3 The meaning of $i\sigma \tau \eta \mu \iota$

iστημι is basically a transitive verb (i.e. one which can take an object) meaning 'I cause to stand' or 'I stand something up.' However, particular tenses of iστημι are used to convey an intransitive meaning (i.e. one which cannot take an object) – 'I stand (myself) up.' The full pattern is as follows:

If you want			Then use
Transitive:		I cause to stand I will cause to stand	Present Active Future Active	ίστημι στησω †
	Past	I caused to stand	1 st Aorist Active	έστησα †
Intransitive:	Present	I stand	Perfect Active	ἑστηκα †
	Future	I will stand	Future Middle	στησομαι †
	Past	I stood	Either 2 nd Aorist Active	ἐστην or AoristPassive	ἐσταθην †

Notes

- Forms marked  $\dagger$  conjugate identically to the corresponding part of  $\lambda \upsilon \omega$ .
- Since the Perfect Active is used for a Present intransitive meaning, the Pluperfect Active (είστηκειν †) is used for an Imperfect intransitive meaning.
- Since  $i\sigma\tau\eta\mu$  has both a 1st and 2nd Aorist, watch the forms of the participles (and the other moods)  $i\sigma\tau\alpha\varsigma$  (Present participle),  $\sigma\tau\eta\sigma\alpha\varsigma$  ( $\sigma$  suffix 1st Aorist participle transitive),  $\sigma\tau\alpha\varsigma$  (no suffix 2nd Aorist participle intransitive).

Examples

Transitive:

Mark 9.36: και λαβων παιδιον έστησεν αύτο έν μεσφ αύτων.

– And he took a child and stood him in their midst.

Matt. 25.33: και στησει τα μεν προβατα έκ δεξιων αύτου ...

- and he will stand (or 'put') the sheep on his right . . .

Intransitive:

Matt. 20.32: και στας ό Ἰησους ἐφωνησαν αὐτους και εἰπεν ...

And Jesus stood still (lit: 'having stood') and called them and said ...
 2 Cor. 1.24: συνεργοι ἐσμεν της χαρας ὑμων· τη γαρ πιστει ἑστηκατε.

- We are fellow-workers of your joy, because you stand in the faith.

19.1.4 The pattern of endings

It is not necessary to learn all of the endings of the  $-\mu\iota$  verbs. In practice the endings are similar enough to those of  $\lambda\upsilon\omega$  that if you understand the principle of the Present and verbal stems, you should be able to recognise the forms. However, for completeness the Present and Aorist endings are given below (more detail on the  $-\mu\iota$  verbs can be found on pages 265–8).

Note: Basically, the three different -μι verbs have the same endings, but with a different vowel dominating – ε for τιθημι, α for ίστημι and o for διδωμι.

	Present Active
	Indicative			Subjunctive	;
τιθημι τιθης τιθησι(ν) τιθεμεν τιθετε τιθεασι(ν)	ίστημι ίστης ίστησι(ν) ίσταμεν ίστατε ίστασι(ν)	διδωμι διδως διδωσι(ν) διδομεν διδοτε διδοασι(ν)	τιθω τιθης τιθη τιθωμεν τιθητε τιθωσι(ν)	ίστω ίστης ίστη ίστωμεν ίστωτε ίστωσι(ν)	διδω διδφς διδφ διδωμεν διδωτε διδωσι(ν)
	Imperative			Infinitive
τιθει	ίστη	διδου	τιθεναι	ίσταναι Participle	διδοναι
τιθετω τιθετε τιθετωσαν	ίστατω ίστατε ίστατωσαν	διδοτω διδοτε διδοτωσαν	ίστας -ασ	σα- εν, stem α, -αν, stem οσα -ον, stem	η ίσταντ-

Aorist Active

Indicative – 1st Aorists ἐθηκα, ἐστηκα, ἐδωκα (conjugates regularly).
 – ἱστημι also has intransitive 2nd Aorist, ἐστην (endings as ἐλυθην).
 Other moods – As in the Present but using the verbal stem (i.e. missing the initial τι, δι or ἱ), except 2nd sing. Imperative which are θες, στηθι, δος and Infinitives θειναι, στηναι, δουναι.

19.1.5 Other similar verbs

There are a few other verbs which share some of the same characteristics as these three 'proper' - $\mu$ u verbs.

iημι (literally 'send' but only found in compounds such as ἀφιημι – I leave, forgive, dismiss, and συνιημι – I understand). This follows the same pattern as τιθημι with the Present stem iε and verbal stem έ.

Verbs in - υμι (such as δεικνυμι – I show, ἀπολλυμι – I destroy, ῥηγνυμι – I break). These have -μι verb endings in the Present tense (with the υ vowel dominating), but then use an altered stem for the other tenses along with the normal λυω endings (see the principal parts on page 253 for the details).

φημι (I say) This only appears in the following Indicative Active forms: Present: φημι, I say; φησιν, he says; φασιν, they say; Imperfect: ἐφη, he said.

εἰμι (I am) If you look back at the Present of εἰμι (Chapter 5, section 5.3) you will see that it has some similarities with the Present of the -μι verbs.

Examples

Luke 5.21: τίς δυναται ἁμαρτιας ἀφειναι εἰ μη μονος ὁ θεος;

- Who is able to forgive sins except God alone?

Rev. 2.4: àlla écw kata sou úti thu àgaphu sou thu prothu àghkec.

- But I have (this) against you that you abandoned your first love.

Matt. 4.7: έφη αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησους· Παλιν γεγραπται ...

- Jesus said to him, 'Again it is written . . .'

Jas. 2.18: δειξον μοι την πιστιν σου χωρις των ἐργων, κἀγω σοι δειξω ἐκ των ἐργων μου την πιστιν. – Show me your faith without works, and I will show you my faith through my works.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. διδοασιν τον μισθον αύτων τοις στρατιωταις.
- 2. δ Ίησους άνεστησεν τον νεκρον.
- 3. ἐστημεν μετα του κυριου ἐπι τῷ ὀρει.
- 4. ἀφεντες οὐκ ὑπεστρεψαν.
- 5. ἐφη ὑτι ἑστηκεν ἐκει.
- 6. ... έως άν θω τους έχθρους σου ύπο των ποδων σου.
- 7. δος μοι τον άρτον της ζωης.
- 8. στας ὁ ἀποστολος ἐκηρυσσεν τῷ ὀχλῷ.
- 9. They handed over the teaching to the elders.
- 10. He made the sick man stand up in the synagogue.
- 11. After she had dismissed the crowd she began to pray.
- 12. While he was giving them the wine, he taught them.

19.2 αω AND οω VERBS

There are two other groups of contracting verbs similar to the  $-\varepsilon \omega$  group (e.g.  $\varphi i \lambda \varepsilon \omega$ ). These follow the same general pattern as the  $-\varepsilon \omega$  verbs, but the short  $\alpha$  or 0 at the end of their stems undergo slightly different contractions.

KEY GRAMMAR

Present and Imperfect – Contractions take place Other tenses – Short vowel lengthens<sup>2</sup>

	-εω φιλεω – I love	-αω τιμαω – I honour	-οω πληροω – I fulfil
Present and Imperfect	$\begin{aligned} \varepsilon + \varepsilon &\to \varepsilon \iota \\ \varepsilon + \circ &\to \circ \upsilon \\ \varepsilon + \text{diphthong} \\ \text{or long vowel} \\ \text{drops out} \end{aligned}$	$\alpha + \varepsilon \text{ or } \eta \rightarrow \alpha$ $\alpha + \operatorname{any} \circ \rightarrow \omega$ $\alpha + \operatorname{any} \circ \circ \phi$	o + short vowel or $ov \rightarrow ov$ $o + \text{long vowel} \rightarrow \omega$ $o + \text{any } \iota \rightarrow o\iota$
Other tenses	ε becomes η	α becomes η	o becomes ω

 $<sup>^2\,</sup>$  Really, contractions occur when the  $\alpha,\,\epsilon,$  or 0 is followed by a vowel (as in the Present and Imperfect), lengthening when followed by a consonant (as in the other tenses).

Notes

- The Present Infinitives of  $-\alpha\omega$  and  $-\omega\omega$  verbs behave as if the Infinitive ending is  $-\varepsilon\nu$  not  $-\varepsilon\iota\nu$ , hence  $\tau\iota\mu\alpha\nu$  and  $\pi\lambda\eta\rho\upsilon\nu$ .
- In the 3rd Sing. Imperfect Active Indicative of  $-\varepsilon \omega$ ,  $-\alpha \omega$  and  $-\omega \omega$  verbs the 'optional v' was not used. Thus the ending is  $\varepsilon$  giving:  $\dot{\varepsilon} \varphi \iota \lambda \varepsilon \iota$ ,  $\dot{\varepsilon} \tau \iota \mu \alpha$ ,  $\dot{\varepsilon} \pi \lambda \eta \rho \upsilon$ .
- A few  $\epsilon\omega$  verbs keep the  $\epsilon$  in the other tenses e.g.  $\kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon\sigma\omega.$

Examples

- $\dot{\epsilon}\phi\iota\lambda\epsilon\iota$  He was loving
- $\pi\epsilon\phii\lambda\eta\mu\alpha i I$  have been loved
- $\tau \iota \mu \eta \sigma \omega I$  will honour
- $\pi\lambda\eta\rhoo\iota$  It is fulfilling
- $\dot{\epsilon}\tau\iota\mu\alpha$  She was honouring
- τιμας You are honouring
- $\pi\lambda\eta\rho\sigma\sigma\alpha$  It is being fulfilled
- $\pi \epsilon \pi \lambda \eta \rho \omega \tau \alpha \iota$  It has been fulfilled
- 2 Thes. 2.1:  $\underline{\mathring{e}}$ ρωτωμεν δε ύμας, ἀδελφοι, ... We ask you, brothers,
- Eph. 6.2: time ton patera sou kai thn mitera Honour your father and mother.
- Gal. 2:20: ζω δε οὐκετι ἐγω, ζῃ δε ἐν ἐμοι Χριστος. ὃ δε νυν ζω ἐν σαρκι, ἐν πιστει ζω τῃ του υίου του θεου του ἀγαπησαντος με και παραδοντος ἑαυτον ὑπερ ἐμου.

- It is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me. What I now live in flesh I live by faith in the son of God who loved (lit: 'the one having loved') me and handed himself over for me.

Matt. 12.16-17: και  $\underline{\acute{e}\pi\epsilon\tau\iota\mu\eta\sigma\epsilon\nu}$  αύτοις ίνα μη φανερον αύτον ποιησωσιν, ίνα πληρωθη το βηθεν δια Ήσαϊου του προφητου ...

– And he rebuked them so that they would not make him known, in order that what was spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled...

- 1 Tim. 3.16: ός ἐφανερωθη ἐν σαρκι, ἐδικαιωθη ἐν πνευματι ...
  - who was revealed in flesh, justified in spirit . . .

20.1 CONDITIONS

Conditional sentences (those containing an 'if') are basically intuitive – you have been translating senses with  $\varepsilon i$  ('if') in them since Chapter 5. However, it is possible to classify conditional sentences into a number of different groups, each with further sub-groups, with ever tighter definitions of exactly what is conveyed. This can be of some value, although a book on the elements of New Testament Greek is not the place for this level of detail. Furthermore, such analysis can be counter-productive, since sometimes it is rather doubtful whether writers were using conditionals quite so precisely. However, it is worth learning a little more about conditional sentences.

20.1.1 The basic conditional sentence<sup>1</sup>

Any conditional sentence has two parts:

	Protasis – the 'if' clause	Apodosis – the 'then' clause
Gal. 5.18:	εἰ δε πνευματι ἀγεσθε	οὐκ ἐστε ὑπο νομον
	if you are led by the spirit	you are not under law

The logic of any conditional sentence is:

If the Protasis is true, then the Apodosis is true.<sup>2</sup>

• E.g. 'If you like Greek (then) you are wise.'

When your teacher says this sentence, it conveys nothing about whether you do or don't like Greek. What it conveys is that (in the teacher's opinion) IF it is true that you like Greek THEN it is automatically true that you are wise.

 $<sup>^2\,</sup>$  Strictly speaking we should say 'then the apodosis follows', since the apodosis is not always a statement that can be true or not. For example, it could be a command: 'If you like Greek, buy this book' means if the protasis is true ('you like Greek'), then the apodosis follows ('you should buy this book').

These conditional sentences are expressed in Greek simply by the use of the word ɛi corresponding to the English 'if', as you have been doing since Chapter 5.

20.1.2 Two variations on the basic conditional

There are two ways in which Greek alters the basic conditional sentence to give a different flavour.

(a) Indefinite conditions ( $\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\nu$ + Subjunctive)

Sometimes Greek will use  $\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\nu$  + Subjunctive rather than  $\epsilon\dot{\iota}$  + Indicative in the protasis. In such a condition, it is still the case that IF the protasis is true THEN the apodosis follows. However, the Subjunctive conveys the sense that there is something 'indefinite', not completely defined, about the protasis.<sup>3</sup>

Often this indefiniteness is merely because the condition speaks about the future, which is by definition somewhat undefined, and thus this whole group of conditions are often called 'future conditions'.

• E.g. 'If you like Greek, you will learn it.'

However, sometimes,  $\dot{e}\alpha v$  + Subjunctive is used to highlight the fact that the protasis is indefinite because it addresses a generic situation, without a particular occasion being in mind.

• E.g. 'If someone enjoys rules and patterns, they like Greek.'

(The speaker does not have a particular person or occasion in mind – it is a generalised statement.)

(b) 'Contrary to fact' conditions ( $\dot{\alpha}v$ in apodosis)

Sometimes Greek will put the word  $\dot{\alpha}v$  in the apodosis. In such a condition, it is still the case that IF the protasis is true THEN the apodosis follows. However, the writer is deliberately expressing that they believe that the protasis is not true. These conditions are sometimes called 'unfulfilled conditions'.

• E.g. 'If you had liked Greek, you would have learnt it.'

&lt;sup>3</sup> Useful parallels can be drawn between these indefinite conditions and indefinite clauses (Chapter 17, section 17.3.1). Indefinite clauses can be seen as normal (definite) clauses to which  $\dot{\alpha}v +$  Subjunctive are added to express the indefiniteness.

Definite: ὑτε ἐσθιεις – when you eat – ὑτε (when) + Indicative.

Indefinite: ὑταν ἐσθιης – whenever you eat – ὑταν (=ὀτε + ἀν) + Subjunctive – suggesting a level of indefiniteness; a generic situation, not a particular occasion.

Similarly with conditions the basic form is (a)  $\epsilon i$  + Indicative, but one can use (b)  $\dot{\epsilon} \alpha v$  (= $\epsilon i$  +  $\dot{\alpha}v$ ) + Subjunctive to suggest a level of indefiniteness.

Here the speaker is saying two things: (1) that if you like Greek you will learn it (a basic condition) and (2) that you didn't like Greek (the force of the  $\dot{\alpha}\nu$ ).<sup>4</sup>

Hint

In English, contrary to fact conditions have the word 'would' in the apodosis.

20.1.3 The form of conditionals in Greek

	Protasis	Apodosis
Basic conditions	ει + Indicative	Any mood or tense
Indefinite conditions	$\dot{\epsilon}\alpha\nu$ + Subjunctive	Any mood or tense
'Contrary to fact' conditions	εἰ + Indicative <sup>5</sup>	$\dot{\alpha}\nu$ + Indicative <sup>5</sup>

The key principles of conditional sentences can be summarised thus:

	KEY GRAMMAR
Protasis:	$\epsilon i + \text{Indicative} = \text{If}$ $\epsilon \alpha v + \text{Subjunctive} = \text{If} (future/generalised/hypothetical})$
Apodosis:	$\dot{\alpha}\nu$ = Would (protasis seen as untrue)

Examples

Basic conditions (fulfilled)

- Gal. 3.29:  $\underline{\mathfrak{el}}$  de úmeis Cristou, àra tou 'Abraam sperma éste.
  - If you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring.
- 1 Cor. 8.3:  $\underline{\epsilon i}$  de tic àgama tou  $\theta \epsilon ou$ , oùtoc èguwstai úm' aùtou.
  - If someone loves God, he is known by him.
- Luke 23.37:  $\underline{\epsilon \dot{l}}$  su eî  $\dot{\mathrm{d}}$  basileuc twu 'Ioudaiwu, swsou seautou.

- If you are the king of Israel, save yourself!

Luke 11.19: ei de éyo év Beelleboul ékballo ta daimonia, oi vioi úmon én tíni ékballou $\sigma_{in}$ ; – If I cast out demons by Beelzeboul, by whom do your sons cast them out?

&lt;sup>4</sup> Being precise, the 'contrary to fact' condition does not convey that the protasis is false, but only that the speaker thinks that it is false. E.g. Luke 7.39: ούτος εἰ ἠν προφητης, ἐγινωσκεν ἀν ... 'If this man were a prophet he would know. . .' The speaker thinks that Jesus is not a prophet, but the author of the gospel may well think that he is.

 $<sup>^5</sup>$  In both the protasis and apodosis the Imperfect is used for references to present time, and the Aorist for references to past time. Note also that if the protasis of an 'contrary to fact' condition is negative  $\mu\eta$  is used (strangely, given the verb is in the Indicative).

Indefinite conditions

- Matt. 9.21:  $\underline{\acute{e}\alpha\nu}$  μονον  $\underline{\acute{\alpha}\psi\omega\mu\alpha\iota}$  του  $\dot{\iota}\mu\alpha\tau$ ιου αύτου, σωθησομαι.
  - If only I touch his cloak, I will be saved.
- John 14.14: έαν τι αἰτησητε με ἐν τῷ ονοματι μου, ἐγω ποιησω.
  - If you ask me for anything in my name, I will do it.
- 1 Cor. 14.14:  $\underline{\acute{e}\alpha\nu}$  γαρ προσευχωμαι γλωσση, το πνευμα μου προσευχεται. – because if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays.
- John 2.15: ἐαν τις ἀγαπα τον κοσμον, οὐκ ἐστιν ἡ ἀγαπη του πατρος ἐν αὐτφ. – If someone loves the world, the love of the father is not in him.

Unfulfilled conditions

John 5.46: εἰ γαρ ἐπιστευετε Μωϋσει, ἐπιστευετε ἀν ἐμοι.

- For if you believed Moses, you would believe me.
- 1 Cor. 2.8:  $\underline{\mathbf{el}}$  gar égywsan, oùk  $\underline{\mathbf{an}}$  ton kurion the dokie éstaurwsan
- For if they had known, they would not have crucified the lord of glory.
   Heb. 8.4: εἰ μεν oủν ἠν ἐπι γης, oủδ' ἀν ἠν ἱερευς.
  - Therefore if he were on earth, he would not even be a priest.

20.2 THE GENITIVE ABSOLUTE

Mark 14.17: και ἀψιας γενομενης ἐρχεται μετα των δωδεκα. – When it was evening, he comes (came) with the twelve. (lit: 'evening having happened')

Here the word evening  $\dot{\phi}\psi\alpha$  is in the genitive, and  $\gamma\epsilon\nu\phi\mu\epsilon\nu\eta\varsigma$  (Aorist participle of  $\gamma\iota\nu\phi\mu\alpha\iota$  – 'having happened') is gen. fem. sing. to agree with it. But why is  $\dot{\phi}\psi\alpha$  in the genitive? It is not a possessor, nor is it governed by a preposition. What place does it have in the sentence? It is not subject or object. This is an example of a particular construction using participles called the genitive absolute.

The genitive absolute is a noun with a participle agreeing with it which is 'separated off' from the rest of the sentence (this is what 'absolute' means, from the Latin ab-solutus – 'separated off' – it has nothing to do with 'absolutely'). This separation is in meaning – the noun does not have a place in the main sentence – which is then expressed by the noun and participle occurring in the genitive (which makes sure you can't confuse them with the subject or object of the main sentence).

Up to now, you have been able to represent every sentence, however complex, by a map of interconnected units, based round a skeleton of subject, verb and (normally) object. For example, the sentence 'While he was passing along the sea, he saw Simon and Andrew casting (nets) in the sea' (Mark 1.28) could be represented in the diagram on this page.

Here the main sentence is shaded grey, and all the rest of the sentence connects to it, and hence the case of the other pieces of the sentence can be determined:

'passing' agrees with 'he', the subject of the sentence, and so is nominative; 'casting' agrees with 'Simon and Andrew', the object of the sentence, and so is accusative.

However, if we take our example from Mark 14.17: 'Evening having happened, he comes with the twelve', the diagram would look rather different, for there is no connection between 'evening having happened' and 'he comes with the twelve'. Thus, 'evening having happened' is a 'separated-off' clause, does which not connect to the main sentence.

Therefore in Greek it will be a genitive absolute, and thus 'evening' and 'having happened' will be in the genitive.<sup>6</sup>

Hint

- Genitive absolutes normally occur at the beginning of sentences so if the first word in a sentence is in the genitive, 'think genitive absolute'.
- Very often genitive absolutes give some 'background information', such as the time or circumstances at which something happened.

Examples

Mark 14.66: και όντος του Πετρου κατω ἐν τῃ αὐλῃ ἐρχεται μια των παιδισκων.

- While Peter was below in the Hall, one of the servant-girls came.

Matt. 26.21: και έσθιοντων αύτων είπεν 'Αμην λεγω ύμιν ...

- While they were eating, Jesus said, 'Amen I say to you. . .'
- Rom. 5.13: ἁμαρτια δε οὐκ ἐλλογειται μη ὀντος νομου.
  - Sin is not counted when there is no law.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

- 1. έλθοντος δε Ίησου οἱ διδασκαλοι ἐθαυμαζον.
- 2. εἰ γαρ ἐβλεπον ἐπιστευον ἀν.
- 3. του δε βασιλεως άποθανοντος ήλθον εἰς την Γαλιλαιαν.

- 6. του γαρ λογου κηρυσσομενου οἱ ἀκουοντες ἐπιστευσαν.
- 7. αὐτου δε ὀντος ἁγιου παντες ἐφοβουντο.
- 8. εί ὁ νομος οὐκ ἐδωθη, οὐκ ἀν ἐγνωσαν την ἑμαρτιαν.
- 9. As she came in the angel said to her, '...
- 10. If he is holy he will worship God.
- 11. If it were day we would not be afraid.
- 12. When he had been raised everyone was amazed.

&lt;sup>6</sup> In the Greek of the time this rule was breaking down, and we will often find a genitive absolute used when the noun involved does in fact turn up elsewhere in the sentence, but the use of a genitive absolute avoids creating a rather complex sentence. E.g. Mark 9.28: και εἰσελθοντος αὐτου εἰς οἰκον οἱ μαθηται αὐτου κατ' ἰδιαν ἐπηρωτων αὐτου...-'And as he was going into a house his disciples asked him privately...' Here εἰσελθοντος could have been made to agree with the αὐτον but the use of the genitive absolute breaks the sentence into smaller blocks, making it easier to understand.

20.3 PERIPHRASTICS

As we already know, Greek forms tenses by adding suffixes and prefixes to the verb, while English forms them by adding auxiliary words (e.g. I was going –  $\dot{\eta}\gamma o\nu$ ). However, Greek does upon occasion use a construction similar to English using an auxiliary word plus a participle. This is called a periphrastic construction.<sup>7</sup>

Tense	Periphrastic Construction
Present	Present of εἰμι + Present participle
Imperfect	Imperfect of $\varepsilon i \mu \iota$ + Present participle
Future	Future of εἰμι + Present participle
Perfect	Present of εἰμι + Perfect participle
Pluperfect <sup>8</sup>	Imperfect of εἰμι + Perfect participle
Future Perfect <sup>8</sup>	Future of ɛiµı + Perfect participle

In Classical Greek the periphrastic constructions emphasised the continuous force of the participle (either continuous occurrence – Present participle, or the continuation of the completed state – Perfect participle). This is why the Aorist participle is never used in periphrastic constructions. However, it is doubtful that any such emphasis is present in the periphrastic constructions in the New Testament, and for two reasons. First, as Greek developed from the Classical period to the New Testament period, this emphasis seems to have waned. Second, in Aramaic, Imperfects are always expressed using a periphrastic construction, and this idiom may have influenced the occurrences in the New Testament writings.

Examples

Mark 2.18: ήσαν οί μαθηται Ίωαννου και οί Φαρισαιοι νηστευοντες.

- The disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting.

Eph. 2.5: χαριτι έστε σεσφσμενοι – By grace you have been saved. 2 John 12: ... ίνα ή χαρα ήμων πεπληρωμενη ή.

- . . . in order that our joy might be complete.

(Note: here the periphrastic uses the Present Subjunctive of  $\epsilon \dot{\iota} \mu \iota$  after  $\dot{\iota} \nu \alpha.)$

 $<sup>^7</sup>$  The name derives from  $\pi\epsilon\rho\iota$  (around, about) and  $\phi\rho\alpha\zeta\omega$  (I explain), since they explain their meaning in a round-about fashion.

20.4 COMPARISON AND FORMATION OF ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

From any adjective you can form a corresponding adverb, and from an adjective or adverb, you can form two variants – the comparative and the superlative.

As in English, there is a pattern by which these are normally formed, but some of the more common adjectives and adverbs have irregular forms. There is a further slight variation – if the last letter of the adjective or adverb's stem is short,  $\omega$  is used as the joining vowel in the comparative and superlative, while if it is long or a diphthong, o is used.

For example: σοφος has a short vowel at the end of the stem: σoφδικαιος has a diphthong at the end of the stem: δικαι-

		Exa	mple
		Short Vowel	Long
			Vowel or Diphthong
Adjective	wise	σοφος	δικαιος
Comparative adjective	wiser, more wise	σοφ ω τερος	δικαι ο τερος
Superlative adjective	wisest, most/very wise	σοφ ω τατος	δικαι ο τατος
Adverb	wisely	σοφως	δικαιως
Comparative adverb	more wisely	σοφ ω τερον	δικαι ο τερον
Superlative adverb	most/very wisely	σοφ ω τατα	δικαι ο τατα

Unused roo	ot	$\rightarrow$	μαλλον	more	$\rightarrow$	μαλιστα	most πολυς	much	$\rightarrow$	πολλα	greatly

Notes

- We learnt in Chapter 12, section 12.4 that comparison is expressed in Greek either by a genitive or by the use of the word  $\eta$  with the second noun in the same case as the first.
- $\mu\alpha\lambda\lambda$ ov is the adverb 'more' (qualifying a verb), while  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\omega\nu$  is the adjective 'more' (qualifying a noun).
- The superlative was gradually falling out of use, and often the comparative was used in its place.

Hint.

It is helpful to remember that words ending in  $-\omega_{\zeta}$  are adverbs. You should now understand how the forms  $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omega_{\zeta}$ ,  $\dot{\omega}\mu\omega_{\zeta}$  and  $\dot{\omega}\tau\omega_{\zeta}$ , which you learnt earlier, have been formed from  $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omega_{\zeta}$ ,  $\dot{\omega}\mu\omega\omega_{\zeta}$  and  $\dot{\omega}\tau\omega_{\zeta}$ .

Examples

- $\dot{\alpha}\xi\iota\omega\varsigma$  in a worthy manner
- $\pi\alpha\nu\tau\omega\varsigma$  by all means
- $dvt\omega\varsigma$  really
- $\pi\rho\omega\tau\omega\varsigma$  for the first time

Mark 1.32: ἐφερον προς αὐτον παντας τους κακως ἐχοντας.

- They were bringing to him all those who were sick
  - (lit: the ones 'having badly').

Mark 5.23: legwn óti To quyatrion mou  $\underline{i\sigma}\chi\alpha\tau\omega\varsigma$  ècei.

- saying, 'My daughter is dying' (lit: has finally).

- 1 Cor. 7.40: μακαριωτερα δε έστιν έαν ούτως μεινη.
  - She is more blessed if she remains as she is (lit: thus).

20.5 THE OPTATIVE

In Classical Greek there was a sixth mood, called the optative, which is best thought of as an even less certain form of the subjunctive. However, by the New Testament period its use was rare, except among those writers trying to imitate the style of writing of the past (cf. non-deponent use of the Middle – Chapter 15, section 15.6.1). It does occur, though, in a famous phrase of Paul –  $\mu\eta\gamma\epsilon\nuo\iota\tau$ o – 'may it not be!'

The optative was used:

- 1. For wishes
- 2. For indirect questions (i.e. questions within reported speech).

The optatives were formed in a similar way to subjunctives, but rather than being marked out be a long  $\eta$  or  $\omega$ , they have the diphthongs ot or  $\alpha$ i.

Examples

Rom. 6.1-2: ἐπιμενωμεν τῃ ἁμαρτια, ἱνα ἡ χαρις πλεονασῃ; μη γενοιτο.

– Should we remain in sin in order that grace abounds? By no means!
 Luke 1.38: γενοιτο μοι κατα το ἡημα σου.

- May it be to me according to your word.

Going further

The aim of this book was: 'To help you learn enough Greek to read the New Testament.' If you have completed the twenty chapters, have a reasonable (not perfect) grasp of their main points, and have practised with the sentences and passages along the way, then you have reached this goal. All you now need is more practice. To begin with you will find reading the New Testament quite slow, but soon your reading will become faster and more fluent, and far more enjoyable.

There are a wide variety of tools designed to help you become more fluent and reference works that provide more depth than has been possible in this book. I list some of these below grouped into various categories. Remember, though, your goal was not to be able to progress to more complicated Greek books, but to read the New Testament. So do that – make a start today! And if at all possible, don't read alone – find a couple of others who will join you. That way you can encourage each other, and what you have forgotten someone else will probably have remembered, so you will go much faster. Quite quickly you will find the commonly occurring vocabulary and grammar becomes very familiar, allowing you to focus your energies on the more unusual or complicated words and phrases. Enjoy it!

The basics

A Copy of the Greek New Testament – You will need one of these. Older copies may have a slightly different text owing to developments in textual criticism. The best option is probably the United Bible Society's (4th edn) The Greek New Testament (Stuttgart: Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft, 2001). The other possibility is the Novum Testamentum Graece (27th edn, 2001) also from the Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft (known as Nestle-Aland after the names of its editors). These two give the same text, but differ in the 'apparatus' (notes) they give for textual criticism.

A Dictionary – The dictionary at the back of this book lists only the most common words in the New Testament. As you start to read, you will encounter others, so you will need a dictionary (or 'lexicon'). There are various available, but for a relatively cheap, easy-to-use dictionary try W.C. Trenchard's A Concise Dictionary of the New Testament (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2003). The standard dictionary for scholarly work (far more detailed but also more expensive, and more bulky) is A Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature edited by F.W. Danker (and others)(Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 3rd edn, 2000). Some editions of the United Bible Society's Greek text come with a dictionary in the back, which can also be very useful.

Helps

There are all sorts of books produced to help you read the Greek New Testament.

Verse-by-verse helps – These comment on each verse in order for you not to need to keep searching though reference works, which makes them ideal companions when reading. S. Kubo's A Reader's Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 1975) focuses on vocabulary, while M. Zerwick and M. Grosvenor's A Grammatical Analysis New Testament (Rome: Editrice Pontificio Istituto Biblico, 5th edn, 1996) also parses unusual grammatical forms. Into this category also come interlinears, where the Greek text is given on one line, and an English translation below. These can be useful, but do little to help you understand the Greek.

Vocab-builders – These categorise Greek words in various ways to help you expand your working vocabulary as easily and as memorably as possible. Current options include B.M. Metzger's Lexical Aids for Students of New Testament Greek (Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Books, 3rd edn, 1993) and W.C. Trenchard's The Student's Complete Vocabulary Guide to the Greek New Testament (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 1997).

Analytical dictionaries – These list every form that occurs in the New Testament, and tells you what basic word it has come from (e.g. it would list  $\epsilon\lambda\nu\sigma\alpha\nu$  and not just  $\lambda\nu\omega$ ). Current options include those by B. and T. Friberg, W.D. Mounce and W.J. Pershbacher.

Further reference tools

You may want to look at a more detailed analysis of Greek grammar. For this D.B. Wallace's Greek Grammar Beyond the Basics (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 2000) is good but daunting (he has produced a shorter version called The Basics of New Testament Syntax [Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 2000]). An older standard is A Greek Grammar of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature edited by F. Blass and A. Debrunner (translated by R. Funk) (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1961).

A Greek concordance can be useful – some quote the word's usage in English (such as the one by J.R. Kohlenberger III), others quote it in Greek (such as the one by W.F. Moulton, A.S. Geden, H.K. Moulton, and I.H. Marshall).

New skills

You may want learn about textual criticism – the process by which our printed modern texts of the Greek New Testament are produced from the many ancient copies we have. On this see The Text of the New Testament either by K. and B. Aland (Grand Rapids, MI: Eerdmans, 2nd edn, 1996) or by B.M. Metzger (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 3rd edn, 1992) (whose A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament [Stuttgart: Deutsche Bibelgesellschapt, 2nd edn, 1995] is also very useful, commenting on all the most important passages).

If you are going on in academic work, you may need to learn to use Greek accents. For this see D.A. Carson's Greek Accents: A Student's Manual (Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Books, 1985).

Computers

There are a growing number of useful computer tools for Greek, in particular Bibleworks and Gramcord, both of which allow you to conduct extensive investigations and searches for grammatical constructions or occurrences of particular words. The Internet contains a constantly expanding range of information and resources – links can be found on this book's website: www.nt-greek.net.

Comparative English grammar

Why a section on English grammar?

The aim of this textbook is to help you learn Greek, not English. You already know English perfectly well and are already using English grammar all the time. However, many readers will be using English grammar implicitly, without realising it, because many people today learn English without any focus on formal grammar. Whether this matters or not is a moot point and not an argument to be gone into here. However, it can be unfortunate when you start to learn a foreign language, particularly a language like Greek whose structure and grammar are actually very similar to English. Often Greek grammar is best explained by reference to English. For example, Greek sentences have subjects and objects just as English does. If you already understand what a subject and an object is (from English), then all you need to learn about Greek is that the subject is put in the nominative case and the object in the accusative case. This explanation does not work, though, if you have never met the terms 'subject' and 'object' before. In these situations it can be helpful first to understand what 'subject' and 'object' are in English, and then to learn how they are pressed in Greek. This is why there is a section on English grammar in a Greek textbook.

How to use this guide

This guide does not intend to give an overview of English grammar. Rather, it contains explanations of English grammar that may help with your learning of the Greek covered in this book. You may wish to read through the whole of this guide, to familiarise yourself with the grammatical terminology used, and the aspects of English grammar that are highlighted. However, the guide is intended to be a reference tool – at various points within Chapters 1–20 you will be referred to the appropriate part of this guide. For example, when in Chapter 2 you meet the idea of subjects and objects in Greek, you are referred to section 3 of this guide, which explains subjects and objects in English. In a similar way, when grammatical terms occur in the index, they refer both to where they are taught in Greek and to where the English parallel is given in this guide.

1. The parts of speech

An obvious first question to ask of any word is 'What type of word is it?' For example, 'put' is a different sort of word from 'coat', and 'on' is very different again. They are called different parts of speech. There are eight different parts of speech: that is, eight different types of word. Many of the chapters of this book are focused on explaining how Greek handles a particular part of speech, e.g. Chapter 5 looks at adjectives, while Chapter 2 introduces basic verbs and nouns. Being clear as to what the different parts of speech are in English is vital if you are to grasp how they are formed and used in Greek.

1.1 Noun

A noun is the name of any person or thing. For example, 'coat', 'Jim', 'peace'.

Most nouns are in fact the name given to the common link between a number of things or people. 'Cup' is the name given to all cups, which expresses the fact that although I have one cup that is large and another that is old, they are both part of the same group of things – they are both cups. Therefore formally many nouns are called common nouns.<sup>1</sup>

&lt;sup>1</sup> The more you think about this, the more complicated it becomes. It was the Greek philosopher Plato (c. 427–347 BC) who was first recorded as debating what it is about a cup that makes it a cup, when they can come in many different types and sizes.

Another type of noun is a proper noun. This is the name given to a particular person, place or thing. For example – Jeremy, Oxford, Wycliffe Hall. In English and in Greek we mark out proper nouns by giving them capital letters.

A third type of noun is an abstract noun. This is the name of a quality, state or action rather than a person or thing. For example – love, peace, destruction.

1.2 Verb

A verb is a word describing an action. For example – sing, learn, eat.

Sometimes 'action' needs to be interpreted loosely. In the sentence 'he is hot', or 'it exists in my dreams', 'is' and 'exists' are verbs, although you might not think of them as actions. Nevertheless you could say that 'being hot' is what 'he' is doing, or 'existing' is what 'it' is doing.

1.3 Pronoun

A pronoun is a word used to replace a noun. For example – she, this, who.

Whenever a pronoun is used, you should be able to identify what noun it is replacing. This noun is called the antecedent, and it affects the choice of pronoun. Consider the two sentences: 'Mary eats the cake. Mary likes the cake.' In English this sounds strange. You would normally replace the second occurrence of the word Mary with a pronoun. Because the antecedent of the pronoun is Mary, you would use the pronoun 'she' (if the antecedent were John you would use 'he' or if it were 'the children' you would say 'they'). Similarly you would replace the second occurrence of 'cake' with 'it'. Thus you would actually say 'Mary eats the cake. She likes it.' The sentence 'she likes it,' contains two pronouns, 'she' and 'it', each of which is replacing a particular noun.

There are many subdivisions of pronouns, but they all share the same function of replacing a noun. For example, 'who' is a 'relative pronoun' because it relates together what could be two independent sentences. Rather than writing 'John envies Mary. Mary ate the cake', you write 'John envies Mary who ate the cake' ('Mary' is the antecedent of 'who').

1.4 Adjective

An adjective is a word that is joined to a noun to qualify its meaning (that is, to add something to it). For example – new, my, three.

Most adjectives answer the questions 'What kind of?' or 'How many?' (adjectives of quality or quantity). However, there are some other types of adjective that are slightly different. Demonstrative adjectives such as 'this' or 'those' answer the question 'Which?'; possessive adjectives such as 'my' or 'our' answer the question 'Whose?'; interrogative adjectives ask questions, such as 'Which?' Nevertheless, all adjectives are joined to a noun. In the sentences 'This cake is good', 'My cake has gone' 'Which cake was eaten?' 'this', 'my' and 'which' all qualify 'cake' and so are adjectives.

The word 'the' is a special type of adjective. It is called the 'definite article' and is sometimes considered a separate part of speech (alongside its partner the 'indefinite article' – 'a'). However, it is joined to a noun to qualify its meaning, so it can be seen as an adjective. For example, consider the sentences – 'Mary likes cake' and 'Mary likes the cake.' The word 'the' in the second sentence qualifies 'cake' and tells us that it is a particular cake that is being referred to, not cake in general.

1.5 Prepositions

A preposition is a word (or phrase) joined to a noun (or pronoun) that indicates the relationship between the noun / pronoun and another part of the sentence: for example – into, with, on behalf of.

In English as in Greek, the noun (pronoun) that a preposition is joined to normally comes immediately after it. In the sentence 'He went into the house', 'into' is a preposition joined to 'house' (or governing 'house'), indicating the relationship between 'the house' and 'he went'. The relationship would be different if the preposition 'out of' had been used, or 'on to'. Similarly 'he went with them' or 'Christ died on behalf of sin'.

1.6 Adverb

An adverb is a word joined to a verb to qualify its meaning. For example – slowly, carefully, not. Adverbs can also be used to qualify an adjective or another adverb (e.g. 'extremely' is an adverb that can be used to qualify an adverb – he worked extremely carefully – or an adjective – the drink was extremely hot).

Adverbs and adjectives are closely related to each other. Adjectives qualify nouns, while adverbs qualify verbs (or adjectives or adverbs). In English you can often form an adverb by adding –ly to the end of the adjective word: for example 'slow' and 'slowly'.

1.7 Conjunction

A conjunction is a word that joins together two sentences, clauses or words: for example – and, but, because.

1.8 Interjection

An interjection is a word that stands complete on its own, expressing a feeling directly: for example – alas, thanks, hello.

1.9 Words that can be more than one part of speech

In English the same word can be more than one part of speech, depending on how it is used in a sentence. For example, 'talk' can be both a verb ('At lunch we talk about the class') and a noun ('I enjoyed listening to the talk'); and 'free' can be an adjective ('He had a free ticket') or a verb ('They free the slave'). This almost never happens in Greek.<sup>2</sup> Therefore when, for example, you want to translate the word 'talk' you need to be sure whether it is a noun (Greek  $\lambda o \gamma o \varsigma$ ) or a verb (Greek  $\lambda \epsilon \gamma \omega$ ).

1.10 Example

Then Peter quickly opened the large window next to the door and said, 'Hello!'

Then	Connects this sentence to the previous one	Conjunction
Peter	The name of a particular thing/person	(Proper) Noun quickly	Qualifies (further describes) 'opened'	Adverb opened	An action	Verb
the	Qualifies (further describes) 'window'	Adjective (article)
large	Qualifies (further describes) 'window'	Adjective window	The name of something	Noun
next to	Indicates how 'door' relates to 'window'	Preposition
the	Qualifies (further describes) 'door'	Adjective (article) door	The name of something	Noun and	Connects the two clauses together	Conjunction said	An action	Verb
Hello	Expresses a complete idea or feeling	Interjection

2. Sentences, clauses and phrases

A sentence is a group of words that make complete sense on their own. Grammatically they do not need to be part of a larger whole. In English, a sentence is marked out by beginning with a capital letter and finishing with a full stop (or period). This paragraph contains four sentences, each of which makes complete sense on its own.

A clause or phrase is a group of words that makes sense but is not complete. Technically a clause is a group of words that contains a finite verb (that is, a verb in the indicative, imperative or subjunctive mood – see section 9 below), otherwise it is a phrase. For example, 'They ate the cake which they liked in the house' is a sentence. Within this, 'which they liked' is a clause (it is not complete on its own so it is not a sentence, but it does have a finite verb, so it is a clause). 'In the house' is a phrase.

3. Subject and object

The subject is the noun (or pronoun) that is uppermost in mind when the sentence is formed and is the focus of attention. In English it is normally the first noun (or pronoun) in the sentence. For example, the boy arrived, she is singing, the cake was eaten, later they went away. In most sentences (active sentences – see section 8 below) the subject does the action expressed by the verb.

Some verbs refer to actions that do not directly affect something else – they do not have objects. These are called intransitive verbs: for example – I remain, I die, I sleep.

Most verbs, however, naturally have an object as well as a subject. These are called transitive verbs. The object specifies who or what is directly affected by the verb. For example, in the sentence 'I love him' – 'love' is a transitive verb and 'him' is the object; in 'she eats the cake' – 'the cake' is the object.

An important distinction is made between objects that are directly affected by the action of the verb and those that are indirectly affected, or secondarily affected. Such objects are called indirect objects (as opposed to direct objects) and are normally shown in English by the use of a preposition. For example, 'I gave the cake to her' – 'the cake' is the direct object, and 'her' is an indirect object (notice the 'to').

Note that some verbs can be used intransitively or transitively. For example, 'I sang' is complete in itself – 'sang' can be used intransitively – but it can also be used transitively – 'I sang the national anthem'.

4. Complements

The previous section has highlighted a distinction between transitive verbs, which have an object, and intransitive verbs, which do not.

However, some intransitive verbs are not complete in themselves. For example, 'He becomes' is not complete. You need to specify what he becomes (e.g. 'He becomes angry'). Most intransitive verbs can be used on their own but are more often completed by another word. For example, 'She appears' is complete when it means 'She was not there before but then she appears', but needs completing when used in the sense 'She appears happy'. Similarly the verb 'to be' can be used on its own to mean 'exists' (e.g. 'Are you there?', 'I am') but normally needs completing ('I am sad').

The word that 'completes' such a sentence is called a complement. It can be a noun, adjective or a pronoun – 'He is a shepherd', 'He is good', 'He is mine.' When learning Greek it is important to understand that a complement is not an object. An object is a separate person or thing from the subject that receives the action of the verb. A complement is a further description of the subject.

5. Person

Person indicates the relationship between the one who is speaking<sup>3</sup> the sentence, and the one who is doing the action in the sentence.

When the person speaking is the same as the one doing the action, it is 'first person' – in the sentence 'I hit the dog', 'I' is a first-person pronoun, and 'hit' is a verb in the first person.

When the person spoken to is the one doing the action, it is 'second person' – in the sentence 'You like the dog', 'you' is a second-person pronoun, and 'like' is a verb in the second person.

When the person spoken about is the one doing the action, it is 'third person' – in the sentence 'She carries the dog', 'she' is a third-person pronoun, and 'carries' is a verb in the third person.

For example – 'The waiter brought your meal to me' – 'brought' is a verb in the third person ('he brought'); 'your' is an adjective in the second person and 'me' is a pronoun in the first person.

6. Inflection

Inflection is when the form of a word is altered to express more precisely the meaning of the word or its function in the sentence, or in order to match with other words in the sentence. The part of the word that remains unchanged is called the stem.

In Greek inflection is very common – almost every word you ever meet is inflected. However, in English inflection occurs only to a limited extent.

Nouns are inflected in English to show number – that is whether they are singular (one) or plural (more than one). For example, one house, two houses; one child, five children; one box, two boxes. They are also inflected to show possession – Peter, Peter's. Certain nouns that express 'occupations' can be inflected to show gender – that is whether the noun refers to a male or female person. For example, prince and princess, actor and actress.

Verbs are inflected in English to show tense, voice and mood (sections 7, 8 and 9 below). For example, love, loved, loving. Verbs are also inflected in the third person singular in the Present tense – I talk, he talks; you see, she sees; they go, it goes.<sup>4</sup>

Pronouns are the most inflected part of English. For example, 'he' or 'him' depending on the function of the pronoun in the sentence (subject or object – he saw Mary; Mary saw him); or depending on gender (who is first; what is first).

Inflections appear to be gradually falling out of use in English. Several centuries ago the second person singular of verbs was also inflected – I talk, thou (you) talkest, he talks – and verbs such as 'shall' had a 't' in the third person singular – I shall, he shalt. In modern English it is still generally considered correct to inflect 'who' to 'whom' when it is not the subject (e.g. Who hit me? Whom did you hit?), although the distinction is frequently ignored (e.g. personally I would normally say 'who did you hit' rather than 'whom did you hit').

7. Tense

The tense of a verb indicates the time at which the verb takes place and the aspect or nature of the action.

English has an elaborate structure of tenses constructed by the use of auxiliary verbs (parts of 'to be' and 'to have'). Greek has fewer different tenses and distinguishes between them by inflection.<sup>5</sup>

		Past	Time Present	Future
	Continuous	Imperfect I was loving	Present Continuous I am loving	Future Continuous I will be loving
Aspect	Simple	Simple Past I loved	Simple Present I love	Simple Future I will love
	Complete	Pluperfect I had loved	Perfect I have loved	Future Perfect I will have loved

8. Voice

There are two Voices in English – Active and Passive. These indicate whether the subject is carrying out the action of the verb, or whether the action of the verb is being done to the subject. For example, 'She broke the jar' is an active sentence: the subject 'she' is carrying out the action 'break'. However, 'The jar is broken' is a passive sentence: the action 'break' is being done to the jar.

 $<sup>^5\,</sup>$  The verb 'to be' is used in Greek as an auxiliary in the periphrastic forms, but these are rare (Chapter 20, Section 20.3).

Voice is closely related to the categories of subject and object (section 3 above).

Intransitive verbs –	Active only: Subject does the action. No object.
Transitive verbs –	Active: Subject does the action to the object.
	Passive: Subject has the action done to it.

It is best to think of Active sentences as the basic type of sentence, and indeed they are far more common than Passive sentences. A Passive sentence is a special type of sentence in which (compared with an Active sentence) the object has become the subject. The reason for using a Passive sentence is that (a) the person or thing doing the action does not need to be specified, and (b) the stress or focus is directed on the person or thing to which the action is done.

For example, 'The woman ate the cake' is an Active sentence. 'Woman' is the subject. 'Cake' is the object. However, the sentence can be changed into a Passive sentence – 'the cake is eaten', in which 'cake' is the subject. This changes the focus onto the cake, not the woman, and indeed the woman is no longer mentioned.

9. Mood

The mood of a verb indicates the manner in which the action of the verb is to be regarded. These can be classified into two groups: the moods of finite verbs, and those of infinite verbs. The difference between these is that a finite verb refers to a particular action, and so can make a sentence complete (see section 3 above). An infinite verb expresses the idea of the verb more generally and hence is not complete in itself but needs to be part of a larger sentence.

Moods of finite verbs

Indicative – A verb in the Indicative mood makes a statement or asks a question. For example – 'He went in', 'They will arrive soon', 'Why are you here?' Most verbs are in the Indicative mood.

Imperative – A verb in the Imperative mood gives a command or request. For example – 'Sit down,' 'Come', 'Pick up your mat!'

Subjunctive – A verb in the Subjunctive expresses a thought or wish rather than an actual fact: for example – 'Your will be done', 'I may go', 'If I were you.'

Moods of infinite verbs<sup>6</sup>

Infinitive – The Infinitive is a verbal noun, expressing in a noun the action of the verb generally. It is normally preceded in English by 'to'. For example – 'I want to learn', 'I love to sing'. The fact that the Infinitive is a verbal noun is made clear by the fact that 'to learn' or 'to sing' in the examples could be replaced with a noun – 'I want a drink', 'I love water.' The fact that it is a verbal noun is shown by the fact that the Infinitive can have its own object – 'I want to learn a language', 'I love to sing the national anthem.'

Participle – The participle is a verbal adjective, expressing in an adjective the action of the verb generally. In English there are two participles – an Active participle ending in -ing (e.g. singing, drinking) and a Passive participle normally ending in -ed (e.g. loved, cooked). In English participles are mainly used in the formation of the various tenses (e.g. I am singing). Greek participles are rarely used in this way. In English they can also be used simply as adjectives, for example – 'I saw the singing policeman', 'You are my loved son', 'I ate the cooked fish.' Greek uses participles extensively in this way.

10. Gender

There is no concept of grammatical gender in English. If a word refers to a male it is considered masculine and hence will use the masculine pronouns he, him and his. If it refers to a female it is considered feminine and hence will use the feminine pronouns she, her and hers. Otherwise it is considered neuter and will use the neuter pronouns it and its. This means that every noun that is not referring to a person or animal is considered neuter.<sup>7</sup> This approach of reflecting real gender in the pronoun used has its difficulties, in particular when referring to people whose gender is unknown (e.g. in the sentence 'I am going to see my new doctor, I hope that *** will be helpful') or in referring to entities seen as people (and therefore not neuter) but not gendered (e.g. 'I believe in the Holy Spirit. *** is a gift from God').

Greek is different. As in many European languages, the idea of gender is used in Greek to define different patterns of words. Thus, speaking very roughly, a third of Greek words are said to be 'masculine' words, a third 'feminine' and a third 'neuter'. Naturally, those words that do refer to males will be masculine, but in addition thousands of words which to an English speaker are neuter are also 'masculine' – e.g. field, river, heaven. Similarly words such as sword, hope and power are 'feminine' in Greek. Thus it is important when learning Greek to understand that references to gender will normally be references to 'grammatical gender', i.e. which pattern of words the word in question belongs to, rather than implying something about its real or natural gender (as if Greeks thought of a river as a male thing, and a sword as a female thing).

Parsing guide

When reading a language, you can often understand a sentence without working out precisely every grammatical form within it. This is to be encouraged – after all you do not normally analyse the grammar of a sentence in your own language. However, when you are just starting out, or if a sentence is particularly difficult, or if there is a complicated exegetical argument about its meaning, you will need to parse each word and then very precisely fit together the meaning of the sentence.

	Adjective	Verb
Noun	Pronoun Article	Indicative Imperative	Infinitive	Participle
		Subjunctive

Hint

Parsing a word means explaining its grammatical form. For example, τov is the accusative masculine singular of the definite article. What information you need to given when parsing depends on the type of word you are parsing.

The table on page 250 sets out what pieces of information you should give when parsing, and gives an example (in italics).

Notes

- It is not strictly necessary to give the gender of a noun, because for any given noun it cannot change. However, your teacher may encourage you to state the gender of nouns when parsing to help you ensure that you make any articles or adjectives correctly agree with it.
- The Middle and Passive often share the same endings. In these cases, from a grammatical point of view all you can say is that it is 'middle or passive'; the meaning of the rest of the sentence should make clear which it is.
- Sometimes a form can be one of several options. In these cases, give all the options. For example, ἀγαθου is masculine or neuter, genitive, singular.
- It can be helpful to say 'deponent' or 'middle deponent' when parsing a deponent verb such as ἐρχομαι.
  - The augment (È) can only occur when a verb is in the Indicative therefore if a verb has the augment, it must be in the Indicative.
  - The Imperative and Infinitive only occur (except extremely rarely) in the Present and the Aorist.
  - The participle only occurs (except extremely rarely) in the Present, Aorist or Perfect.

• When parsing verbs, look for the distinctive patterns:

- Watch out for compound verbs, and verbs which begin with vowels.
- A participle is parsed as a combination of an adjective and a verb.

Principal parts

- Refer back to Chapter 18, section 18.4 (page 207) for guidance on how to construct any part of a verb from its principal parts.
- Notice that various verbs use the  $-\varepsilon \omega$  endings in the future. These are given here in their uncontracted form for clarity (i.e. the future of  $\beta \alpha \lambda \lambda \omega$  is given as  $\beta \alpha \lambda \varepsilon \omega$ , although this will contract to  $\beta \alpha \lambda \hat{\omega}$ ).

Time expressions

Time expressions do not normally use prepositions.

Time word +

accusative:	Time 'how long'	δυο ήμερας	for two days genitive:	Time 'during'	της νυκτος	during the night
dative:	Time 'at which'	ἐκεινῃ τῃ ἡμερợ	on that day

Notes

- In practice in the New Testament ἐν is often used together with the dative for time 'at which' – ἐν ἐκεινῃ τῃ ἡμερα – on that day.
- Generally when words such as 'during', 'while', 'when' or 'after' occur in English, they would be communicated in Greek by the correct tense of the participle ('during' and 'while' Present; 'when' and 'after' Aorist).

Index of sources from which the sentences are derived

As explained on page 5 a balance had to be struck in the design of the sentences. On the one hand, their purpose is to practise the grammar and vocabulary learnt in a particular chapter. On the other hand it is desirable for them to be taken from the New Testament, both because this helps you see that the goal of reading the New Testament in Greek is being achieved, and because you need to build up your ability to read real Greek, not made-up sentences. Balancing these two, while keeping the promise that you would not be expected to cope with Greek that has not yet been explained to you, has not always been easy.

The principle that has been followed is that, whenever possible, sentences have been based on the New Testament but altered to suit the learning need. The list below cross-references the sentences and the Bible passages on which they have been based. This will allow you to check the original sources as a way of getting into using a Greek New Testament, and so you can understand why occasionally the Greek sentences don't appear to follow all the rules.
